U. S. REVERSES POLICY; AGREES TO BAN ON SUBS

Warning of Advisers Is Ignored.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The American delegation, it was learned tonight, will give unqualified support to the British thesis for abolition of the submarine at the plenary session of the five power naval conference tomorrow. This attitude will represent one of the most signal concessions made by the United States to the British viewpoint on naval limitation since the Washington conference, when the American delegation presented reasons why the submarine is of utmost value to the American scheme of national defense.

Prime Minister MacDonald will open the plenary session with an argument for outlawing the submarine, the use of which by the Germans in the world war drove Great Britain to desperate pass. He will be followed by American Secretary of State Stimson, who will support the British argument, but will submit as an alternative to abolition a proposition for radical reduction in the number of underseas craft and the outlawry of their use against merchant ships.

Quotes Advisory Committee.

The winning of America to advocacy of abolishing submarines is one of the outstanding accomplishments of British statesmanship in the last decade. At the Washington conference former Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, while urging measures to prohibit the ruthless employment of the submarine against merchant ships, refused to agree to abolition of this weapon and cited the report of the American advisory committee on its defense value to America. With reference to the position of Great Britain, the American advisory committee said:

"A nation possessing a great merchant marine protected by a strong surface navy naturally does not desire the added threat of submarine warfare brought against it. This is particularly the case if that nation gains a livelihood through overseas commerce. If the surface navy of such a nation was required to leave its home waters it would be greatly to its advantage if the submarine threat was removed.

"On the other hand, if a nation has not a large merchant marine, but is dependent upon sea borne commerce, it would be necessary to carry the war to it. It would be very natural for that nation to desire a large submarine force to protect the approaches to sea and to attack troop transports, supply ships, etc., of the enemy.

Value of Subs.

"Control of the surface of the sea by an attacking power would not eliminate it from constant exposure to loss by submarine attacks. Submarines acting legitimately from basis in our distant possessions would harass and greatly disturb any enemy attempting operations against them. They might even delay the fall of these possessions until our fleet could assemble and commence major operations.

"It will impose on our fleet the duty of protecting our two long coast lines properly at all times. Submarines located at bases along both coasts would be able to use it as scouts and could attack at any one, or by who should desire to make raids on exposed positions. Retention of a large submarine force may at some future time result in the United States holding its outlying possessions.

"If these colonies once fall, the expenditure of men necessary to recapture them would be tremendous and may result in a drawn war which would really be a United States defeat. The United States needs a large submarine force to protect its interests."

New Stand Unexplained.

Why the American government repudiated this statement of its need for submarines for adequate national defense and adopted the British stand for abolition of the weapon has never been explained.

THE TRIBUNE'S exclusive report of suppressed portions of Mr. Stimson's memorials, including the desire of the United States to build a new battleship in order to achieve capital ship parity, was confirmed today at the headquarters of the American delegation. Mr. Stimson, however, declined to explain why he suppressed this proposal in his public summary last week.

The Japanese are up in arms over the proposition. They assert that they will never consent to scrap one battleship, as Mr. Stimson proposes, while the United States is allowed to build a new one, even though the plan provides for America scrapping four of its older ships.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Representative Schafer (Rep., Wis.) said tonight he would demand a congressional investigation of prohibition administration in the Chicago district.

Yeast, hitherto regarded as an innocent ingredient of bread, came under the prohibition ban yesterday in indictments made public in Springfield which named the Fleischmann Yeast company and the Corn Products Refining company as corporation conspirators against the dry law. They are charged with furnishing large shipments of yeast and corn sugar to illicit distillers.

The corporations are named along with a nondescript group of minor bootleggers who bought the yeast, allegedly with the full knowledge of the accused companies that their products would be used illegally.

Last night in Chicago, New York, and other cities officials of the companies stated emphatically that they sold only to reputable concerns and denied that they had entered the bootleg trade, either directly or indirectly.

May Hit More Concerns.

Other yeast manufacturing concerns in the central states probably will follow the Fleischmann company and Corn Products Refining company as liquor defendants, United States Attorney Walter M. Provine of Springfield predicted.

"For the last few years," Mr. Provine said, "we have heard the cry to get the higher-ups. This is our answer. When we are through with this case we will have a precedent for the treatment of firms charged with supplying materials for the manufacture of alcohol."

The indictment of the two companies is regarded as a test case to determine if the federal authorities may prevent distillers from obtaining such necessary ingredients as yeast and corn sugar.

Cites Sugar Shipments.

Deputy Prohibition Administrator James Eaton of Springfield declared, it was reported, that the Corn Products Refining company had shipped 200 carloads of corn sugar from its plants in the St. Louis and Peoria districts which found their way into bootleg stills. Prohibition officials indicated that the shipments had been made under fictitious names or to officials of companies who later transferred them to bootleggers.

No officials of the concerns are named in the true bills, Provine said.

While he said that he knew no details of the indictment, J. L. Butler, general manager of the Chicago plant of the Corn Products Refining company, asserted last night that his company maintained a strict policy of dealing only with legitimate concerns. He said he was confident no corn sugar had been shipped to bootleggers from the Chicago plant. The company also has plants at Pekin, near Peoria, and at Kansas City.

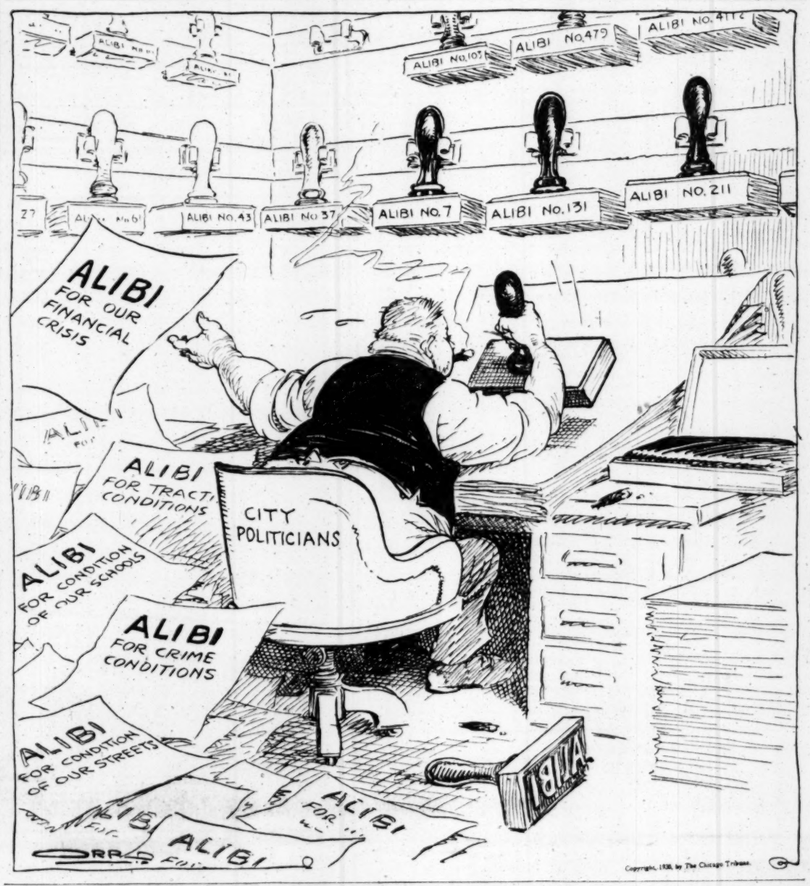
BUSY DAYS AT THE CITY HALL



OWNER OF STORE KILLS ROBBER, WOUNDS ANOTHER

When the proprietor, Elmer Belgium, saw two of the four Negroes with pistols, he promptly raised his hands. The bandit leader, with an eye to possible witnesses outside, ordered Belgium to put his hands behind his back.

Belgium obeyed and was being backed to his living quarters in the rear when, from behind the portieres his wife, Laura, handed him a pistol. Belgium fired six shots to the bandits' one, and they fled.

Twenty minutes later a taxicab reached the Wilson hospital with the body of Louis Davis, 16 years old, 5669 Prairie avenue, who had a bullet in his heart, and Milton Turner, 3645 Rhodes avenue, who was shot in the right arm. Turner admitted participation in the robbery and named his other companions, whom police are seeking.

RAID $3,000,000 HOTEL; JAIL 13; ASK PADLOCK

New York, Feb. 10.—[Special.]—The Hotel Manger, one of the largest, newest, and most elaborate in the city, and a center of the theatrical district, was raided tonight by 25 federal agents under the orders of Maj. Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator.

Thirteen men were arrested, of whom eleven were bellboys and other hotel employés. The other two were said to be professional bootleggers operating in the hotel. Warrants were out for eight other bellboys, it was learned, and they were being sought at their homes.

The raid, Maj. Campbell announced, had been in preparation several weeks by agents whom he had stationed in the hotel. The evidence obtained, he said, would be used in nuisance proceedings against the hotel management with the object of having the entire hotel, a 20 story building costing more than $3,000,000, padlocked from top to bottom.

Young Red Tries to Kill President of Esthonia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Feb. 10.—An attempt was made to assassinate the Esthonian president, Oscar Strandmann, here this afternoon by a young communist. President Strandmann was returning from Warsaw university, where an honorary degree had been conferred upon him, when the communist jumped on his auto. Police, riding along side, seized him and found he was armed with a revolver.

Crowds Watch 3 in Fire Trap Leap 8 Floors

Two coolly desperate men and a panic stricken young woman leaped successfully to fire nets last evening from the eighth floor of the Gunther building, 1018 South Wabash avenue, in sight of thousands of gasping spectators.

Eight persons, including three women, had been driven out upon a narrow stone ledge by a smoke belching blaze in a pillow factory on the seventh floor. The drop from the ledge to the pavement is ninety feet.

Five of the eight, heeding the pleas of firemen, clung to their perch until help reached them. These made a perilous descent to safety on unsteady scaling ladders.

Broker Lands Safely.

Joseph Sandman, a film broker, 50 years old, who weighs 150 pounds, was the first to jump. He struck squarely in the center of one of the five nets stretched below and suffered only a slight wrench to his left shoulder. He was sleeping soundly last night at his home, 1246 North Irving avenue, his family said, when reporters called to get his story.

The second jumper, Miss Marguerite Payne, 25 years old, 7217 Bennett avenue, suffered a fractured left leg as she struck the net feet foremost. On the rebound her heel struck a gash in the cheek of August Erickson of the Y. M. C. A. hotel, a volunteer net holder, while her body, glancing off the shoulder of another volunteer, Ralph De Butch, a cab driver of 1259 South Halsted street, fractured his collarbone.

All three were taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Third Lands Unscratched.

The last to leap was Cecil McDonough, 32 years old, office manager for the Bland Brothers film exchange, where Miss Payne is employed and which Sandman was visiting when the fire broke out. McDonough's weight is 195 pounds.

"Not a bruise or a scratch," he said afterwards. "I landed sitting. If Miss Payne hadn't closed her eyes when she jumped, and had fallen straight instead of tumbling over and over, I don't believe she'd have been hurt either."

Battalion Chief Michael Kerwin declared that in his opinion an eighth story leap to a life net is highly hazardous. In his 39 years of experience he said he had never seen a successful jump to a life net from any story above the fourth. Life nets are a last resort and a doubtful one at best, he said, in upholding the action of his men in cautioning against the leap.

The five who heeded the firemen and clambered down on scaling ladders were Philip Bland, one of the owners of the film exchange; James Miller, on out-of-town film distributor; Miss Mary Yates, 18 years old, 1303 South Harding avenue; Mrs. Rebecca Hornstein, 22 years old, 4931 Keystone avenue, and Miss Jeanette Grossman, 18 years old, 1924 West Division street.

The blowing of an electric fuse on a pillow-stuffing machine in the factory of the Thompson-Thorne company, touched off the blaze which spread almost instantly through the litter of cotton, hair, and down on the floor and enveloped the whole room. Fifty girl employés of the factory scampered down inner stairways and a fire escape, but had no time to warn those on the floor above.

Indict Gunmen, Plea of Judge to Grand Jury

BULLETIN.

At midnight the police, continuing their policy of harassing hoodlums, had arrested 710 men since the showup on Sunday night. Included among the prisoners were five gun toters. Only thirteen robberies were reported during the 24 hours ending at midnight.

Of the 710 arrested 214 were sent to the bureau of identification. Of these 65 had criminal records and 40 had been fingerprinted before. The five charged with carrying guns are Steve Cash of Connersville, Ind.; Harry Jenka, 138 South Kenilworth avenue, Elmhurst; Nicholas Rasko, 34 West Huron street; John Tubutes, 10711 Wabash avenue; and John Rivans, 334 East 115th street.

Judge John P. McGoorty became acting chief justice of the criminal court yesterday and immediately started action intended to do what the Sullivan law did in New York—put fear into the heart and flight into the mind of the gunman or put his person into prison.

Police Commissioner Russell, State's Attorney Swanson, and Acting Detective Chief Egan had agreed upon an unremitting campaign against gunmen crooks and Judge McGoorty gave them their most powerful weapon, the power of the grand jury. Chief Egan and Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne had investigated all of the 1,000 arrests of Saturday and Sunday and had found 15 cases where they believed the evidence would justify indictments for carrying concealed weapons.

Gives Charge to Jurors.

Judge McGoorty called the grand jurors into his courtroom. He had conferred with Prosecutor Swanson and Commissioner Russell and he had his charge to the jurors ready.

"The series of murders occurring in Chicago during the last two weeks has crystallized public opinion in favor of a most vigorous action in stamping out crime in this city as far as is humanly possible," he told them. "While there may be a greater degree of lawlessness in other American cities, Chicago is popularly known as the most lawless.

"It should be frankly recognized that crimes of violence in Chicago have become so numerous and committed so brazenly as to present a serious challenge to organized government.

Police Accept Challenge.

"That challenge has been accepted by the police department during the last few days in causing the wholesale arrest of persons carrying concealed firearms on their persons. This response to public demand and the call of duty must continue to manifest itself until every known criminal is either apprehended and convicted for such offense or driven from Chicago.

"I have long considered the most important and effective method of ridding Chicago of crimes of violence was vigorously enforcing the law in regard to carrying concealed wepons. Any person found guilty of violation of this statute may be punished by a fine of not more than $300, or imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment.

"Such punishment is also applicable to any person who gives to another with intent to use the same, unlawfully, any deadly weapon. Whoever has been convicted of murder, robbery, burglary, or assault with intent to commit a felony and shall within five years thereafter violate either of these provisions of the statutes, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary from one to ten years.

AGREES TO MEET STRAWN; HOPE FOR CASH SOON

Work Out Details of Conference Today.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Hope appeared yesterday for the first time since Chicago slipped knee-deep in the financial mire.

Mayor Thompson was persuaded to pocket his dignity and confer, by proxy, with the Strawn citizens' committee on financial relief for the local governments. The mayor's refusal to cooperate with the Strawn committee has been holding up tax loan negotiations. Now Thompson has agreed to have his subordinates negotiate with a subcommittee of the Strawn group. Mr. Strawn, in New York, consented yesterday noon by long distance phone.

May Meet Today.

The first joint meeting will be held today or tomorrow, depending on the rapidity with which two details in the tentative arrangement are ironed out. Mr. Strawn will arrive back in Chicago this morning and then the complete arrangements will be made as soon as possible. Under the tentative plan the conferees will be:

For the mayor: Samuel A. Ettelson, corporation counsel; Lewis E. Myers, school trustee, and George K. Schmidt, city controller.

For the Strawn committee: Silas H. Strawn; E. R. Graham, architect, and Robert Carr, president of the Dearborn Chemical company.

It was planned to have four on each side, but Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the council finance committee, is on a vacation down in Florida. If he returns he will be added by Mayor Thompson to the committee. In that event D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, will be added to the Strawn committee.

Caldwell Out of Picture.

It will be noted that no chair has been reserved in the conference for H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board. He had planned to return, with School Tax Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan, from New York yesterday, but it was suggested to him that he continue hunting millions in New York until Wednesday or later.

The agreement to confer does not mean that cash will be ready after the first session, but it is expected that eventually funds will be obtained. If there is a complete accord—which is not anticipated—and everything works perfectly—which is not expected—it would be four or five days, it is said, before a full agreement would be reached.

By the end of this week the local governments will be in arrears to 43,836 public employés to the tune of $13,760,568.

The whole significance of the plan at this stage is that there is an agreement to confer on means and conditions of raising funds, and probably on the way they shall be spent. But it has taken more than two months to get to this point.

Myers Persuades Mayor.

Mr. Myers, newly appointed school trustee, is credited with having made the arrangement. He called on Mayor Thompson after Caldwell went to New York in pursuit of a school tax loan.

At first the mayor balked. He is said to have asserted that he would whip the reformers and loop property owners if it took the remainder of his term in office.

"But the employés cannot go without money that long," Myers is said to have argued, while the mayor kept asking why he should confer with "those white livered reformers who have tried to wreck my administration."

Just as persistently Myers is said to have repeated: "The Strawn committee has the avenue to the money."

An Answer to Ettelson.

At one of the conferences Corporation Counsel Ettelson is reported to have said: "We'll have to deal with the man with the money. If Strawn is the only man who has a call on the cash, we'll have to deal with Strawn; but who says he is the only man with the money?"

"I do," snapped back Myers. "If you say that some one else has the money, go out and get it."

The mayor is said to have asserted many times that he would never stand for the present valuations on the loop real estate. Myers suggested that the mayor go ahead and fight, adding that Mr. Strawn would never ask the mayor to drop this battle and he did not think that any other member of the Strawn committee would make such a request. He also predicted that Strawn would criticize the mayor and

Mayor Demands Preponderance.

After the mayor got to the point where he was willing to consider conferring with Strawn, he wanted a majority of the committee. That was phoned to Mr. Strawn Sunday morning in New York.

"The mayor can have more representatives than there will be representatives for the citizens' committee," Mr. Strawn is said to have replied. "He can have twice as many. It is not how many are on each side, but whether each side will agree that waste shall be curbed and legislation shall be obtained to prevent a recurrence of the present conditions."

The mayor then asked that certain members of the Strawn committee be barred from conferring with city representatives. Then he wanted the Strawn conferees named from six members which he himself would select. Myers phone Strawn again, and Strawn is said to have replied:

"The mayor does not seem to understand that there must be an agreement which will satisfy the property owners, if they put up the cash, regardless of who is on the committee. I do not think it is possible to get citizens to put up money unless they have assurances, satisfactory to them, that the money will not be wasted. And they will also demand that legislation be obtained to prevent a recurrence. They have to be satisfied on that, otherwise they are just putting more money in the trough. Let the mayor name six, if it will please him."

So the agreement to confer was reached.

What Thompson Faces.

Apparently the mayor does not know how far he must give in to get the cash. Probably the first thing will be the discarding of Corporation Counsel Ettelson's views on a valid appropriation and tax levy. Unquestionably a demand will be made for an agreement to get the state legislature to validate the 1928, 1929, and 1930 corporate tax levies of the city.

It is claimed by the Strawn committee that the probable tax collections will be insufficient to pay principal and interest on the 1928 and 1929 tax anticipation warrants. The 1930 corporate budget was juggled around so much that the bankers believe that the only safe road is to get legislative validation.

It is considered probable that the mayor's representatives will be asked to agree to a law which will abolish tax anticipation warrants altogether, also a law which will put Chicago on a cash basis. This probably means a bond issue without a referendum. It will also be proposed that short time loans be prohibited, except in case of a catastrophe. Then the city would be permitted to issue "corporate stock" with the full credit of the city back of it, but limited in amount to 50 per cent of the succeeding year's taxes.

In addition the city will be asked to make it a criminal offense for any public official to start the community again towards present conditions.

The Strawn committee has had a staff of economists, professors and other experts at work for seven weeks on remedial legislation.

Indirectly Gov. Emmerson told Mayor Thompson that he would work with the Strawn committee. The governor's message was in reply to a letter from the policemen asking for legislative relief. The governor said that he was doing all he could to solve the problem, "which will require the united efforts of officials and citizenry" to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion.

The payment of $13,760,586 in past due salaries to relieve the distress of 43,836 public employés is the outstanding emergency problem which confronts the citizens' committee and the public officials who have agreed to cooperate in financing the local governments in their crisis. The following table shows the total pay rolls which will be due on Feb. 15:

Employés.	Number.	Unpaid salaries.
City police	6,715	$ 2,093,144
City firemen	2,689	897,324
M. T. sanitorium	960	192,000
Other city workers	8,596	2,934,537
School teachers	16,020	3,805,605
School secretaries	375	54,000
School engineers	2,782	820,000
Other school workers	1,037	234,608
County employés	3,862	1,508,350
County nurses	800	1,221,000
Totals	43,836	$13,760,586

During the period that the above salaries have been overdue 8,000 other public employés have been receiving their regular pay, totaling $1,760,905. These 8,000 more fortunate workers are employed by the Lincoln, West, and South parks systems, the public library, the sanitary district, and the city's street repairs and water departments.

COUNTY SUPPLIES FOOD

Cook county began yesterday issuing food, clothing, shoes, coal and milk to county employés in urgent need because they have not been paid since Dec. 15.

The plan was inaugurated by President Cermak of the county board as a means of bridging over the period until cash can be obtained. The county carries large supplies for so-called "outdoor relief," and has contracts for the supply of foods and clothing until March 31.

Must Repay When Paid.

The needy employés who take advantage of this relief plan engage to repay the county for the supplies they draw when they obtain their salaries.

"Effective at once and continuing until the present emergency is past," reads the notice to all department heads from Joseph L. Moss, "the Cook county bureau of public welfare will issue, on a loan basis, supplies, including food, milk, shoes and coal, to county employés who are in need."

In order to obtain the relief the department head must send form letter to Mr. Moss recommending the employé for aid, which is limited to $25 on the first call. Upon presentation of this letter at 1903 West Polk street he can obtain what he needs from the county's supplies.

The county was not the only local government which remains without cash on which to operate.

The unpaid salaries of public employes are growing daily. Many are approaching financial straits, and in the city hall and county building the employes are disgruntled and spending much time loafing. The morale has been impaired and the service is on the down grade.

County employes have not been paid since Dec. 15 and the school teachers since Dec. 23. The county has failed to pay for its hospital nursing service since last March, and thousands of other employés have not been paid since Jan. 1.

The city prevailed upon several creditors yesterday to accept tax anticipation warrants in lieu of cash, so that the complete list now is as follows:

Creditor.	Tax Warrants.
John T. Ward & Co., printing	$ 17,500
Electric Ind. Sales Co., electricity	80,000
Hetzel & Co., foods	3,000
Fred Klein, printing	7,000
Fred J. Ringley & Co., printing	50,000
M. Huber, Inc., ash removal	40,000
Total	$197,500

A mixed situation in tax assessing was presented yesterday. The tax officials, state and local, promised Gov. Emmerson that 1928 tax collections will be started by June 1. Harry S. Cutmore, the appraiser who valued all real estate in Cook county, predicted July 1 as the date of collection yesterday to the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association.

With July 1 as the probable start on collections, Mr. Cutmore predicted that 1929 taxes will not be collected until six months after the 1928 taxes were garnered in. He also said that it would be impracticable to collect 1930 taxes until six months after 1929 are collected.

Protest in Kenilworth.

One hundred and fifty Kenilworth taxpayers met at the call of Kenilworth village officials in the Kenilworth school last night to discuss reassessment. The consensus was that Kenilworth had received unfair treatment from the realty appraisers. Manager F. S. Streed declaring that Kenilworth's assessed valuation had been increased from $2,700,000 to $6,000,000 while other villages had been granted a decrease. A committee will be formed at a future meeting to take steps for readjustment of the appraisal before the board of review.

Girl Dies of Poison; Was Despondent Over Poverty

Miss Suella Cammick, 26 years old, 1166 North Dearborn street, died last night at the Columbus Memorial hospital from poison which she swallowed early yesterday while despondent because of her poverty. She was found unconscious in the bathroom of their flat by Miss Doris Smith, 24 years old, her roommate, and was taken to the hospital by the Chicago avenue police.

Mail Pilot in Record Hop to Cleveland in 94 Minutes

$253,000 SCHOOL JOB TO BE GIVEN TO VIRGIL COATH

Trustees' Committees OK Awarding of Contract.

Two committees of school trustees yesterday approved the awarding of a $253,000 contract for general construction work on the new Volta school to Coath & Goss, contractors. Virgil Coath, son of J. Lewis Coath, former president of the board of education, is a partner in the company.

Less than a year ago, young Coath was charged by a former supervising architect for the board with being responsible for the faulty construction of twelve school buildings erected only four years ago. Several of these buildings have been closed as being dangerous.

The committee's action is not final, but it was indicated that the board would concur in the recommendation at next week's meeting. Asked whether they would approve giving the contract to young Coath, who reaped a harvest off school board building contracts when his father was president of the board, several trustees replied, "Why not? His bid is low and there does not appear to be anything irregular."

School to Cost $430,000.

The total cost of the twenty-two room Volta school, which is to be situated at Argyle street and North Avers avenue, is estimated at $430,000. Coath's bid was nearly $8,000 lower than the next bidder, the S. N. Neilsen company.

According to Paul Gerhardt, school board architect, the general work includes all masonry, concrete, cut stone, iron, roofing and carpentry work.

The name of Virgil Coath is almost as prominent in school board history as that of his father. In 1925 and 1926 he was district superintendent in charge of construction and inspection on the north side for the school board. During that time the 32 defective schools, now being investigated, were built. They deteriorated rapidly, due, it was alleged, to careless design, construction and inspection.

Young Coath and his father named a supervising architect as being responsible for the faulty construction of twelve of the schools on the north side. The architect declared he was removed from authority after completing the designs and that the blame lay with those who had carried out his plans.

Quits School Board Job.

Shortly after the election of Mayor Thompson the Harvey A. Hanson Construction company was organized and young Coath resigned his school board job to become treasurer of the new company. A month later, on May 25, 1927, J. Lewis Coath was appointed by the mayor to head the school board.

During the next year the Hanson company was given several large contracts, one of more than a million dollars. Early in 1928, however, a coalition group of trustees defeated the efforts of the elder Coath to swing a $1,600,000 contract to his son's company. Later the board awarded several contracts, for which Coath was the low bidder, to the second low bidder.

Soon afterward the Hanson Construction company announced the resignation of Coath as treasurer. Last fall it was revealed that young Coath was senior member of Coath & Goss which had gone into the business of building libraries, having been given several contracts by the library board.

Willie Doody's Father Held as Resort Keeper

James Doody, 63 years old, father of Willie Doody, the gunman, who is under a death sentence for the murder of Police Chief Charles Levy of Berwyn, was arrested yesterday at his flat at 107 South Laflin street on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. Three women, one of whom the police followed into the flat, were arrested with the elder Doody when the police found a large quantity of beer in the place.

RADICALS FIGHT HUGHES AS CHIEF JUSTICE OF U. S.

But Senate Committee Reports Nomination.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Senate radicals today opened fire on Charles Evans Hughes but without any hope of preventing confirmation of his appointment by President Hoover as chief justice of the supreme court of the United States. Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], chairman of the judiciary committee, reported the Hughes nomination to the senate late today, the committee having approved it this morning by a vote of 10 to 2. Senator Norris, who, with another radical member of the committee, Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], voted in the negative, read a statement to the senate explaining that he is opposed to the appointment because "no man in public life so exemplifies the influence of powerful combinations in the political and financial world as does Mr. Hughes."

Wants to See Doctor's Certificate.

Immediate action was blocked by Senator Cole Blease [Dem., S. C.], who, a few days ago, told the senate that the President should be requested to reappoint William Howard Taft as chief justice. Senator Blease, on being urged by Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader, to withdraw his objection to immediate consideration of the nomination, said he would not do so, as he wishes to see a doctor's certificate tomorrow morning. It was the understanding that the South Carolina senator desires to ascertain whether Mr. Taft's illness is as serious as represented. The expectation is that the Hughes appointment will be confirmed tomorrow with only a handful of radicals voting against it.

Senator Norris offered two "fundamental reasons why his appointment and confirmation is unwise." The first was the fact that Mr. Hughes resigned from the Supreme court to become a candidate for President of the United States, and, after his political ambitions failed of realization, is returned to the court.

The second related to Mr. Hughes' connections with big business and his views on questions having to do with large combinations of wealth.

Influence of Combinations.

"I freely concede that a judge has an honorable right to leave the bench of the judiciary and enter into political life," said Senator Norris. "But, after he has made the campaign for a higher political office, he might not to be, by political power, get back again on the bench which he voluntarily left to enter the political world.

"Perhaps it is not far amiss to say that no man in public life so exemplifies the influence of powerful combinations in the political and financial world as does Mr. Hughes," continued Senator Norris. "Without charging Mr. Hughes in any way with being dishonest or unconscientious, it is only fair to say that when a man lives his kind of a life, his practice brings him wealthy clients and monopolistic corporations seeking special governmental favor. It is reasonable to expect that these influences have become a part of the man. His viewpoint is clouded. He looks through glasses contaminated by the influence of money, as it seeks to get favors by means which are denied to the common, ordinary citizen."

The senate judiciary committee had before it letters from Henry L. Doherty of New York, public utility and oil executive, protesting against the appointment of Mr. Hughes on numerous grounds. Mr. Doherty clashed with Mr. Hughes when the latter appeared as counsel for the American Petroleum institute before the federal oil conservation board. Mr. Hughes at that time challenged the power of the government to control oil production, on behalf of leading oil producers of the country, while Mr. Doherty took issue with their position.

Letter from Doherty.

"I am one of probably a great many people in this country who cannot indorse the President's appointment of Judge Hughes," said Mr. Doherty, in one of his letters. "I feel that no justice of the Supreme court should resign to run for political office, nor should he capitalize into wealth the prestige and influence acquired by the honor done him by his appointment; and if he does do this he should neither expect nor receive reappointment, and certainly not advancement to the position of chief justice."

"I am fearful of the influence which may govern Judge Hughes and I specially fear what may result from his own self-assurance," said Mr. Doherty. "I have watched Judge Hughes with much interest for more than a quarter of a century, and while he is unmatched in his appearance and can advocate his position, whether right or wrong, with great poise and in a very impressive manner, nevertheless I feel that he has neither the judgment, courage, nor freedom from political and personal bias, to render his decisions in accord with facts and to have them free from personal favoritism and prejudice.

Jury Decides Novotny Has License to Practice Law

MORRIS STUMPS PARIS LAWYERS IN FEUD WITH WIFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The matrimonial war between Col. Nelson Morris of Chicago and his French bride, Jeanne Aubert, the music hall star, had an initial hearing before the courts today and resulted in a partial victory for the Chicagoan. Col. Morris is suing the Palace Music hall for $8,000 damages because they permitted his wife to star in the French version of the American revue "Good News" without his consent.

When the attorneys for Col. Morris appeared in court today they were confronted with a demand by the defense counsel that Col. Morris deposit $4,000 with the court under the law requiring foreigners to post a forfeit. The usual sum is around $200.

The attorneys for Col. Morris declined to argue the amount of forfeit, surprising the court and defense alike by calmly posting $4,000. There was no other alternative except to set the date for the trial for Feb. 24.

File Declaration in False Arrest Suit Against Yarrow

The declaration of the $25,000 suit for false arrest brought by Walter Shaver, president of the Rent-a-Book corporation, against the Rev. Philip Yarrow, superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance association, was filed yesterday in the Superior court. Shaver was discharged by a jury in Municipal Judge Freeman Fairbank's court last month after he was arrested on the complaint of the Rev. Mr. Yarrow, charged with the sale of an obscene book, "A Night in a Moorish Harem."

PRINCESS LOSES EIGHTY DIAMONDS AT COURT BALL

Belgium Is Faced with a Royal Mystery.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Feb. 10.—Belgium's royal family spread itself all over the front pages of the little nation's newspapers today.

First of all, it was learned today that Princess Astrid had lost a huge pendant of 80 diamonds, four big square emeralds and eight small emeralds at the court ball Saturday night.

Although she was surrounded constantly by half a dozen courtiers and ladies in waiting, the valuable jewels disappeared without any one noticing it. The newspapers are carrying a royal request asking the finder to return the jewels to the palace.

Flemings Assail Royal House.

Item number two: Police and firemen at Antwerp played hide and seek with anti-monarchist Flemings when Crown Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid, visited that city today.

Flemish extremists voiced their disapproval of the Belgian government's attitude toward "oppressed Flemish culture" by hanging a five yard poster with an obnoxious inscription from the window of a building opposite the theater where the royal couple was attending the opera. When the police and firemen mounted ladders to take the poster down, the offenders drew it back out of reach and hung it out another window. The little game continued until the firemen began splashing icy water on the anti-monarchists.

Three Flemish extremists were arrested for calling the prince naughty names. Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid ignored the insults and bowed graciously to the crowd.

King Denies Fear of Revolt.

Item number three: King Albert granted universal suffrage to his reconquered nation after the armistice, but not because he felt his throne shaking underneath him and wished to escape the fate of the former kaiser or the Austrian emperor. The ruler made this clear today in an energetically worded letter to his prime minister, Henri Jaspar.

"When I granted universal suffrage to the Belgian nation and constituted a three party government I did not act under fears of a revolution," is the substance of the king's epistle. "To defend my dignity as a man, and as the head of the state, I want to point out that I knew the splendid, patriotic spirit of my country, and knew that no revolution was to be expected. Any rumors to the contrary to show that I was tricked into granting universal suffrage and into admitting even laborites into the government, lack truth."

STRIKE PEACE NEAR AFTER MAN DIES OF INJURIES IN RIOT

New York, Feb. 10.—[Special.]—The most turbulent day of the dressmakers' strike, which began with two riots involving left and right wing workers and an assault of an open shop manufacturer, who died from a fractured skull, ended this evening with a peaceful settlement of the dispute between the union and the "inside shop" manufacturers.

Unless unforeseen obstacles arise tomorrow the troublesome issues between the jobbers and the contractors are expected to be disposed of and by night a tentative agreement ending the strike of approximately 35,000 dressmakers may be announced.

The vanguard of the 7,000 employés of the Affiliated Dress Manufacturers, Inc. (the inside manufacturers) are expected, according to President Louis L. Schwartz, to be back at their machines by Thursday. The union will delay settlement with the independents and will carry on the strike against the open shop manufacturers, who have resisted demands for union recognition.

Twenty-three arrests were made by the police as an aftermath of the mass picketing demonstration, which, they estimated, involved 15,000 men and women.

The riots, in which knives were wielded and sawedoff billiard cues swung down on the heads of combatants, were alleged by the police to have been instigated by massed attacks by left wing and communist elements against the paraders, members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

The incident which resulted in the death of Jacob Rothenberg, an open shop dress manufacturer, grew out of a riot in front of a Broadway building. Rothenberg, a member of the firm of Anna Scheer-Rothenberg, Inc., suffered a fractured skull when he fell to the sidewalk after being struck on the jaw. Irving Ashkanas, a chauffeur, was locked up, charged with homicide.

SEIZE 2 POSING AS POLICE TO PUSH RACKETS

Two men who are charged with posing as policemen to further their alleged rackets were being held last night while police sought to learn how many business men they had victimized.

Bernard Kavanagh, 35 years old, a salesman, was arrested at 162 East Ontario street, after he is alleged to have swindled A. D. Plamondon, wealthy president of the Plamondon-Gabriel company, 307 North Michigan avenue, out of $25. Mr. Plamondon told the police that a man called him two weeks ago posing as Lieut. Thomas Moran of the traffic division and asked for a donation to a fund for the aid of police widows and orphans.

Mr. Plamondon wrote a check for $25 and the solicitor said he would send a man after it, advising him not to send it to the station. The check was cashed and on Saturday the solicitor called again. Mr. Plamondon became suspicious and notified the police.

The other man held is Paul Siegel, 34 years old, 8046 South Carpenter street, who, the police charge, sold memberships in the Illinois Police reserves to south side merchants, pretending that he would provide immunity from arrest.

POLICE ON ALERT FOR TONG WAR; ONE SLAIN IN N. Y.

Seven detective bureau squads and four flivver squads were ordered into the Chinese quarter here for special patrol duty early this morning following the murder in New York of Chin Hong, 32 years old, a member of the New York Hip Sing tong.

First intimations of possible trouble in the local Chinese quarter came from the Victory exchange of the telephone company. Chin Hong fell with five bullets in his body at 12:10 a. m., eastern time, in front of the Chinese theater in New York. During the next hour the Victory exchange, which covers the Chinese quarter here, was swamped with telephone calls from Chinese in New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco.

The chief operator at the Victory exchange notified Pekin Inn police. Lieut. Joseph Healy, night supervisor at the detective bureau, immediately ordered the squads on special patrol, although Tom Lee, head of the On Leong tong, declared, when seen by police, that he was informed the New York murder was the outcome of a personal feud and that no tong hostilities were contemplated.

MEXICO SEIZES RUSSIAN PAPERS IN EMBASSY RAID

Departing Envoy Nabbed in Vera Cruz.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Secret service agents last night raided the soviet legation here, made a thorough search of all of the papers of Alexander Makar, departing Russian minister, questioned the servants and arrested Juan Gonzalez, a house servant.

The commercial attache's office was not touched. Legation employes said that various papers, including many personal calling cards, were seized. They said the agents displayed credentials but did not show any written order for the search.

Rifle Envoy's Trunks.

Makar today sent a telegram to Mexico City correspondents declaring that he had been arrested and held for three hours at Vera Cruz, during which time the diplomatic seals on his trunks were broken and many papers taken out.

He said he was energetically protesting against "this unspeakable violation of diplomatic rights and this incredible assault by official persons against me as a diplomat."

Makar said that he and his wife and servant arrived in Vera Cruz Sunday morning and took rooms at the Hotel Imperial. They were told shortly by detectives that their presence was required at the railway station. When they returned to their hotel they found their baggage rifled.

Orders Documents Returned.

Foreign Minister Estrada tonight said he had ordered the papers and documents seized in Makar's luggage to be returned to him. Pointing out that the Russian legation here no longer enjoyed official status, he said that the Mexico City raid was the affair of the police and the department of the interior.

Makar is en route back to Russia as a consequence of rupture of Mexican-Russia relations after Mexican charges of soviet influence in communist demonstrations against the Mexican administration. He sailed tonight.

President Ortiz Rubio had so far recovered today from his wounds in the assassination attempt last Wednesday that he began attending the urgent part of his official business. Lieut. Col. Chazaro, his secretary, visited him in his sick room for this purpose.

The doctors report that his condition is very satisfactory, though a slight case of grip is bothering him.

JUDGE IGNORES BALKAN CASTE; DENIES DIVORCE

The caste system of Jugo-Slav Dalmatia was leveled to American standards of equality yesterday by Superior Judge Lewis when he denied the bill for divorce brought by Mrs. Marija Smajo and the cross-bill for divorce brought by her husband, Peter Smajo. The Smajos were married in 1912, shortly after Mrs. Smajo came to this country. She came from a Dalmatian sea coast family, while her husband's family came from the foothills.

Peter bought a home and saved $20,000. A year ago, at the insistence of his wife, he smuggled her brother, Anton Oetericivic, into America. When Peter tried to put Anton to work, the latter refused to do so, saying work was debasing to one of his status.

CALIFORNIA COUNTY FINDS NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IS BEST

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Leaders of industry asserting that the newspapers did more to bring about and maintain the prosperity of the country than any other single agency, the Alameda county board of supervisors decided to advertise nationally to bring people to Alameda county to live.

William J. Hamilton, chairman of the Alameda county board recently signed a contract authorizing the expenditure of $40,000 in newspapers, nearly all in metropolitan dailies east of the rockies.

A portion of this sum was set aside, however, for Alameda county papers "for the purpose of again telling residents of the county the advantages of the territory in which they now live."

"The American people today look to the great dailies for their news as well as for information," declared Supervisor Hamilton. "Why, then, shouldn't they also look to these same publications for new homes? Our 1930 advertising campaign will be given entirely to newspapers."

PROTECT JUDGE WHO CONDEMNED "WHIM SLAYER"

Guard Kerner Home After 3 Men Hunt Jurist.

The home of Judge Otto Kerner in River Forest is under a police guard, it was learned yesterday, as a result of threats made because the judge on Saturday sentenced August Vogel, "whim slayer," to the electric chair, despite a plea of guilty. Judge Kerner had broken what has become almost a criminal court tradition, that a plea of guilty void the death penalty.

Three men appeared at the judge's home, 1031 Ashland avenue, River Forest, Saturday night and inquired for him. Judge Kerner and his wife were attending a reception and Mrs. Kerner's mother was in charge of the house. She refused to open the door, but later she saw three men peering through the living room window.

The River Forest police were notified and a guard was placed at the Kerner home.

A threatening letter with a Minneapolis postmark was received yesterday. The letter obviously is the work of some crank or insane person and threatened the judge with death if Vogel is executed on April 18 as scheduled. The typewritten letter has no signature, but mentions a secret gang which is going to "kill all judges and lawyers that are unjustly prosecuting the inmates of state institutions."

Crippled Killer of Theater Ticket Taker Is Sentenced

Samuel Porcaro, 40 years old, legless cripple, who shot and killed Charles Bell, 70 years old, a ticket taker at the Gem theater, 450 South State street, was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 to 14 years by Judge Philip Finnegan of the Criminal court yesterday. The state was unable to prove a motive other than that Porcaro became angered because Bell had pushed him into line. Assistant State's Attorney John L. Murphy agreed to allow Porcaro to plead guilty to manslaughter because no motive could be proved and physicians said the defendant is a border line mental case.

NAVAL EXPERTS AGREE ON METHOD OF LIMITATION

Conference to Consider Compromise Today.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The five power naval conference got into high gear again today in preparation for the fourth plenary session tomorrow morning in St. James's palace. This session is for the express purpose of opening the submarine question. This, therefore, becomes the first category of ships to be laid formally before the conference for discussion.

The only other question which has been considered is the method of limitation upon which an agreement has been reached. The committee of experts has completed its work and its report is now being printed. It will be circulated tomorrow to all the delegations. A full meeting of the first committee has been called for Wednesday to consider this report which, it is stated, is a compromise between the British-American thesis for limitation by categories, and the French global tonnage thesis.

France to Submit New Plan.

Premier Tardieu of France, who arrived from Paris tonight, said that he is bringing with him a new French plan for submarines. Despite the British and American claims to the copyright on the humanization of submarine warfare, M. Tardieu is reported to have produced a version of this matter which evades infringement.

The chief difference is that the British-American plan would treat submarine commanders who sink merchant vessels, without providing for the safety of passengers and crews, as pirates, and would hang them from the yardarm when they are caught. The French plan is to hold not the officers but the governments as responsible.

"Everything Fine"—MacDonald.

Mr. MacDonald, answering a question put by former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, made a short statement today in the house of commons about the naval conferences. He said that things were going excellently, but that there is still a good deal of preparatory work to be done.

A summary of the British position had been given to the press, he said, as a result of the publication of a document giving in some detail the views of the American delegation. He wished to make clear, he explained, that the British document is purely British, and was not drawn up as an agreement with any other nation.

What Mr. MacDonald did not tell the house of commons was that Mr. Stimson did not publish the whole of the American proposals as they were formally laid before the prime minister, as revealed by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, when Mr. Stimson showed Mr. MacDonald the statement he intended to publish, the latter pointed out that it did not contain the proposal that America scrap an extra battleship and build a ship of the Rodney type as replacement. Mr. Stimson is said to have replied that this was done at the instance of President Hoover, who hoped eventually to get rid of this extra ship altogether.

In other words, President Hoover and Mr. Stimson had decided to fly a kite to test the American reaction, in the hope that it would not be violent and that the Rodney type ship might be dropped from the American program.

STIMSON BALKS NEW MAC DONALD BATTLESHIP COUP

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—At a meeting of the heads of the five naval conference delegations today at St. James's palace, Prime Minister MacDonald proposed that the conference proceed to a discussion of the battleship question. It is understood that this proposal met with a rather firm reply from American Secretary of State Stimson, who insisted there should be a complete settlement regarding cruisers before battleships were taken up. The reaction to Mr. Stimson's statement is said to have indicated that the Americans will have their way, at least so far as the formal proceedings go.

The London Times in an editorial tomorrow will assail the American proposal that the United States be permitted to build one new battleship of the Rodney type. The Times says such a ship would give the United States superiority in 16 inch guns to which the British admiralty will never consent.

"Such a conception of 'parity' cannot be taken seriously, and it may have been because the American delegation realized this that it was omitted from the summary they issued Thursday night," the Times adds.

SMALL BLAZE AT LOOP HOTEL.

Fire apparatus was called to the Great Northern hotel, Jackson boulevard and Dearborn street yesterday when a small fire, starting in a grease chute in the kitchen, swept up to the roof. The blaze was extinguished in a few minutes with negligible damage.

FRANCE REFUSES FLATLY TO GIVE UP SUBMARINES

Cites Old American Stand to Prove Point.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—With an unanimous vote of approval from the French cabinet tucked in his pocket, Premier Tardieu returned here this evening to hammer out a defense for submarines. Georges Leygues, French minister of marine, will champion this weapon of the sea at tomorrow's plenary session of the naval conference.

M. Leygues will reject the Anglo-American proposal for abolition of submersibles. He will stress the importance of subsea craft as a modern weapon for powers seeking to safeguard themselves and their coasts from attack. He will cite the official American opinion prior to 1922 in support of the French thesis, recalling that the United States refused the British suggestion to suppress submarines during the Washington conference of 1921.

Cites Hoover Statement.

He will cite statements by Theodore Roosevelt Jr., President Hoover and Samuel Gompers, all of whom expressed views that submarines in the present circumstances cannot be abolished.

Turning to the question of humanizing undersea operations, M. Leygues will state that France is always willing and anxious to eliminate barbarities, unnecessary cruelties and ruthlessness in all forms of warfare.

M. Leygues will illustrate, however, the sudden, unwarned, death dealing qualities of other agents of war as parallels to submarine tactics. He will cite smoke screen attacks, poison gas operations, airplane and airship raids, long range bombardments on sea as well as on land, shelling of open towns, etc.

M. Leygues will propose that governments be held responsible for transgressions of submarine commanders against the pact, but will reject any attempt to have such commanders treated as pirates.

M. Leygues will propose that the whole question of submarine operations against merchantmen should be referred to an international conference to define the rules of blockade.

Premier Tardieu is also preparing a re-statement of France's naval policy. He will frankly admit that the Paris government's requirements will boost the ratio to 3-2 as compared with the United States-British global tonnage of 1,200,000. France demands 800,000 tons.

Would Build More Subs.

France has 100 submarines in commission now, and its program to 1943 provides for 124 submarines. Of this 28 would be small coastal vessels under 600 tons each, and 96 would be seagoing craft, of which about half would average 1,000 tons for cruising and convoying operations and the balance would be high seas type for long range activity. The entire submarine fleet will total 125,000 tons in 1943.

Premier Tardieu will point out that France has not utilized the 175,000 tons allocated at Washington for capital ships, and that all its existing battleships are worthless and obsolete. He will explain that the ministry of marine is preparing plans for two battle cruisers in the neighborhood of 18,000 tons and carrying 13 inch guns and developing a high speed.

Morrow and Wife Meet Italian Envoy to London

LONDON, Feb. 10.—American Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Mrs. Morrow dined tonight with Sir James Rennell Rodd and Lady Rodd, where they met the Italian ambassador. The Marquess and Marchioness of Sligo, the Earl and Countess of Abingdon, the Earl of Winterton, Lady Gerald Wellesley, Sir Robert Kindersley and Lady Beatrice Ormsby-Gore were also present. Sir James was formerly British ambassador to Rome.

MUSSOLINI TO USE BAN ON SUBS AS LEVER ON FRANCE

Seeks Support for His Parity Demand.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Italy will give cautious support to the Anglo-American proposals for abolition of submarines or for humanizing submarine warfare at tomorrow's plenary session.

It was announced today that the contribution to the debate of Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, will be "very significant." Sig. Grandi has prepared a general outline of Italy's policy, but it is understood he may change the tenor of his remarks in accordance with the stand taken by the speakers preceding him.

Italy Changes Front.

Sig. Grandi's speech will be an exposition of Italy's change of front on the submarine question since last fall, when, up until the Hoover-MacDonald conference, Italy favored retaining undersea boats, which were regarded as specially adaptable for Mediterranean operations because of their invulnerability and short operating radius.

Italian admirals up to that time had maintained that submarines were indispensable. Preceding this conference, however, Premier Mussolini allowed it to be come known that Italy would agree to the abolition of submarines if the other powers did likewise.

Reasons for Change.

The reasons for this change were announced as being that modernized navies were rendering the effectiveness of submarines doubtful. It is generally believed, however, that the new stand of the Italians was taken as a trading point, expecting in return for backing the British that they would thereby get the support of the United States and England in their fight for parity with France.

INDICT GUNMEN, CHARGE OF JUDGE TO GRAND JURY

Courts Join the Fight to Stamp Out Crime.

in Chicago has been the employment of machine guns by organized gangs of criminals. These machine guns are of such size as may be concealed upon the person. By their use, open warfare, in effect, was declared upon society.

"The credit of our city has been so injured that Chicago has been regarded by those living abroad as a place to avoid. Every gunman is a potential murderer, and bail should be fixed in amount commensurate with the heinousness of the crime charged. Against every person indicted for robbery with a gun or other crime of violence should in addition to such indictment be indicted for unlawfully carrying a concealed weapon. In such event, if the major prosecution fails, he at least may be punished for the latter offense.

Chance to Serve People.

"The grand jury can perform no more valuable service nor render a greater contribution to the people of Cook county than by investigating carefully and exhaustively the evidence which will be presented to your honorable body in regard to persons accused of unlawfully carrying concealed weapons.

"I feel it to be the duty of the grand jury, when the evidence presented to you discloses that the person charged with having unlawfully carried a concealed weapon has been previously convicted of felony, that the indictment returned shall recite his former conviction, so that in the event of a verdict of guilty he shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary from one to ten years.

"The time has arrived when every agency having to do with the enforcement of law and the administration of justice should put forth renewed efforts to the end that the supremacy of the law be maintained.

Praises Officials' Coöperation.

"The commendable assurance of coöperation between the state's attorney of Cook county and the commissioner of police of the city of Chicago finds gratifying response I am sure in the public minds.

"Realizing the critical situation existing, there is no doubt that the criminal courts of Cook county will require the earliest practicable disposition of all prosecutions and assure speedy trials against those indicted for carrying concealed weapons. I am assured that the state's attorney will give the grand jury fullest coöperation and present evidence to you in every one of these cases where indictments should properly be returned."

Will Ask $10,000 Bonds.

The plan of indictment, rather than trial in the various police courts is regarded as conducive to more certain punishment and a greater possibility that the maximum will be inflicted. Mr. Swanson said he will ask bonds of $10,000 in each case of a man caught carrying a revolver.

In addition Mr. Swanson declared his office will refuse to approve surety for the gun-criminal where the property offered is mortgaged. He asked Judge McGoorty's coöperation in this and the jurist said he was in sympathy with the program and he would discuss with his fellow judges the advisability of their acceding to the request.

The first to be visited with the newly aroused sternness of courts, prosecutors, and police was Danny Stanton, who hustles beer through the might of his gun. He was arrested two weeks ago and found to be carrying a pistol and his case was continued.

Stanton's Case Is First.

Yesterday, being aware that an indictment was to supersede the prosecution in the Municipal court, he failed to appear before Municipal Judge Herbert Immenhausen. Instead his lawyer presented a statement from a physician that Stanton was too ill to come to court. Judge Immenhausen asked Detective William Drury to investigate and Drury reported back that Stanton was not at home. The judge thereupon forfeited Stanton's bond.

Of those arrested during the Saturday and Sunday drive, twenty-four were dismissed when they showed the court they were working every day. Judge Immenhausen assessed fines against 38 of them, including Jacob Romonaff, 7307 Langley avenue, who was found to be carrying an imitation pistol.

The others who were armed had their cases continued so that Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller could make arrangements to have the police go directly to the grand jury room.

By way of showing the police—who have been unpaid since before Christmas—that meritorious work still pays, Commissioner Russell sent notice to the department that Sergt. Patrick O'Connell, who killed three racketeers engaged in extortion, is to be promoted to a lieutenancy today, and Policeman Herman Meyers, who shot two robbers Saturday night, is to be promoted to a sergeancy today.

The commissioner transferred Capt. Charles Essig, who is young and active, from the East Chicago avenue district to the detective bureau. Capt. Luke Garrick, known as a stern enforcer of the law, was moved from the Warren avenue district to Essig's place.

ROUTS BANDIT

MRS. DOLORES NOVAK.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Three kicks on the shin from the slippers of Mrs. Dolores Novak, 24 years old, routed a young, well dressed robber, who drew a pistol on her last night. Mrs. Novak, who lives at 4503 Lake Park avenue, was walking a block from her home when the robber demanded her purse, but with a voice so low that she asked him twice to repeat. It was then that the robber drew the pistol, and Mrs. Novak delivered the kicks. The purse contained $1.50.

PROSECUTOR IS DENIED PLEA FOR COMPANY'S BOOKS

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup's petition for a subpoena duces tecum for the records of the U. S. A. company, an electrical contracting concern, was denied yesterday by Acting Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. The judge in refusing to compel the company to turn over its books and records for grand jury scrutiny, held that the petition was deficient. The projected investigation of the books is the first step in the state's attorney's renewed investigation into sanitary district affairs.

Attorneys Thomas D. Nash and George K. Bowden appeared in behalf of the company to fight against turning over to the state the records, which are now impounded by the federal court as a result of income tax indictments against the officials. It is said the prosecutor wants to trace $1,000,000 reported to have been spent by the officials.

Prosecutor Northup said he would present a new petition today.

MOTORISTS MUST ORGANIZE for Mutual Protection

Ninety thousand motorists in Illinois and northern Indiana are cutting motoring expense and providing their families with protection by means of organization. These motorists realize the strength of united effort; from experience they have learned that no class of citizen stands in greater need of organization for mutual profit and protection than the motorist.

Speed trap operators prefer to pick on the motorist who has no organization ready to spring to his defense. Greedy framers of laws and ordinances operate unhampered in sections where the motorists are not banded together in large numbers.

Road building for political purposes rather than to serve the needs of traffic can be forced upon sections that are not represented by a virile and fearless organization of motorists.

Every man who operates a motor car is benefiting by the work which organized motordom is carrying on in his behalf. When a speed trap is unearthed by an organization of motorists and the operators are driven to cover by scathing blasts from the press and by indictments from the state's attorney's office, the motorists who are supporting the cause have performed a genuine service for every motorist in the territory affected.

When a bill, such as the notorious governor bill, which would have caused the motorists of Illinois to invest fifteen dollars in a patented mechanism, devised to keep the car within a speed of twenty-five miles an hour, is killed by organized motordom, every car owner is the beneficiary.

When special interests endeavor to build many miles of purely political roads, the territory served and every motorist in it is benefited by the successful opposition of organized motorists.

In sixty-two counties in Illinois and northern Indiana the Chicago Motor Club is the representative of the motorists. The ninety thousand members of this organization offer you the opportunity to participate in the special benefits available only to members.

These benefits will save you money: Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night; home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed; accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols. Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions; and bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of one hundred dollars is demanded.

Another benefit available only to members, is the insurance service which gives you a valued form policy, insures accessories without additional cost, and which last year returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $711,332.11. You receive a check for your share of the savings to do with as you please. Write or call for further information.

45-POUNDER ON HOOVER HOOK AS FIRST DAY CATCH

Lands Sailfish After Half Hour Battle at Sea.

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 10.—(AP)—A sailfish, seven feet long and weighing 45 pounds, stood to President Hoover's credit in this little fishing camp tonight as a result of his first day here of deep sea fishing.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, one of the President's fishing companions, reported a sailfish which he had hooked and which he believed to be larger than the President's, but a shark had beaten him to it. Other fishermen in the party, including Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries; Dr. Vernon Kellogg, and Mark Sullivan, newspaper man, failed to get a strike.

Therefore, Mr. Hoover's statement, made some months ago, that "all men were alike in the eyes of fish," was considered somewhat belied by the fact that the biggest fish to be taken off the Key today picked out the presidential hook.

Half Hour Conquering It.

The strike came soon after the angling began and the big fellow gave the chief executive a half hour of extremely vigorous exercise. The President was dripping wet across the shoulders before he got his quarry aboard.

The chief executive and his party arrived in Long Key before daylight today after an uneventful trip from Washington. As soon as it was light Mr. Hoover and Mrs. Hoover left their private car and went aboard the Sauntere, the houseboat of Jeremiah Milbank, which Mr. Hoover has chartered for the week he plans to be here.

Secret Service Men Near By.

After breakfast Mr. Hoover donned white flannel trousers and a blue coat, in which he did his fishing, put out in a small boat from the Sauntere, and proceeded out into the Atlantic ocean. A bureau of navigation's boat, the Tarragon, with secret service operatives aboard, took up its station a short distance from the President's boat. Two coast guard cutters were also near by.

Today's fishing took place under the handicap of showers which fell intermittently throughout the day, while a stiff breeze made the water more than usually choppy.

LOCOMOTIVE WITH PERPENDICULAR LIGHT TO GET SAFETY TEST

Columbus, O., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Officials of the Pennsylvania railroad have agreed to equip a passenger locomotive with a perpendicular headlight and operate it in Ohio as an experiment looking to greater safety, the state public utilities commission announced today.

The beam of the perpendicular light will extend upward for 700 or 800 feet, and it is believed it will be seen by motorists at a much greater distance than the present horizontal beam.

Mrs. May Durbin, 1022 North Lawndale avenue, a relative of Miss Beloras, also was taken into custody. 32,000 BARS IS NOT PROHIBITION, NEW YORK TOLD

Dry Chief Puts Blame on Mayor Walker.

New York, Feb. 10.—[Special.]—New York state as well as the city of New York has less prohibition today than it had before federal prohibition, Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell declared today. He charged Mayor James J. Walker and Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen with refusal to invoke existing state laws which they swore to enforce when they took their office and ridiculed a crusade against crime which fails to attack the speakeasy as a crime condition and not the outgrowth of prohibition.

Maj. Campbell made his charges in the course of a speech before fifty Brooklyn clergymen, meeting as the moral reform commission of the Brooklyn Federation of Churches at the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A.

Up to Police, He Says.

"The speakeasy is purely a police problem," Maj. Campbell said. "It exists in New York City, not because of prohibition, but because of the refusal of city and state authorities to exercise regulatory measures with regard to the sale of intoxicants.

"Before prohibition the saloons were licensed and their conduct was under the supervision of the city authorities and the police. Today the speakeasy might be said to be nonexistent in so far as police activity is concerned."

Maj. Campbell listed several state prohibitory measures with regard to the sale of intoxicating liquor which now are nonexistent but which applied before the passage of the 18th amendment. These prohibited sales of liquor to persons under legal age, to habitual drunkards, to intoxicated persons, to Indians or in close proximity to a church or schoolhouse.

All Restraints Off.

"Today," he continued, "any one can sell liquor whenever they like and to whom they like. As a state and city, New York today has less prohibition, and in the face of this condition the mayor and the police commissioner declare a crusade against crime."

He ridiculed the notion that the crusade would succeed unless city officials attacked the speakeasy as a crime condition. He charged that the reason for the existence in New York of 32,000 speakeasies was that the city administration itself was "wet."

City officials he declared, are strong opponents of prohibition and they permit speakeasies to exist in order to prove that prohibition is unenforceable.

INDICT YEAST, SUGAR MAKERS FOR RUM PLOT

Supply Distillers, Is U. S. Charge.

attitude of their national boss, Commissioner of Prohibition James M. Doran, who is now in St. Paul, Minn.

Asked if he would remove the Chicago administrator, E. C. Yellowley, after he had been apprised of a report that Mr. Yellowley would be dismissed, Dr. Doran said he would not comment.

"Well, Dr. Doran," he was asked, "would you say that Mr. Yellowley will not be removed?"

"No, I will not," he replied, his voice at a high pitch.

"Is it true that any administration officers or officials in Chicago will be affected by the disclosures in the indictments?" was the next question.

"I can make no comment of any nature on that situation," Dr. Doran answered.

The commissioner will be in Chicago tonight, coming here from Milwaukee. Mr. Yellowley will meet him at Milwaukee, he said yesterday.

Reports from sources worthy of credence gave rise to the dismissal rumors, when it was learned, after a perusal of the indictment naming the 31 companies and 157 individuals, that some of the permits involved have been issued for years and revoked only recently. As far as the results of the investigation now show, none of the persons who actually used the millions of gallons of alcohol to manufacture bootleg liquor is under indictment.

Named in Indictments.

Those named in the true bills are officials and employés of companies scattered over the country from New York to Los Angeles. They are charged with conspiring against the dry law. The bootleggers, according to the calculations of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and Administrator Yellowley, came into possession of a huge amount of specially denatured alcohol, estimated at from 7,000,000 to 20,000,000 gallons, but none of the still operators or moonshine venders is named in the charges.

It was reported at the federal building yesterday afternoon that only six alcohol cooking plants which used the contraband alcohol had been found. It was said extensive investigations would be continued, but it was predicted that many months would elapse before any results would be obtained.

Called Head of Ring.

In a prepared statement, released with the indictment, Mr. Johnson named as the king of the national ring, Anastassoff Srebren, described as an internationally known chemist, born in Bulgaria and a former resident of Paris, who is now living in Chicago, although he is not an American citizen.

Srebren maintained headquarters at 247 East Illinois street, where he operated as the A. Srebren company, the Southern Disinfectant company, the Chicago Essential Oil and Chemical company, and the Chatelat Products company. The chemist invented a process of redistillation for removing nondrinkable ingredients from specially denatured alcohol. He organized the Revelation Chemical company and secured an alcohol permit for the ostensible purpose of manufacturing toilet preparations, but with the actual intention of withdrawing the harmful substances and placing the alcohol on the bootleg market, it is charged.

To cover their activities, Srebren's fake concerns, the Johnson statement said, recorded sales to their affiliated concerns, which were never transacted. In fact, the alcohol was diverted immediately to bootleg channels. In their investigations, Alexander G. Jamie's special prohibition agents found numerous fake "way bills" and sales tickets.

The principal New York companies involved are the Allied Drug and Chemical corporation, organized to make toilet preparations and headed by Alfred E. Van Horn, reported to be a bank director; and the E. M. Laning company, the Norda Essential Oil and Chemical company, and the C. H. Sellck company.

Mr. Yellowley said last night that of the Chicago permits involved, only six are now active, the others having been revoked or dropped previously.

Of these six, only one, he said, was issued by his office. The five others were originally issued by the collector of internal revenue prior to 1925, when the permit division was removed to the prohibition enforcement end of the treasury department.

JOHN BECKWITH ATTACKS $200,000 WILL OF HIS AUNT

A bill to contest the will of his aunt, Mrs. Sarah L. Granger, formerly of St. Albans, Vt., was filed yesterday in the Circuit court by John W. Beckwith, former corporation counsel, living at 37 East Elm street. The bill, drawn by Beckwith's law partner, George L. Schein, charges that the aunt was induced to disinherit Beckwith and seven other nephews and nieces by a nurse and another nephew. The estate is valued at $200,000.

Mrs. Granger died in Chicago on July 1, 1927, leaving her estate to a nephew, Worthington S. Telford of Duluth, Minn., and her nurse, Alice F. Seymour of St. Albans. She had inherited the greater portion of the estate from her sister, Mrs. Jane W. Farnsworth, widow of George Farnsworth, a pioneer lumberman of Chicago.

Mrs. Granger had been ill for four years before her death at the age of 74, the bill states. It also charges that during her illness she was addicted to the use of narcotics. Attorney Beckwith declares he is acting in the interests of the other nieces and nephews, who are Sybil W. Barnes, William A. Smith, Phillip A. Smith, Charles A. Smith, Rhoda Worthington Smith, Ella Smith, and William Francis Drea.

When You Over-indulge

Every man, woman and child will occasionally over-indulge. But don't suffer for all your indiscretions. It's folly to do so. You can so easily sweeten and settle a sour, upset stomach with a little Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

Hearty eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect anti-acid brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine; brings back a sweet taste; guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten—are bilious, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, gas, nausea, headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years. Insist on genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. A less perfect product doesn't act the same.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

In Fairness to Millions

ON an average week-day, the Chicago Surface Lines carry 2,500,000 passengers—4,600,000 if transfer rides are included. More than 77 per cent of all local transportation in Chicago is by street car.

Anything that delays or interferes with street car service affects directly three-fourths of the people in Chicago.

The driver of a slow truck who refuses to allow street cars to pass; the horse-drawn vehicle which "hogs" the car tracks, and the automobilist who parks on a congested street in such a way as to force all traffic into the street car lane are stealing time from thousands.

Through their fares street car riders pay not only for the construction of the track, but also for the paving and maintenance of that portion of the street and for clearing it of snow and ice.

Merchants should remember that most of their customers come by street car and should see to it that employes who operate delivery trucks give proper consideration to the rights of street car passengers.

There is no substitute for street car service

SENATE ASKED TO FIND OUT WHY DRY LAW FAILS

Look Before Voting More Cash, Says Wheeler.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Prohibition was kept a dominant issue before both houses today by the introduction of measures ranging from a resolution authorizing a sweeping investigation of Volstead enforcement to bills proposing, in one case, outright repeal of the dry law, and in another the enlistment of state, county and municipal officers as federal prohibition enforcers.

In addition Senator W. L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], father of the "5 and 10" Volstead penalty law, and Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.], wettest of the house wets, put on a side show by an exchange of sharp letters based on La Guardia's accusation that Jones had interceded for crooked dry agents in the Puget Sound district.

Senator Jones indignantly denied this as "false and slanderous." Then La Guardia challenged the dry senator to ask a special senate committee to investigate prohibition conditions in the state of Washington.

Dry Wheeler Asks Probe.

Senator B. K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], usually rated as a "liberal" dry, made the latest demand for a country-wide investigation into enforcement. He declared that, in view of the complete breakdown of enforcement machinery, congress is entitled to know the facts before it votes more millions to continue the "noble experiment," or authorize a transfer of responsibility from the treasury department to the department of justice.

The Williamson bill, passed by the house Saturday to accomplish this transfer, was received in the senate during the day and referred to the judiciary committee, which, under the Wheeler resolution, would conduct the proposed investigation. Wheeler said the prohibition bureau opposed his measure, but declared he would insist that it be given immediate consideration.

Points to Breakdown.

Wheeler's resolution pointed out that, in spite of the millions appropriated for Volstead enforcement during the last decade, it is a notorious fact there are as many if not more saloons or speakeasies than ever before; that federal officers have been corrupted and demoralized; that enforcement has been marked by official lawlessness at great cost of life, and, finally, that the law enforcement commission's recommendations were based on secret hearings.

"The congress of the United States," the resolution asserted, "should have authoritative information as to whether the complete breakdown of prohibition enforcement is due to the inefficiency, corruption, or lack of sympathy on the part of the majority of the people with the law, before enacting other laws or appropriating huge sums for its enforcement."

Dry but Disgusted.

Presenting the resolution, Wheeler recalled he had voted dry in the past, but added, "I must confess after ten years of prohibition there has been, for some reason or other, a complete breakdown of the law enforcement machinery." He insisted the country should be told whether the failure is due to the inefficiency or corruption.

Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], author of the 18th amendment, interrupted to dispute Wheeler's charge of failure and declared "not only has there been no breakdown in enforcement, but, on the contrary, it has been a gratifying and tremendous success from every standpoint."

Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.], who commended Wheeler on the "sweeping character" of the resolution, asserted his fear that transfer of enforcement responsibility from the treasury department to the department of justice "will have a demoralizing effect on the latter department, which I dislike to see brought into ill repute by having the prohibition unit transferred to it."

Schafer Offers New Plan.

Inspired by the address of Representative J. M. Beck [Rep., Pa.] in the house last Friday, Representative J. C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.] today offered a so-called "state option" bill, under which the manufacture of intoxicating liquors, subject to the laws of the individual states, would be permitted.

In another bill introduced today, Representative C. A. Christopherson [Rep., S. D.], in accordance with a recommendation of the President's law enforcement commission, proposed to empower "any state, county, or municipal officer of the law" to make arrests for liquor law violations and prosecute the alleged violator in "the appropriate federal court."

CUSTOMS DRY KILLER PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MURDER CHARGE

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Emmet J. White, federal customs patrolman who shot and killed a northern Minnesota citizen last June 8, entered a plea of not guilty to a second degree murder charge when arraigned before Judge W. A. Cant in United States District court here this morning. His trial was set for tomorrow.

White shot and killed Gust Henry Virkkula, Big Falls, Minn., confectioner, who passed a stop signal to catch liquor smugglers from across the international border.

White is to be tried before a federal judge and federal jury, but under an ancient federal statute the murder charge is being brought by the state, while White is being defended by the United States district attorney's office. White thus escapes the possibility of the death penalty for murder, the maximum penalty if convicted in a federal court. The maximum penalty for murder in Minnesota is life imprisonment.

White was indicted by the Koochiching County District court grand jury for second degree murder last Oct. 1.

Later his case was transferred from State to Federal court.

BOOTLEGGER TO STUDENTS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—William Morgan, better known as "Mickey Phelan" to University of Michigan students, who termed him "our most popular bootlegger for three years," was taken to the state prison in Jackson today. He is to serve a sentence of six months to two years.

Sentence was passed by Judge George W. Sample of Circuit court, who recommended the minimum when Morgan pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the dry law. The charge was the result of a raid Dec. 7, in which nine university students and three youthful residents of Ann Arbor were taken into custody.

The 12 youths were not charged with any offense and their names were never made public. It is believed, however, that two of them were sons of prominent faculty members. All posted $25 bonds to assure their appearance as witnesses, but none was called at Morgan's hearing.

"There is one item of my home treatment which never varies—the preliminary cleansing of the skin with pure soap and water at least twice a day. For this purpose I always recommend Palmolive Soap."

Antoine
5 Rue Cambon, Paris

"The vegetable oils of Palmolive Soap leave the skin soft, refreshed, responsive"

says the celebrated ANTOINE of Paris, who symbolizes the height of beauty culture for lovely women of two continents

"SOME clients seem to think," says Antoine of Paris, "that my treatment will give them a beautiful complexion with no more effort on their part than an occasional visit to my salon. 'You compliment me too much, madame,' I say. 'It is necessary for you to do your share between visits to my salon.'"

Antoine continues by stressing the need for soap and water cleanliness . . . and he prescribes, for this purpose, "just one soap—Palmolive."

"Its delicate yet penetrating lather," he says, "is the most effective means of clearing away every trace of dust and rouge and powder from the tiny pores of the skin. Further, its pure vegetable oils leave the skin soft and refreshed, so that it is immediately responsive to treatment at the next visit to my salon, and there is no lost ground to be made up."

Beauty specialist to Paris society

Paris society, New York society, the better-known figures in the theatrical world form Antoine's exclusive clientele. He is one of the most far-famed of all Parisian beauty specialists with a reputation which extends to both England and America.

Antoine has, of course, experimented with various home beauty methods to determine which would be best. And he is convinced that nothing is so satisfactory as Palmolive, which is made of the pure vegetable oils of palm and olives, recognized since Cleopatra's time as the world's finest cosmetic oils.

Pure soap—olive and palm oils

And more than 18,900 beauty experts recognize its special advantages. They find that it cleanses as other soaps can not—that it removes impurities without skin irritation. Never has any product, of any kind, had such tremendous professional endorsement. This is the kind of endorsement—and the only kind—which women can trust, because it is the recommendation of those best fitted to know.

You should follow the advice of Antoine of Paris, who numbers among his patrons the world's smartest women.

Massage a lather of Palmolive Soap gently into the pores for two minutes. Then rinse it away with warm water, till you can actually feel the pores being freed of impurities, dirt, make-up. Then rinse with cold water . . . almost to icy temperature. There! Isn't that refreshing?

"I always recommend Palmolive Soap," says Antoine. And his clients find it ideal for the bath, as well. You will, too.

Olive oil, as combined with palm oil in Palmolive Soap, produces a lather which brings out natural loveliness. It protects the skin . . . is safe, soothing, delicate.

SMALL FRY DRY VIOLATORS MAKE UP JUDGE'S DAY

U. S. Jurist Looks in Vain for Higherups.

Two bewildered young Italians were hustled before Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday. They were shabbily clothed. They rolled their eyes in fear as the judge inquired what was the charge against them.

These miscreants, the judge was informed, had offended the government of the United States by assisting in the manufacture of intoxicating spirits. Mike Terrana had been captured by a raiding crew of prohibition agents as he was toting a bag of sugar into a building in Forest Park which housed a mammoth still. Tony Bartoni had been industriously shoveling in a mash pile when seized.

Typical Scene in Court.

The court was aroused when informed that these two youngsters, who gave their ages as 21 and 22 years, were the only men captured in the raid. The scene which followed was typical, lawyers said, of what is coming to pass in the present-day federal courts.

When Judge Carpenter, senior member of the federal bench in Chicago, took the bench at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, he faced an array of petty bootleggers, bartenders, beer truck loaders, and other small fry offenders against the Volstead act.

He looked in vain for a single prisoner who might be classed as an important figure in the liquor traffic. There were no "beer lords," no "alky kings." Up came Mike and Tony, shivering in their fright.

No Record of Owner.

"According to the information here," said the judge, frowning at the lawyers, prosecuting and defending, who huddled around Mike and Tony, "this was an enormous distillery in which these two men were working. There were two 3,000 gallon vats and four 1,500 gallon vats. As usual, I suppose, there was no record of the owner?"

"None" he was told.

"They never find that out," commented the judge dryly.

"There is a great deal of difference between the apprehension of the man who intentionally erected such a still and, no doubt, extracted much profit from it and these poor people, ignorant perhaps of our customs and our law. Surely, some one had to be there to supervise the workers."

"If he was, he wasn't arrested," was the answer.

A defense attorney interposed to say that the two defendants hadn't even been paid for their work in the still. One had been hired on the street and told to report with his shovel.

"I don't think they are vicious persons," remarked the judge. "Thirty days apiece." And when one lawyer objected even to this penalty, he added: "That's just enough to teach them a lesson. Tell them that they mustn't work again in a place which smells like that. The odor of sour mash ought to mean an infraction of the law to them, after this."

There were other similar cases. The Jones law, with its dread maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, was mentioned tentatively once or twice by the prosecutor but the judge sentenced most of those who pleaded guilty to thirty days in jail and a small fine. The largest penalty was a sixty day sentence.

Purchase Many Highballs.

Paul Williams was accused of operating a speakeasy. He pleaded guilty.

"What's this," queried the judge, sharply, reading the prohibition agent's statement. "These agents, on the same day, purchased six highballs at one time, twelve highballs later, twelve highballs still later——. How much evidence did they need? Where are these agents with the wonderful capacity?"

Two tall, pink cheeked youths, with the appearance and dress of farmer boys, stepped up.

"You see, judge," one explained, uneasily. "They were shaking dice for the drinks up there and we had to buy when we lost."

"O! You were buying drinks for the house," remarked the judge.

"Any charge against these agents for this conduct?" he added, frowning. The answer was in the negative.

"Well, thirty days at Wheaton for Williams," he ordered. The bovish agents hurried out of the courtroom.

The biggest case of the day was called. This involved one Moynihan, owner of the Dearborn club, a speakeasy at 125 North Clark street, one Terry, the "outside man," one Rice, the "inside man," and Jones, a bartender. A quart bottle of liquor and 28 pints of gin had been seized.

Owner Gets Heavier Sentence.

The quartet had previously pleaded not guilty but had suddenly decided to admit guilt and ask lenience from the court.

"Moynihan was the owner and the other three worked for him?" inquired the judge. And when he was assured that this was the situation, he sentenced Moynihan to serve sixty days and pay a $500 fine and the other three to serve thirty days each. "Moynihan to pay all the court costs," he added.

Asks Law to Keep Southern Europeans from So. Africa

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 10.—C. W. Malan, minister of railways and harbors, in the house of assembly today made a strong appeal for support of his bill to restrict immigration from southern Europe, pointing out that the measure followed the example set by America and other countries. He said that while the Europeans are leaving in increasing numbers the immigration of undesirables is greatly increasing.

JUROR'S ILLNESS DELAYS TRIAL OF 3 CULT MEMBERS

Illness of a juror last night prevented the holding of an evening session before Judge Harry B. Miller in the case of three Negro members of the Moorish cult, on trial for the murder of two policemen last Sept. 25 at the cult's temple, 4139 South Park way. Assistant State's Attorney Harry J. Busch had just begun his final plea when the juror, William A. Ronquist, 4725 North Sawyer avenue, became ill, necessitating adjournment until today.

Judge Miller indicated that unless Ronquist recovers sufficiently by this morning to resume his duties the jury might be dismissed and the case placed on the calendar for another trial. Fifty witnesses had testified yesterday when the final arguments were begun.

Defendants in the case are Eugene Jackson, Mose Jackson and Ira Johnson El. Policemen William Jackson and Jesse Hults were killed trying to suppress a riot at the cult's temple.

U. S. FARM BOARD LENDS 10 MILLIONS TO RESCUE WHEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Ten million dollars will be advanced, it was announced by the federal farm board today, to the new Grain Stabilization corporation, organized in Chicago last Thursday by grain cooperative associations, in an effort to check the decline in wheat prices.

The new corporation, the first of its kind created and financed under the terms of the marketing law enacted seven months ago, will be empowered to purchase and store such quantities of wheat as may be necessary to control the surplus and stabilize the market. It was incorporated in Dover, Del., today.

Recognition of the corporation and the extension of a $10,000,000 initial credit is a result of the recommendation of the wheat advisory committee, which held a two day meeting attended by Alexander Legge, chairman of the farm board, and S. R. McKelvie, grain member of the board, in Chicago, last week.

The new organization, it was announced, will begin operations immediately, purchasing grain, for the time being at least, exclusively from cooperative organizations and from the National Grain corporation which, it is understood, now holds 2,000,000 bushels of wheat, bought at a price of $1.18 a bushel or above the present market.

TAKE FIRST STEP TO GIVE CHICAGO PROPER AIRPORT

Test Vote Assures Lease Offer by Schools.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

A definite step toward solution of Chicago's airport problem was taken yesterday when the committee on buildings and grounds of the board of education unanimously passed a resolution recommending that the board lease approximately 600 acres of its Clearing property to the city to provide for the expansion of the Municiple airport.

Should the recommendation receive the approval of the board at its next meeting on Thursday and later be sanctioned by the city council the city will control sufficient acreage to expand the field to five times its present size. The 600 acres includes the present airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue and additional acreage adjoining it. The site of Hale school is retained by the board.

Approve Fifty Year Lease.

The committee's recommendation provides for the leasing of property for 50 years at $20 an acre per year and 50 per cent of the profits of the field. The rental terms are to be subject to readjustment at the end of 20 years. The land is to revert to school board control should the field cease to be used as an airport and the city is to pay all taxes and special assessments.

Yesterday's vote showed sufficient support among the trustees to insure favorable action by the board. Those voting for the recommendation yesterday were Trustees Schmid, Brandenburg, Blatchford, Meyers, and Hemingway. President Caldwell, who was absent from the meeting, is known to favor the project and his vote, with the other five, will be sufficient to pass the measure.

Oppose Revaluation Clause.

Comment after the public hearing indicated that some points of difference between the city and the schools will arise when the two bodies open negotiations on the project. It is known that the city officials will not agree to the 20 year revaluation clause on the ground that such a short term would make permanent improvements unwise and discourage large investments and improvements by the operating companies.

No objection is expected to be raised against the clause providing the schools with a share in the profits of the airport. Walter W. Wright, director of public parks, playgrounds and beaches, who directs the affairs of the city field, stated that the city felt such a clause would adequately protect the schools' interests without the additional revaluation clause. Mr. Wright also indicated the city may insist on a 99 year lease.

AIRPLANE IS STOLEN FROM HANGAR UNDER COVER OF DARKNESS

Columbus, O., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Columbus police for the first time are confronted with the mystery of a missing airplane. A Travelair biplane owned by E. R. Ewert, Newark, O., was stolen from the municipal hangar last night.

The ship was in the hangar at a late hour, but when the hangar was opened this morning it was gone.

Apparently the ship was flown away in the dark, after the motor had been warmed up inside the hangar. The blocks under the wheels had not been disturbed, indicating the plane bandit had picked up the tail and moved it through the door, taking off from the taxi space in front of the building.

Police have broadcast the license number of the ship, NC-2833, to all major airports. Loot of the bandit included two parachutes and other equipment worth $800.

FRESH REBELLION AGAINST NANKING TIES UP RAILROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10.—A telegram from Japanese sources in Nanking tonight stated that the suspension of traffic on the Lunghai railway and the requisitioning of rolling stock at Kaifeng and Chengchow in the province of Honan were responsible for the reports that Gen. Han Fu-chu, head of the Honan government, and Gen. Shih-Yu-shan, whose forces are stationed in northern Anhwei and eastern Honan, are contemplating a fresh rebellion against the Nationalist government.

Gen. Shih, who was previously stationed at Pukow, opposite Nanking, was responsible for the rebellion against Nanking last December. He was recently pardoned by the government and moved his troops to the Lunghai area.

President Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nanking Nationalist government, who planned a trip to Canton, cancaled his passage at the last minute and is remaining in Nanking tonight. He has issued a circular telegram to all divisional commanders to come to the capital to discuss the question of troop disbandment. A similar disbandment move last fall provoked the widespread rebellion in Honan and at Canton.

A report circulated by the official Kuomin news agency at Tientsin today alleged that Gen. Hsi-shan, head of the Shansi government, is supporting Nanking.

Held for Mailing Poison to Ex-Business Partner

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 10.—(AP)—John Q. Carroll, 63, wealthy farmer of near Bryant, Ind., was arrested by federal authorities today charged with sending poisoned candy through the mails with intent to murder W. L. Gerrard, Gaston, Ind., hardware merchant, his former business partner. A. S. Kelly, postal inspector who conducted an investigation, said Carroll confessed sending the candy but insisted he only meant to make Gerrard ill. Carroll admitted holding a grudge against Gerrard, according to Kelly, and said it dated from the dissolution of their partnership two years ago. Gerrard said he received a box of gumdrops on Jan. 2, but that his suspicions were aroused by the Bryant postmark and that an analysis revealed a half grain of poison in each piece of candy.

TRACTOR RUNS WILD; CRUSHES TWO TO DEATH

Houston, Tex., Feb. 10.—(AP)—A runaway tractor became an engine of destruction here today. It crushed out two lives and wrecked a dozen motor cars as it ran wild in a street.

The machine, a combination tractor-grader used in street construction, began its rampage when the driver, A. McCarthy, lost his balance in rounding a corner and fell beneath it to be ground to death.

Wade Gatewood essayed to stop the wild charge. He leaped on the machine and grasped the emergency brake. It broke and he was thrown to death under the plunging monster.

Little Lessons in History

Poor St. Valentine—he had so little to do with the day named for him!

Do you know —that St. Valentine didn't organize, sponsor or promote in any manner whatsoever the movement that bears his name? The only reason the event is so called is because he was made a saint on that day.

—that the original celebration was held for weeks at a time in honor of an old Roman feast—and it was started away back in the fourteenth century?

—that in England and Scotland in later years the day was celebrated by young men and women drawing names and accepting the person whose name they drew as their partner for the party? (This often led to marriage.)

—that you can find a very complete assortment of Valentines on our Fourth Floor? Fancy lace ones—plain ones, frilly ones—semi-comic ones, humorous ones and serious ones are all included from

HURLEY DEFENDS CROSBY AS NEW CAPITAL DRY CZAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley today added new fuel to the controversy between President Hoover and District of Columbia civic leaders over the projected appointment of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, chief of cavalry, as the new "dry czar" of the national capital.

In a formal statement issued at his office, Mr. Hurley defended the selection of the army officer as commissioner in charge of the Washington police, fire and traffic departments. He asserted that criticism of the appointment on the ground that the army officer was a military man and not a civilian was unsound, as the appointment would not become effective until the major general had retired from the army in March and resumed civil status.

The Hurley statement was issued after civic leaders had made it plain in the last few days that they do not relish the thought of having to submit to police rule by a military man.

Arrangements for a public mass-meeting at which the Crosby appointment will be discussed were being completed today by Edward J. Murphy, president of the Washington board of trade. At this gathering to be held Wednesday night it is planned to register a citywide protest against the President's plan to substitute a retired military man for a civilian on the board of commissioners.

The cold in Electrolux is constant

It doesn't stop and start

ONE of the advantages of Electrolux is that the cold varies scarcely at all from the ideal point. The simple operation of this refrigerator goes on endlessly, and without attention. No starting and stopping is necessary. Ice cubes freeze quickly.

This is possible because Electrolux has no machinery, no moving parts at all. A tiny gas flame, a little flow of water, do all the work. They circulate the liquid refrigerant, with never a sound to disturb you.

The gas flame changes the refrigerating liquid to vapor. The circulation of water condenses it back to liquid form again. That's all there is to the operation. It's as simple as boiling water in a tea kettle.

The refrigerating unit never needs attention. The refrigerant is welded shut for life inside a rigid, one-piece-steel shell. It never needs renewal. Even the tiny gas flame is guarded every minute of the day and night by an automatic shut-off. No gas can flow unless the flame is lighted.

Electrolux is not only silent when you get it, but silent as long as you have it—and it is built to last a lifetime. There being nothing in it to wear, no noises can develop as time goes on.

And it is the most economical refrigerator you can use. It costs even less than ice. 25 to 55 cents a week covers everything. Even the extra-large models may be operated for about 70 cents a week at the very outside. Imagine having all the benefits of automatic refrigeration—the perfect, even cold inside your refrigerator at all times, the tempting variety of frozen desserts that you make as you really like them—all these advantages at a cost that is only a fraction of your ice bill.

Don't imagine, either, that the purchase prices of Electrolux are any higher than those of other automatic refrigerators. They're not, size for size, $195 to $490. A complete range of models to choose from. See them at our display room. And mail the coupon for complete illustrated information.

WAR ON CRIMINAL VIOLENCE.

The week-end sweepup of 917 undesirables and criminal suspects shows what can be done by a real concentration upon the first duty of our police, the discouragement of criminal violence. If this duty is kept to the fore and as efficiently pursued as it was in this drive, Chicago will soon have peace. Existing laws and existing means, if vigorously applied, are enough to make this community too hot for malefactors, and the police, prosecuting authorities, and courts should combine to make relentless war upon them. Gun toting alone is a punishable criminal offense which can be reduced to a tolerable minimum by energetic police action, followed up by determined prosecution. Its prevalence is a plague and a scandal which need not and should not be tolerated any longer. Criminal violence is not a necessary evil. It has been flourishing through political corruption and official negligence or diverted energies. The community is thoroughly aroused to conditions and demands from the authorities and will heartily support the most thorough, vigorous, and persistent measures to end them.

THE SUGAR DADDY STATE.

Illinois income tax payments in 1929 were exceeded only by New York. We have displaced Pennsylvania in rising from third to second standing. Washington collected $236,986,918 from us in corporate and individual income tax. What, in the way of internal improvements besides "Hard Boiled" Golding and his squad of hair trigger drys, has Washington given us?

Illinois has never sought excessive federal investment in federal projects here, never has sought federal appropriations for state or municipal projects. While more indigent states have obtained heavy appropriations for Ohio river work, St. Clair river construction, flood relief, and Boulder dam, Illinois has improved itself with its own resources. Indeed we attempted to finance a strictly federal job, the Illinois waterway, from state assessments.

Illinois does not now presume to claim federal appropriations in proportion to our tax payments. We don't ask for mathematical justice in government disbursements. But we do ask that a pittance be returned in the form of aid for the completion of the lakes-gulf waterway. Illinois' twenty million dollars will have finished the job except for driving the last spike. We are powerless to finance the completion of this work, from all of which so far the war department has been relieved. In addition to being in the highest bracket among contributors to the treasury, we have spent more money to do that which our federal taxes should have done. Thereby we have released money for watering the desert and providing Los Angeles with drinking water. It is time that congress declares a dividend for Illinois taxpayers.

FOR THE GIRL SCOUTS.

It has come to our attention that the Girl Scouts as well as the Boy Scouts are seeking funds at this time. The Girl Scout movement is no longer an experiment. It has helped to solve the problem of girlhood just as adequately as the Boy Scout plan has helped to solve the problem of boyhood. Girl Scout troops offer wholesome and constructive recreation to girls, particularly in the city, at an age when their natural choice of pastime is likely to be destructive of their future welfare, consequently destructive of their usefulness to society. Moreover, those who plan Girl Scout activities have made the work attractive and pleasurable for the girls.

Unfortunately sponsors of the Girl Scouts have been financially handicapped. They have not been able to offer the privilege of the organization to as many girls as the virtue of the work justifies. A subscription to the fund will help the organization to reach girls who are now left out. The cause deserves support.

THE DANGEROUS AMERICAN LANGUAGE.

Sir Alfred Knox in the house of commons asked William Graham, president of the board of trade, if the import of the American talkies could not be limited in order to protect the language and ideas of the people of England. The cable adds that: "The question resulted in a light interchange of quips about the American language and English undefiled."

The American language is remarkable. It has made a great amalgamation possible and successful. It has been carried into documents of equality and they have worked. It can be understood in Maine and California, Texas and Wisconsin. It has taken the place of English, French and Spanish in territories where they were strong. It has made a nation with a common speech.

English is a dozen tongues. It is one thing in Lancaster and another in York, one thing in Cornwall and another in Northumberland. Only an Oxford man could understand an Oxford man and neither would want to understand any one else. A Patagonian would be as much at home as a Cockney outside of London, of his own particular parts of London.

This has served a useful purpose in the preservation of the ideas to which Sir Alfred referred. It being impossible for the English generally to commune with each other or understand each other, there has not been a popular uprising since Cromwellian days and that was not particularly popular nor did it uprise to any enduring purpose. In order to keep the English as they are with their ideas preserved it is necessary to keep them from learning a language which they could speak in common. The American talkies might cause a democratic uprising by teaching such a language. It may not be music, but it is understandable.

BASES IN THE PACIFIC.

The demand by Japan for an increase of its cruiser allotment can hardly be considered without reconsideration of the Washington agreement for the limitation of our right to develop bases in the Pacific. Japan is on the flank of our communication with the Philippines and the Asiatic mainland. We have a large commerce with both, to say nothing of our political responsibilities, and we expect this commerce to increase. We consume two-thirds of the world's production of rubber, but we control less than 3 per cent. In 1926 crude rubber was in value at the head of our exports; in 1928 it was second on the list, in 1929 second. American private enterprise has planted 150,000 acres, but American consumption requires the production of about four million acres. The importance of maintaining our rubber supply hardly needs to be argued to a motorized nation. Rubber is essential to the huge motor industry and to the people who use automobiles, but it has many other important uses, and in war material it has become one of the essentials. If this supply were shut off in war it would be little short of a disaster; if shut off in peace it would strike a staggering blow at our prosperity. At present we obtain the greater part of our rubber supply from British Malaya and the Dutch East Indies and it must be conveyed by a route which Japan may easily shut off. Our trade with China and the far east is already important and is destined to be greater. Much of it is competitive with Japan.

In spite of these substantial considerations, for the sake of peace in the Pacific and good relations with the Japanese, at Washington in 1927 we agreed with Great Britain and Japan that the status quo at the time of the signing of the treaty, with regard to fortifications and naval bases, shall be maintained as to all possessions then held or thereafter acquired in the Pacific ocean, excepting those adjacent to the United States, Alaska (excepting the Aleutian islands), the Canal Zone, and Hawaii. This maintenance of the status quo was defined in the treaty to imply "that no new fortifications or naval bases shall be established in the territories and possessions specified; that no measures shall be taken to increase the existing naval facilities for the repair and maintenance of naval forces, and that no increase shall be made in the coast defenses of the territories and possessions thus specified."

As at the time of the treaty our bases in far eastern waters were undeveloped and even our defenses of the Philippines inadequate, this agreement leaves our commerce and communications in the western Pacific virtually at the mercy of Japan or any other power able to operate with important forces in that region; Great Britain notably, with its bases in Australia and Hongkong, and its base now under development at Singapore.

This concession removed any conceivable danger to Japan of capital fleet operations against her by the United States; since a fleet cannot maintain itself at such a distance from its base as Hawaii is from Japan even the defense of the Philippines became practically out of the question. We are also estopped from establishing a base in the Aleutians, although they are a part of our coast line. As for cruiser operations for the interruption of Japanese communications or for commerce raids, the lack of bases nearer than Hawaii would reduce their efficiency materially and could easily be checked by Japanese naval forces based comparatively near the field of operations.

With our ability to carry on capital ship operations in the home waters of Japan sacrificed, the increase of Japanese cruiser forces would put us at a still greater disadvantage merely respecting our ability to protect our trade routes and would leave our commerce still more at the mercy of Japan and other powers in this important region. Unless we are ready to accept hopeless subordination there no further concessions should be made, at least without substantial compensation and safeguards.

EXTRALITY FOR EUROPEANS IN THE U. S. A.

The commander of a French liner has protested through his consular representative in New York against raids by dry law enforcers of his ship at night. He says his men need to sleep at night. Just as the Chinese government is denouncing extraterritorial privileges of aliens in China, we may have a demand for the establishment of extraterritorial rights for foreigners in our ports. A case might be made out for it.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO ASKS A LOAN.

[Brooklyn Daily Eagle.]

When it comes to emergency philanthropy New York City may reasonably claim to be a world leader, but in normal times Chicago, the midwest metropolis, is not far behind. The spectacle of Chicago asking a loan in New York is notable in that no great fire or earthquake or pestilence has afflicted that city, whose wealth is estimated at $4,000,000,000.

Yet this is precisely the nature of the appeal to New York bankers. The tax anticipation warrants offered here cannot be sold to Chicago banks. The quest for credit in New York is the last recourse of the Thompson ring to avoid accepting the conditions of the Strawn committee, which has $20,000,000 pledged but demands assurances of economy.

We in New York are sorry for Chicago, but wise giving does not encourage the receiver to go on spending money like an intoxicated mariner. Hence we are inclined to predict a certain polite coldness in the tone of New York bankers toward those tax anticipation warrants. Ordinary prudence is not hard heartedness, sentimentalists to the contrary notwithstanding.

AND HE'D FIGHT FOR IT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Hey! Don't Make Any Noise—You'll Spoil the Fishing!

We've all got to keep pretty quiet for a week or so now. There's a lot going on—Uncle Sam losing his shirt over in London, the prohibition fraças down in congress, farm relief, tariff schedules, Boulder Dam power fights, bandit raids, Dry enforcement scandals, and so on; but Mr. Hoover's gone down to Florida a-fishing for sailfish, and we'll have to wait until he gets the sailfish hooked, gaffed, and pulled into the boat before we say another word.

A sailfish is a mighty big fish and darned hard to land. Would it be nice to set up a roar about the world court being a by-product of the League of Nations just as Mr. Hoover is putting a big, juicy porterhouse steak on his hook to fool a foxy old sailfish? We ask you A sailfish is a temperamental cuss. He likes to romp and play in the ocean and he doesn't give a heck about the 18th Amendment, or whether California or Mr. Edison gets the power from Boulder Dam. Suppose a great big, fine, strapping sailfish has decided to give Mr. Hoover a little excitement. "President or not," says the sailfish to his girl friend who is romping along with him, "that's a swell piece of bait Mr. Hoover's thrown out there. I'm wise all right; there's a hook in the thing somewhere; but watch my smoke. I'll sneak the bait off that hook quicker than that fellow can appoint a commission."

"Well," says the sailfish's girl friend, "that's pretty darn quick!"

"Oh, go sit on your scales," says the boy friend sailfish. "You're losing your girlish figger. I know my fish hooks." And so old Charley Sailfish starts fooling around the bait. But suppose just then some bird comes down to the dock with a megaphone and yells out, "Oh, Mis-ter Hoo-ver! Secretary Stim-son o-ver in Lon-don says do we sink the navy or put it in the Brit-ish Mu-se-um?"

Gosh! That would make the sailfish as mad as all get out. He'd jump away from the bait and say to his girl friend, "Fishing is supposed to be sport. Why drag everything into politics?" And the girl friend would say, "Oh, Charley Sailfish, you're so irritable. Stick around 'til that guy on the shore goes away."

And maybe Charley Sailfish would overlook one interruption and play around in the ocean while Mr. Hoover takes a new grip on his fishing pole and tries again. But suppose another guy rushes down to the shore and hollers out: "Oh, Mr. Hoover! Andy Mel-lon's on the wire. He says the boot-leg-gers have sto-len ALL the gov-ern-ment's al-co-hol now. What to do?" "Shades of old Ike Walton," Charley Sailfish'd say, "why bring that up now? Fishin' ain't what it used to be. Come on, girl friend, let's go down to Joe Redsnapper's restaurant off Miami and have a coupla hot dogs, huh?" "Surest thing you know," Charley Sailfish's girl friend would say, and away they'd go and leave Mr. Hoover flat.

No, friends, something ought to be done about a lot of things in this country right now, but we'll have to wait until Mr. Hoover lands Charley Sailfish.

VICTORY.

Dust hangs the rafter
In cobwebs of years—
And I have won laughter
In place of tears.

Steep is the mountain;
The valley is cool,
Where the swirl of the fountain
Ebbs in the pool.

Your face one of many Through my days tossed—
A vagrant catchpenny,
Casually lost.

JUDY SHEA.

IN STUDYING HOW to remedy the horrible uproar of Chicago, Doc Kegel, the health commissioner, sent out two men to walk around the streets and converse in an ordinary voice, marking down the spots where they were unable to hear each other. Well, if those two sleuths walk anywhere around where H. Wallace Caldwell of the school board is arguing with Silas Strawn of the citizens' committee about how to raise money to lift Chicago out of the slough of financial despondency they can't hear each other talk unless they make signs with their fingers. And if they go near where State's Attorney Swanson is shouting, "I'll wipe out crime!" they won't hear each other if they use ear trumpets.

A HOUSE DIVIDED.

Abraham Lincoln's birthday tomorrow. Think we'll celebrate it by reading again his famous "House Divided" speech made at the Republican state convention in Springfield, June 16, 1858. When Lincoln read this speech, containing the celebrated Biblical quotation, Beveridge said that Herndon remarked it was true, of course, but questioned whether it was "wise or politic to say so."

Gravely Lincoln made answer: "That expression is a truth of all human experience, 'a house divided against itself cannot stand.' . . . The proposition also is true, and has been for six thousand years. I want to use some universally known figure expressed in simple language as universally well known, that may strike home to the minds of men in order to raise them up to the peril of the times. I would rather be defeated with this expression in the speech, and uphold and discuss it before the people, than be victorious without it."

"A house divided against itself cannot stand." Not half slave and half free. Wonder if Lincoln would say it could stand half wet and half dry?

NEWS TO ASH STEVENS—or at least it was to us—dept.: We thought "How come" was a modern slang expression until we found it Sunday night in Bernard's Select Letters on the Trade and Government of America," published in 1764. "How come," said Gov. Bernard in that stately monograph, "how come they to have the power of picking and chusing their trade as they please?" What, way back in 1764? How come!

AND NOW it would appear that the highly poisoned alcohol the government has sold to be made into hair tonic, perfumes, and flavoring extracts has been turned into bootleg whisky instead. "That explains it," said old Bob Blotto yesterday. "I've been noticing for a long time that the hair tonic didn't have much of a kick any more and I cud drink a pint of it without being what you call really plastered."

TO SEE OURSELVES AS——

DR. F. J. LEWIS of Detroit has discovered a way to break a child from thumbsucking, according to Arthur Brisbane. The Lewis method is simple and requires no equipment and no drugs. It consists in having a child stand before a mirror sucking his thumb for a definite time twice daily. The theory is that a child can break himself of this habit if he will, and he will do so whenever sucking of the thumb causes enough displeasure to overmatch the pleasure it gives.

Children suck their thumbs because they have a great urge, and yielding gives them pleasure. The urge is perhaps the most fundamental of all the basic instincts. About the next thing a newborn baby does after having a good cry is to suck whatever comes handy. He soon learns that nothing is so ever present and so conveniently accessible as his hand. A little later he limits himself to some one part, generally a thumb.

When he arrives at an age when he has some intelligence and character and has become teachable, the mother attempts to make him understand that he is not to suck his thumb because it is babyish and harmful as well. But she generally fails to get her message across.

Dr. Lewis has found that lecturing him, followed by posing him in front of a mirror, makes him see the point. It appeals to his shame. As Pawlow would say, it conditions the act of sucking the thumb. It arouses enough displeasure to vaccinate him against the pleasure.

Recognition of the power of self-control, of even small children, seems to be in the air. Dr. Hammill has recently reported observations that show that almost any child can break himself of the habit of bedwetting. The treatment he uses to break children of this habit is based on the same principle used by Dr. Lewis in breaking children of the habit of thumbsucking. He finds some way to make the child genuinely want to stop bedwetting. He pits the desire to stop against whatever open or hidden, immediate or remote, has made him continue. Then comes the tug of war. Normal children have the will power to win the fight against the habit.

GLYCERIN FOR WINTER ITCH.

A. H. B. writes: Your discussion of winter itch recently makes me bold enough to write you of an experience in my own household in the treatment of a similar ailment—bath itch. After using various prescriptions with a grease base, with only moderate success, I decided to see the effect of glycerin, realizing its moisture binding powers. Two ounces in a moderate sized bath have proved in this one instance an unfailing remedy. I might say that each case would require a different amount of glycerin, to be determined by the patient. A glycerin lotion could, of course, also be tried.

HAVE YOUR EYES EXAMINED.

H. G. writes:

1. I am in my last year at high school. It is my habit to read and study a great deal, but I do no more than I find necessary. I have been to an eye doctor and, as a result, I am supposed to wear glasses when I read, which I do. I use a 60 watt globe for night reading. If I read overly much at one time or in one day my eyes become near sighted. Will this result in permanent near sightedness if I read a great deal?

2. I find if I do not spend ten hours in bed (dark, of course) my eyes become somewhat sore and red and I cannot read long or they ache. How can I remedy this? I am bothered with an inflammation of the eyelids on account of dust. I use a salve, prescribed by my own doctor, which helps. If I omit the salve for a while my eyes burn. I wash my eyes in a cold, boric acid solution. This eases the eyes quite a bit.

3. I would like to know some good form of exercise which I could do without gymnasium equipment. I am 6 feet tall and weigh 183 pounds. I am not stout, but well muscled, except in the arms. I am 18 years old. How can I develop my arms? Last year I ran about half a mile in the woods before breakfast each morning and never felt as well before or since.

REPLY.

1. Yes, in all probability.
2. You need to wear properly fitting glasses.
3. Cutting wood is good to develop the arms. Bob Fitzsimmons got his arm power by working as a blacksmith. Rowing is good. So are wrestling and lifting weights. Running is excellent, but not for the arms.

TREATING LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

LIABLE FOR NECESSITIES.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a man inserts an advertisement to the effect that he is no longer responsible for debts contracted by any one other than himself can he be held for debts contracted by his wife? They are separated but not divorced.

O. M.

Such an ad would not cut off his common law liabilities for his wife's necessities.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COMPENSATION FOR HERNIA.

Thornton, Ill., Feb. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What compensation is legally due an employe for a hernia operation? I am single and earn $30 a week.

L. P.

If the hernia is the result of an accidental injury, the employer is liable to furnish necessary medical, surgical, and hospital services, including a surgical operation. Compensation is payable during the period of temporary total incapacity for work, which means the time the injured man was required to be away from work on account of the injury. The ordinary hernia operation, without complications, requires the man to be about two weeks in the hospital and thereafter about four weeks at home before returning to work. The weekly compensation rate in this case would be $15 per week.

IN DOUBT ABOUT CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—[Friend of the People.]—My father has been an American citizen for about forty years. He was a sailor. I was born in Chester, England, coming to Chicago in 1911. Now aged 22. Am I an American or an Englishman?

AMERICAN WOMAN HAS CHOICE.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—[Friend of the People.]—When an American marries a woman of another nationality does the woman automatically become a citizen of the U. S. A.? When an American woman marries a foreigner does she lose her citizenship?

T. C.

The answer is "no" to each question. However, an American woman marrying an alien may renounce her American citizenship and adopt that of her husband.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 11, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—President Lincoln transmitted to the house of representatives all correspondence and other data pertaining to the recent visit of the rebel peace commissioners to Fortress Monroe, where they were met by the President. He says that the commissioners, Alex H. Stephens, J. A. Campbell, and R. H. T. Hunter, met him and Secretary of State William H. Seward on the government steamer on Feb. 3 and held an informal discussion of the situation. "The conference ended without any result," Mr. Lincoln concludes.

NEW YORK.—The Richmond Enquirer, in an article abusing President Lincoln and his cabinet, says: "Seward originated the mission of Blair to drive Jeff Davis into sending peace commissioners, then used the fact of sending them to deceive his congress into passing of the amendment abolishing slavery in all the states." The Richmond Examiner has a long editorial intended to fire the southern blood. It says there is no cause for panic and thinks the end of the summer will see the confederates completely successful.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.—Today has been very quiet. The only firing heard was from batteries near the Appomattox, and it lasted but a short time.

CHICAGO.—Dr. H. Hitchcock has been appointed physician at the Washingtonian home for the ensuing year. The ladies' committee for the year is composed of Miss Eliza M. Edwards and Mesdames L. S. Cowdery, Alonzo Snider, Nellie Warren, H. L. Bristol, E. A. Forsyth, J. H. Woodworth, David Miller, A. H. Hoge, D. J. Ely, D. P. Livermore, William H. Smith, and William Hodgson.

FEBRUARY 11, 1900.

NEW YORK.—Roland B. Molineux was found guilty of murder in the first degree for the killing of Mrs. Kate J. Adams, who died of poison, which the jury decided was sent through the mails to Harry Cornish, athletic director of the Knickerbocker club, and formerly athletic director of the Chicago Athletic club, with murderous intent by Molineux. The jury was out less than eight hours. Molineux received the verdict with the utmost calmness. His father, Gen. Molineux, encouragingly patted the prisoner on the back when the verdict was read. Mrs. Adams died on Dec. 28, 1898, when she took a dose of bromo-seltzer for a headache. The bromo-seltzer had been sent to Cornish in a silver holder as a Christmas present. It was found to contain cyanide of mercury.

CHICAGO.—A half million dollars, in addition to large sums he has already given to the cause of education, will be distributed by Dr. D. K. Pearsons of Chicago, beginning on March 1, to fourteen colleges and educational institutions. The gifts will average $50,000 to each institution, most of them being on condition that the colleges raise a similar amount. Among the institutions to benefit are Mount Holyoke Female college, Berea college, and McKendree college.

LONDON.—The Boer guns were too hot for Gen. Buller and he is again south of the Tugela river. Gen. McDonald is back at the Modder river and apparently the Boers have lost none of the ascendancy they have held for so long. A balloonist discovered that the Boers had drawn up a dozen heavy guns on Doorn Kloof, all cunningly masked. They commanded the road to Ladysmith and but for the discovery of the balloonist Gen. Buller's force would have fallen into the trap. The guns rendered the British position untenable and they retired.

FEBRUARY 11, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Vincenzo Cosmano, foreman of all street sweeping gangs in the First ward, who obtained his place through "Big Tim" Murphy, was named by State's Attorney Hoyne as the slayer of Maurice ("Moss") Enright. Investigation of the motive for the crime, it was intimated, would reveal graft in city pay rolls, which Murphy and Mike Carozzo, president of the street sweepers' union, are said to have used liberally in rewarding their constituents.

BALTIMORE.—In a dispatch from Washington the Baltimore Sun prints an interview with Dr. Hugh H. Young of Johns Hopkins on the condition of President Wilson. Dr. Young finds grounds for the greatest encouragement. He said that the President's illness had been diagnosed as cerebral thrombosis (blood clot on the brain), which affected his left arm and leg, but at no time was his brain power in the slightest degree lessened.

CHICAGO.—Charles F. Gunther, 83 years old, pioneer Chicago candy manufacturer, died at his home, 3601 South Michigan avenue, of pneumonia. He was nationally known as an art connoisseur and brought the famous Libby prison to Chicago. He was active in Democratic politics and served as alderman and city treasurer.

ANGLO-AMERICAN RELATIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Your Mr. Henning, writing from London, states the American delegation is waiting to hear from the folks back home and how they feel about American proposals to the London naval conference.

If Mr. Stimson agrees to reduce or destroy our floating forts, otherwise known as battleships, which are the main protection of American seaboard cities, without at the same time securing an agreement from Britain to abandon or destroy her fortified bases which threaten those cities and trade routes along our coast by providing safe harbors and bases of supply for her cruisers, then, like Mr. Dooley, he had better take his hat and come home, for no such agreement may hope for approval by the senate or people of the U. S. A. The chief source of confidence and good will which bind our people and those of Canada together is the fact that neither country threatens the other by fortifications along our borders. John Bull should take this situation as a commendable example in his dealings with Uncle Sam, and give our Mr. Stimson a fair deal.

E. E. RICHARDSON.

ENGLISH OPINION.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—The amazing thing to me about today's article by Mr. Kinsley on England is the manner in which he quotes English people saying things about America which are the very things many Americans have so often said about America to themselves, and not Americans who got their ideas in England, either. For example:

"Your business men are too spasmodic"; "They do not make a sound market"; "We build things to last—not to scrap every year" [ouch!]; "America is a wicked place"; "The Americans are not well disciplined"; "The British know how to retreat, attack, retreat again, maybe five or six times, and finally win"; "You have had prosperity so long you have forgotten what it is not to have it"; "There is too much show in the United States; we care nothing about what our neighbor thinks about our not having a car"; "There is just as much snobbery in the United States as there is in England"; "America's carelessness of human life is appalling"; "Our money goes much farther than yours"; "Americans have lots of money, but they boast too much"; "We give all foreigners a chance here."

And then the lesson Mr. Kinsley quotes on the drinking of intoxicating liquor: "The business man is not drinking as he used to do. We know it is a shameful thing to be found in a drunken state; a condition which men formerly looked upon as being a state of mere merriment is now something of which men are ashamed."

This was the view of the liquor code into which the average intelligent American business man was just beginning to bud when the foolish Volstead act was heaved into the machinery seeking to regulate intemperance.

GUNS FOR CITIZENS.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—I agree with the greater part of your editorial, "Toting," of Feb. 7, but some of it is bunk.

The present law, as applied, arms the crook and disarms the honest man. In case of a pinch, the crook has only his political backer will get him out and he is bold because he knows he is safe; his victim is law abiding and does not carry a gun. If Mr. Citizen is caught carrying a gun, he is "given the works" by the police-do wonders for the reputation number engaged, but Chicago is not one of them—they can't begin to give protection.

I also take issue with you on the statement that "few law abiding citizens know how to use a gun, and any attempt to do so would, in most cases, be more dangerous to them than to the malefactor." In that case all Spanish-American world war veterans are either lawbreakers or don't know how to use a gun. I can say nothing of the people whose grandfathers fought Indians and settled the country and whose traditions and customs have been handed down to us, making us lovers of firearms and the great outdoors.

If the really honest, law abiding citizens were allowed to arm, robbery and murder would diminish 75 per cent in thirty days. Now the crook has nothing to fear; then he would fear everyone.

C. B. L.

AMONG THEIR SOUVENIRS.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—It used to be a matter of the question for girls to accept anything more than candy or flowers from men to whom they were not engaged. Today they take anything from men they wear to the opera and more. If I resolve them they will almost unanimously answer, "Take all you can get; the fool doesn't spend his money right, he'll give it to another." I agree that he's a fool who squanders his money on women. If charity were his object I wouldn't he give it to some hard-working starving poor people instead of working girls who are well able to make their own living? But what are you going to accept his gifts? Honest people don't usually care to be under obligations to any one.

FRED

COUGHING IN CHURCH.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Dr. Evans' comment on Rabbi Wise's remarks to his congregation on coughing, sneezing, sniffling, etc., pleased me very much. The church I attend sounds more like a cough drop asylum than a place of worship. Particularly is this true during the winter. There are coughs in every stage from the a-hem to the big berthas that jar the window. Let's try a coughless Sunday. If we must cough let's stay home and use the radio.

HARGRAVE MAKES LIQUOR ISSUE IN CONGRESS RACE

Will Run on Platform of Modification.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Volsteadism was projected as an issue into the race for the Republican nomination for congressman at large last night by Edward J. Hargrave, head of a leading detective agency. He filed his petition at Springfield and announced he would run on a modification plank in the interests of temperance. His friends declare that the Hargrave candidacy will afford opportunity for a referendum inside the state-wide Republican party on the question of prohibition.

Nine or ten other candidates are seeking nomination at the April primaries for the two seats in congress filled by the state at large. Some of them are playing the dry end and are known as drys, while some others, though wet by inclination, are not so wet in platform.

Experiment vs. Failure.

Mr. Hargrave on entering the race did not beat about the bush. "I'm for modification in the interests of real temperance," he said. "America today furnishes the spectacle of an 'economic experiment' which has produced more evil than good.

"Prohibition and the social and governmental disturbances in its wake constitute the gravest problem facing America today. Our established principles of government are being overridden. What has law come to when we furnish the spectacle of a lawless law enforcement? It is time to curb the proclivity to enforce one law by breaking other laws and tearing down constitutional guaranties on which the security of home and individual has rested since the days of George Washington and the revolution.

"I believe it to be the duty of every candidate seeking public office to make clear his attitude on questions of vital public concern, and in obedience to that conviction it is my purpose to state concisely my position on governmental issues without equivocation."

Discusses Other Issues.

Besides modification, the Hargrave platform dwells briefly on farm relief, inland waterways, aviation, aid for ex-service men, labor, taxation, and other subjects.

In the election of state legislators, the voters this year are likely to have a less restricted choice than usual. The Legislative Voters' league sent out word last night that it has received assurances of coöperation from a majority of the leaders of both parties to whom it addressed an appeal Dec. 26 for help in retiring certain members. The league, as usual, is working to get the politicians to provide for the nomination of as many candidates for the house in each district as their party has a reasonable chance to elect in November.

The league sent its thanks yesterday to Clayton F. Smith, Democratic county chairman, for the decision to nominate two Democrats for the house in the Twenty-fifth district, and to Senator Thomas J. Courtney and Representative John M. Lee for similar action in the Eleventh district.

Dever, Williston Seek Aldermanic Post in 49th

The aldermanic contest in the 49th ward, over the successor to Eli I. Frankhauser, who was elected judge, became more definite last night. Daniel M. Dever, son of the late William E. Dever, former mayor, was indorsed by the regular Democratic organization. The Deneen organization, led by Isaac J. Bryan, has indorsed George Williston, son of a former alderman. Mr. Williston ran against Senator Herman Haenisch four years ago at the primaries.

Ex-Dry Worker to Speak for Prohibition Repeal

Dr. Frederick A. Perry, president of the Progressive Liberal league and a former lecturer for the Anti-Saloon league, will address the Cosmopolitan club at a luncheon at the Sherman hotel at noon today on "Temperance vs. Prohibition." Dr. Perry is advocating repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, and substituting for them the practice of temperance through a system of governmental distribution of liquor similar to that of Canada.

Mrs. Marks Wins Divorce from Investment Banker

Mrs. Bernice Marks, 7737 Eastlake terrace, yesterday won a divorce before Superior Judge Sabath from her husband, Julius L. Marks, head of the investment banking company which bears his name. Mrs. Marks charged cruelty. She was awarded the custody of a daughter, Evelyn, 10 years old, and $50 a week alimony.

ASKS ALABAMA KLAN TO VOTE IN PRIMARY, THEN BOLT TO HEFLIN

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Ku Klux Klansmen of Alabama were urged today to vote for any candidates they see fit in the August Democratic primary but to bolt the ticket to support Senator J. Thomas Heflin and any other candidate they see fit who was barred from the party in the November election.

The urging is done by W. Earle Hotalen, president of the Jefferson County Klan association in a "solemn summons of the fiery cross," and says:

"Hooray for Tom Heflin, United States senator from Alabama for the rest of his life by the grace of the patriotic Christian citizens of Tom's home state."

The document was issued on the eve of huge klan rally planned to be held here tomorrow night.

EAST ST. LOUIS MAN IN CONTEST FOR TREASURER

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Col. Samuel N. Hunter of East St. Louis filed his petition as Republican candidate for state treasurer today, the first candidate for state office thus far from southern Illinois. In a brief statement he assailed what he termed the "treasury oligarchy."

"The incentive back of my filing as candidate," he said, "is the unwavering conviction of success which comes as the result of a four months' canvass made throughout the state.

"At least bordering on evil practice, is the time worn custom in Illinois of keeping the office of state treasurer within the confine of a limited combine of individuals and chain of banks commonly called the "treasury oligarchy."

FALL OFF LADDER FATAL.

Henry Hatting, 70 years old, 6636 Ellis avenue, died at St. Bernard's hospital yesterday of injuries which he incurred by falling from a stepladder at his home while cleaning windows.

JENKINS ASSAILS WORLD COURT IN CAMPAIGN DEBUT

Assailing the entry of the United States into the world court as the work of internationalists seeking to have this country meddle in the affairs of foreign nations, Newton Jenkins, attorney and former officer in the marine corps, launched his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States senator in a speech at Aurora last night.

Mr. Jenkins, speaking from the standpoint of a soldier, declared that there is no course surer to lead to war than to have the United States involved in foreign entanglements.

Influence U. S. Government.

"The internationalists have sent their representatives as our ambassadors to European capitals," he asserted. "They have put their lawyers in the state department for years. They would make out of our state department a listening post for internationalism instead of a strong fortress of Americanism."

Mr. Jenkins touched indirectly on the London naval disarmament conference when he declared that the United States needs no nation to tell it how large its navy should be. That is a matter, he declared, for this country alone to decide.

Need Attention at Home.

"What we need is to have our statesmen turn their minds away from the problems of Europe and center their attention on the problem of upbuilding America," he continued.

"We should stay out of all foreign entanglements and should remember that selfishness is not dead. To forget that would be untrue to the great liberties which sprang from the birth of this republic and of other democracies as well. These liberties had to be won. They have had to be defended. They may have to be defended again. The responsibilities of our country were never as great as today. Conditions throughout the world were never more unsettled."

TAFT IMPROVES; DAUGHTER CALLS TO CHEER HIM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Continuing to display the fighting spirit against his present illness that has marked his past career, William Howard Taft was reported tonight to have gained in strength during the day.

Friends of the former chief justice, recalling his once large appetite, regarded as optimistic the reports issued from the Wyoming avenue home that he was once more eating other than liquid foods. While reiterating that their patient still is far from being a well man, Dr. Francis R. Hagner and Dr. Thomas A. Claytor said in a bulletin that "his condition is satisfactory, his appetite is improving, and he is gaining in strength."

Mr. Taft was able today to recognize his daughter, Helen Taft Manning, a member of the faculty at Bryn Mawr college, and to converse with others at his bedside.

Some of those watching over him hope that he may once more recover strength to leave his bed. Doctors have diagnosed his illness as a weakened heart, the recurrence of an old bladder complaint, and a breakdown of his circulatory system.

Mexican Leader Slain in Row with Sister-in-Law

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Fernando Escamillo, one of the leaders in the national revolutionary party, died today from a shot fired by his sister-in-law. He had refused her permission for his estranged wife to see their children.

He's building his bones and teeth now

—and he needs special help

"THE time to help your baby build good bones and teeth is during the first months and years of life," physicians are telling mothers.

"He must have special protection—even though he is breast-fed he needs it. Otherwise he may not have the finely-shaped head you want him to have, the full chest, straight legs, and sound, uncrowded teeth that will not decay easily."

Nature provides this protection—Vitamin D—in two ways. In sunshine and good cod-liver oil!

Direct sunshine would keep your baby safe, if he could get enough of it on his bare body. But this is not possible on account of clothing, clouds, fog and smoke. Even ordinary window glass filters out the rays that protect.

The use of Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—then, is urged as the sure protection.

The country's leading specialists advise the use of Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil. They prefer it because they know they can depend on its high vitamin content.

Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil is very rich in Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin" which helps to build good bones and teeth, and also in Vitamin A which promotes normal growth and increases resistance to infections.

When you choose Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil, you are using a vitamin-tested, vitamin-protected oil. Be sure to insist on Squibb's. At all reliable drug stores. Plain and Mint-flavored.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanished and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will help save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c, and 60c. All druggists.

TRUE STORY MAGAZINE

TRUTH is STRANGER than Fiction

Petronius Was Giving a Party

TO ENTERTAIN his friends he had a lot of slave girls, and amongst them, forced to take part in the orgies of the night, an awfully pretty thing who happened to be the wife of his patron's gardener.

Outside, alone, under the stars, was the gardener. All the bitterness, all the passionate, helpless hatred that could be written on a man's face were turned toward that house whence the laughter came.

* * * *

The rights of man were in the scales in an Appian garden, and all the pomp and power of Rome were being weighed and found wanting.

* * * *

That was two thousand years ago; and ever since, and for four thousand years before, the affirmation and the re-affirmation of the rights of man, socially, politically, sexually, economically, have been going on.

* * * *

And, strangely enough, it is always the gardener, the plumber, the carpenter, the agrarian who is carrying on.

Where in all history do you find the rights of man being pronounced or affirmed or defended by the dominant class? Possibly the Magna Carta of the Barons in the reign of King John is the exception. But after all, they were only Barons of Baronial power who, for the most part, were merely defending their own property rights against a King.

* * * *

No; throughout all history, whatever the classes have gained of freedom of body or mind or soul, has come from the masses. It is one of the sad commentaries in history that the natural leaders of men have very seldom been the protectors of the natural rights of man. And in nearly every case where this has not been so, it is the masses, not the classes, who have produced those leaders.

* * * *

Here at True Story Magazine, in our civilization, and in our time, we are fortunately sitting where we can see that re-affirmation of the rights of man still going on.

Not the rights of men, remember. But the rights of man. Not class distinctions, but fundamental beliefs. Beliefs in personal honesty, and sexual integrity, and family unity. Beliefs that such things can and will and do win out; with hundreds of thousands of personal true stories as the evidence of that faith. And with literally millions of working families reading those stories for the re-affirmation of their faith.

* * * *

It might surprise you to know that out of all these myriads of manuscripts there is not a fraction of one percent that denies the ultimate reward of doing right.

When you stop to realize what would happen if the percentage were the other way around, it gives you something to think about. If only one percent of the masses believed in the ultimate reward of doing right and ninety-nine percent of them denied it, there would be barricades in the streets before sundown. So a thorough understanding of the value of these fundamental beliefs becomes rather an important thing.

* * * *

Here at True Story we happen to understand the ultimate outcome for good of those fundamental beliefs, so far as this civilization is concerned. And, therefore, we foster them.

* * * *

When we take the great cross-sections of True Story reading homes that come to us by the hundreds of thousands and realize the deep and abiding purpose that is back of America's working families, we know that this civilization is grounded solidly; and that this new economic set-up, which has changed the surplus money of America to the pockets of overalls, has in no wise unsettled that fundamental sense of right and wrong which has always been the great stabilizer of every race since the beginning of historical time.

D. A. R. STATES CREDO ANEW; IT'S AMERICA FIRST

Denies Charge That It Blocks Peace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, issued a statement today denying the charges of Dr. Valerie H. Parker, prominent social service worker of New York, that the D. A. R. was blocking the path of world peace by supporting large armament programs.

Dr. Parker's charges, together with her resignation from the D. A. R., were made public in New York yesterday.

"The Daughters of the American Revolution stand for no principle or policy not based upon the very words of Washington and his revolutionary compatriots," Mrs. Hobart said. "In other words, the body is opposed to pacifism, socialism and any form of internationalism which would sacrifice just national rights or interest, threaten the national safety or subvert the federal constitution."

Attorneys for Ralph J. Capone, brother of the jailed gang chief, Alphonse, will continue today their efforts to delay the trial of their client on charges of falsifying an account of his assets in an income tax compromise offer. Demurrers to the indictment against Capone were overruled by Federal Judge Lindley yesterday.

According to George F. Murdock, one of Capone's lawyers, he has not had an opportunity to call in several witnesses who will testify that Capone did not have the money the government claims he had. The government charges that Capone had $25,000 in the Pinkert State bank of Cicero at the time he offered as his entire bank account $1,000 to settle a $5,000 tax bill incurred during 1922, 1923, 1924, and 1925.

Murdock also stated that F. H. Kelleher, the fifth attorney to join Capone's defense counsel, had not been in the case long enough to familiarize himself with its details. If the motion for continuance is overruled, Capone will go to trial today.

EVIDENCE CLOSED

[Pacific and Atlantic Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Taking of testimony in the $30,000 breach of pre-nuptial contract suit brought against Ferdinand Pinney Earle, artist, by Dolores Salazar, 24, Spanish dancer, ended late today and the defense made a motion to dismiss the case. Arguments on the proposal began immediately.

Appearing as a rebuttal witness, Miss Salazar testified today that Earle was a "mean old grouch" when they were alone.

Miss Salazar was called for requestioning after the reading by the defense of three depositions from Earle's friends. In the documents they asserted that they never observed disputes between the couple and that the dancer left the hotel in Paris where she and Earle were living during May, 1927, before he departed.

In her suit Miss Salazar claimed Earle wooed her in Hollywood, married her in a "fake wedding" in Mexico in February, 1927, and then took her to Paris, where he deserted her after a quarrel. She also alleged he agreed to place $15,000 in trust for her, but she never received the money.

Otis Duncan, Former Guard Colonel, Denied Probation

Col. Otis B. Duncan, former colored commander of the Eighth infantry, Illinois National Guard, was denied a motion for probation yesterday and must serve four months in Lake county jail and pay a $2,000 fine. He was sentenced by Federal Judge Wilkerson recently after admitting charges of obtaining $1,700 from the government on false claims. The judge granted a stay of execution until March 1.

MOTHERS OPEN PROTEST SCHOOL FOR 47 STRIKERS

New efforts by the parents of forty-seven striking students of the Burbank Junior High school to compel the board of education to meet their demands did not impress school authorities yesterday. Failing in their attempt to have rescinded a board order transferring the pupils from the Lovett school, and denied admittance to the Lovett school building, some thirty mothers yesterday morning established their own school at the Gatewood Congregational church near by.

To this Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan's only reply was a threat to send the truant officers after the young strikers.

The strike was called a week ago when 180 students of the Lovett school, 6333 Bloomingdale avenue, were shifted to the new Burbank school, Mobile and Dickens avenues.

The parents objected to the transfer because the children must cross sixteen tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad en route to the new building.

MAGISTRATE'S SON BEFORE HIM ON RUM CHARGE

New York, Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Early Sunday morning detectives paid a surprise visit to a building in West New York, N. J. They found about 200 men gathered to see a movie. They found a long mahogany bar. Behind the bar was a man who gave the name of Marty Burke.

The man who said he was "Burke" was arrested for possessing liquor and as the police were about to leave with him they found some slot machines.

The case came up before Police Recorder Adam Smith tonight. This afternoon "Burke" had explained to the police that his real name was Adam Smith Jr., and that he was the recorder's son.

The son walked to the rail when his case was called, looked at his father for a moment, and then waived examination. The father fidgeted with some papers on his desk for a few seconds and then said: "Well, there is nothing for me to do but to hold you to the grand jury."

This is Sparton's 30th Anniversary Year

The New Sparton 10-Tube Model 589

MY engineers said it couldn't be done. I said it must be done. I told them that Radio's Richest Voice must be incorporated into an instrument that would be well within the income of every steadily employed man.

Today we have the new Sparton Model 589 and the world acknowledges a new standard of radio value. In this new model we have a true Sparton . . . rich, smooth, full . . . with the FACE-TO-FACE REALISM that characterizes all other models. But more! There are improvements making it so marvelously selective that its ability to cut through local stations and reach out is a revelation, even to experts. There is distance-getting power, even on a very short aerial, that is tremendous.

We have tested this remarkable new Sparton in every section of the United States and we unhesitatingly say that it is far, far ahead of its price class in both performance and tone. Hear it, and anticipate new thrills in reception.

IN ONE DAY

THOUSANDS ASKED THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY

"What is this bright, strong, unrusting metal that trims the new Ford Car?"

UNPLATED, UNRUSTING ALLEGHENY METAL used for bright parts on new Ford body types

BRIEF TECHNICAL FACTS

1 Chromium Nickel Alloy
2 Twice the tensile strength of mild steel
3 Greater resistance to abrasion and denting than steel
4 May be drawn, stamped, spun and machined
5 Unrusting . . . unstaining . . . untarnishing
6 Immune to all but a few acid reactions
7 Immune to chemical reactions resulting from preparation and cooking of food

ONLY a truly remarkable discovery could have prompted such wide interest.

Allegheny Metal is the answer. It is the answer to decades of search and experiment by car manufacturers. It means that cars can now have bright parts made of solid unrusting metal which will preserve its satin-like surface for all time . . . that merely needs wiping . . . that never needs polishing.

Allegheny Metal not only replaces plated metals on cars. It is making its mark in a thousand uses in everyday life. It is stronger than steel, as unrusting as gold, and of pure solid composition like sterling silver.

No wonder it is to be found in the form of beautiful decorations for building fronts where storm and temperature would play havoc with a feebler metal. No wonder it is in demand for service mighty and small, from airplane frames to pots and pans . . . from cafeteria counters to golf sticks . . . from laundry machines to cigar lighters.

You will find it advantageous to make a mental note of its name. It is destined to serve you, and serve you well. There is no estimating how far it will go to make life easier, pleasanter, safer and more beautiful.

Allegheny Metal is available in commercial shapes and forms. A letter on your business stationery will bring full information about this wonderful new metal.

ROOSEVELT TELLS PORTO RICO TO PRACTICE THRIFT

Delivers First Message to Island Legislature.

BY HARWOOD HULL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 10.—Outlining a brief legislative program designed to bring about administrative economy and to lay the foundation for sound economic rehabilitation for the island, Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. tonight delivered his first message to the Porto Rican legislature, which met today in its annual sixty day session.

As the legislators went into session Senator Antonio R. Barcelo, president of the upper house for thirteen years, and José Tous Soto, speaker, resigned. The two recently fell out over joint leadership of the Alianza party. Barcelo returned to his old Unionist party.

The governor's message was based on his observations of the last four months. While he did not lessen his stress on the present depressed condition, he gave greater emphasis to the certainty of a brighter future for prosperity. He urged the legislature to establish "such a record of intelligent, patriotic achievement that when we present our petition in Washington asking aid there may be no question of our ability and sincerity."

Character Testing Period.

"The present is a character testing period," the governor said, speaking in Spanish. "While at war with no foreign foe, Porto Rico is facing difficulties and dangers as grave as those which a country must face when attacked by an enemy. Hunger, disease, and unemployment are as stern foemen as ever were faced in battle. To conquer them requires as high courage as ever held by a soldier in the army."

The legislature faced the necessity of devising means for governmental economy and permanent island economic rehabilitation, Gov. Roosevelt added. He urged that every expenditure authorized be measured by the yardstick of necessity. The 77 municipalities are in desperate circumstances, he asserted, with municipal employés in some towns a year behind in pay, with taxes also in arrears.

Receipts Show Tumble.

In the first six months of the present fiscal year, Gov. Roosevelt said, insular revenue receipts had fallen 25 per cent, or $1,300,000 below the estimates made a year ago, and that the treasurer now estimated that total collections for the year would not exceed $9,500,000, more than $1,000,000 below the estimates on which the year's budget was based.

In view of this, the government is faced with the necessity of cutting less essential activities to provide for necessary functions and extensions, he said.

Pointing out that agriculture is still the source of the island's wealth, the governor said that, with an increased sugar tariff by congress, the larger sugar cane plantations should be in fairly good condition. He asked more attention be paid to the small farms and farmers on which the ultimate strength and prosperity of the island people depended.

Rumanian Envoy Is Here to Help Honor Prof. Iorga

Carlos A. Davila, Rumanian minister at Washington, reached Chicago yesterday to participate today in the close of the three day fête at Indiana Harbor in honor of Nicolae Iorga, historian, statesman, and president of the University of Bucharest. The celebration was held at Indiana Harbor because it is the center of the Rumanian population in the Chicago district, about 5,000 in all. Both Minister Davila and Iorga are guests at the apartment of Ira Nelson Morris in the Lake Shore Drive hotel. The latter was formerly minister to Rumania and was host to Queen Marie during her visit here. Minister Davila will return to Washington tonight.

VATICAN STATE YEAR OLD; DUCE MAY VISIT POPE

Pacelli Takes Over Gasparri's Duties.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 10.—According to apparently well founded rumors circulating here tonight, Premier Benito Mussolini's first official visit to Pope Pius XI. will take place amid great pomp and ceremony tomorrow, the first anniversary of the signature of the Lateran treaty.

Since he founded the Fascist government seven years ago, Il Duce has been within the Vatican walls only once. That was a year ago after he and the pope had signed the pact creating the Vatican state. Since then, a meeting of the heads of the church and state has been constantly expected, and when Augusto Turati, secretary general of the Fascist party, was received by the pope Friday, it was considered certain that Premier Mussolini's visit would follow immediately.

The reception of Premier Mussolini by the pope is also considered as the reason why the official announcement that Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli will succeed Pietro Cardinal Gasparri as the Vatican secretary of state the middle of the month has been withheld. According to etiquette, the head of the Italian government must call on the Vatican's secretary of state after conferring with the pope and it is expected that Cardinal Pacelli will be presented to Premier Mussolini tomorrow as the new holder of the office.

As a matter of fact Cardinal Pacelli unofficially took over the office this morning after a conference of two and a half hours with the pope.

It is generally known that Cardinal Gasparri will leave office by the middle of the month, retiring to a villa which the pope has presented him on the Appian hill, where he will continue his work on the codification of an oriental canon law. It is anticipated that the announcement of Cardinal Pacelli's appointment will be made as soon as he has been officially presented to Il Duce.

Cardinal Pacelli, who is 54 years old, is 23 years younger than the retiring secretary. He comes of a bourgeois family and was former papal nuncio to Germany, where he negotiated the difficult concordats with Prussia and Bavaria, winning the appreciation of President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany. He is a brother of Marquis Francesco Pacelli, who negotiated the Lateran treaty.

Cardinal Gasparri retires after 15 years of service as secretary of state. He was created a cardinal by Pope Pius X. and appointed secretary by Pope Benedict XV. in 1914. He may possibly receive Italy's highest decoration, the collar of Cinnunziata, making him titular "cousin of the king."

Italy will celebrate the Lateran treaty anniversary by flying flags on all public buildings. The Holy see, for the first time in 60 years, will unfurl its standards on the reacquired Castel Gandolfo, the pope's summer home.

Wells, Van Buren Corner Is Found Noisiest in Loop

The corner of Wells and Van Buren streets was found yesterday to be the loudest in the loop by two investigators from the health department, who charted the places where a conversation, held in normal tones, was drowned out by the clatter and din of vehicles, street cars, and elevated trains.

LAKE'S BREWERY GOES ON BLOCK FOR TAXES TODAY

The Standard Beverage company, where Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake are alleged to have made sizable fortunes in beer, will be put up for auction today. The government will sell it to collect some of the $473,842 which the erstwhile beer barons still owe in delinquent income taxes.

The government started trying to collect from Druggan and Lake five years ago, but has taken in thus far only $44,000, the amount received from the sale of Druggan's Miami Beach home several weeks ago. The two gangsters have delayed matters by trying to reach a compromise agreement with the tax collectors.

The brewery auction has been announced several times, with as many postponements. Yesterday, however, Mrs. Myrtle Taner Blackidge, collector of internal revenue, stated there would be no more delay.

SHOOTS HIMSELF BY ACCIDENT.

CHICAGO GETS NOTRE DAME-ARMY GRID GAME

CRISLER DELAYS ACCEPTANCE OF MINNESOTA POST

WIEMAN, NAMED AS LINE COACH, ALSO HESITATES

Arnold Oss Leads Alumni Faction.

BY ARCH WARD.

Herbert O. Crisler of the University of Chicago yesterday was officially appointed head coach of the University of Minnesota football team. But there is a possibility he may not accept. Hostility among alumni, students, and two members of the Minnesota senate on intercollegiate relations is the reason.

FRITZ CRISLER.

Elton Wieman of the University of Michigan, who was chosen as Crisler's assistant at Minnesota, faces a similar situation.

Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, president of Minnesota, last night admitted Crisler's reluctance to accept appointment to the coaching staff.

"Mr. Crisler sees no reason for leaving the University of Chicago, where he is satisfied with working conditions, to come to Minnesota if he is to encounter hostility in the development of his team," he told THE TRIBUNE.

Crisler declined to comment. His only statement for publication was "that he wanted two or three days to think it over."

Oss Votes Against Crisler.

The two members of Minnesota's athletic committee who voted against Crisler's selection were Arnold Oss, a former football star, and R. B. Rathbun. They are the alumni representatives on the committee.

Oss, who played against Crisler on the gridiron ten years ago, pointed out last night that his refusal to support the Chicago man's appointment was not because he lacked faith in Crisler's ability to handle the job. He said it was a slap at the high-handed methods employed in the selection of the coach by President Coffman and his committee in charge of the work. Other members of the group were James Paige, Minnesota's Big Ten faculty representative; William Middlebrook, controller; Fred Luehring, director of athletics, and E. B. Pierce, secretary of the alumni association.

According to Oss, this committee hired Crisler and Wieman and then told members of the senate committee on intercollegiate athletics, Minnesota's governing body, that it was up to them to approve the choice.

May Withdraw from Board.

Oss and Rathbun hinted last night they might withdraw from the board. They expect to make a decision this morning. Their resignation, Minnesota followers said, probably would influence Crisler and Wieman to reject their appointments as it would be evidence of divided support.

Oss told a TRIBUNE representative last night that if he remains on the board it will be solely out of consideration for Crisler.

President Coffman yesterday afternoon met with the senate committee in an effort to restore harmony. He also called in the editors of Twin City papers, urging them to stop unfavorable publicity attending the selection of a coach. Student opinion has no official voice as the Minnesota Daily, student paper, was taken over by the faculty last Friday.

Minneapolis newspapermen said yesterday announcement of the coaching selections had caused more discussion among followers of the Gophers than any incident in the school's athletic history. Several prominent Twin City men, presumably disappointed because Bernie Bierman of Tulane failed to get the post, threatened to cancel their season reservations for 1930 football. Bierman is a Minnesota alumnus who was widely mentioned as a successor to Spears.

Immediately after announcing the selections, the Minnesota athletic board wired Crisler and Wieman, pledging "united, constant and heartening support." All the deans of the university likewise dispatched telegrams assuring the appointees of faculty backing.

In making his recommendation to the board of regents, Dr. Coffman emphasized the scholastic qualifications of the two men selected. Afterward Dr. William J. Mayo, a member of the board, remarked that "the wonderful qualifications of these men sound more like qualifications for the perfect prize than for a football coach."

Since 1922 Crisler has been connected with the University of Chicago as assistant to Amos Alozo Stagg with the football team and also was head football coach and assistant in basket-

Georgetown Five Defeats Loyola of Chicago, 34-25

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Georgetown university's basketball team defeated Loyola of Chicago here tonight, 34 to 25. The Ramblers, crippled from the Duquesne game Saturday, played a tired, dragging game the first half, Georgetown piling up a score of 20 to 6. In the second half they displayed a better brand of basketball but were unable to catch the home team.

Georgetown played a fast breaking, short passing game, led by Mesmer's fine playing. He made 3 baskets and 4 free throws.

Charlie Murphy led the Loyola attack with four baskets and four free throws and his passing and defense game was the keynote of Loyola's play.

Wilson Faces Fan's Damage Charges Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The famous Hack Wilson came to town yesterday to be present today when a damage suit filed against him by Edward Young is heard by Circuit Judge William J. Fulton. Young is asking $20,000 because he was honored by Hack's attentions at Wrigley field a year ago last summer.

On that particular day Young objected to the manner in which the Cub star was playing. Young, a milkman, voiced his disapproval in a fashion distasteful to Hack, so the latter climbed into the stand and swung a few wicked rights, not to mention a few lefts. When Young was rescued from this little affair the police took him in charge. In court he was rebuked judicially and fined $1 and costs.

Young originally filed suit for $50,000, naming the ball club and Hack as defendants, but in an amended bill the club was eliminated and a price of $20,000 named as the amount Young feels due him for service as a target for the home run hero's wallops. Dave Stansbury will conduct Wilson's defense. As soon as the case is disposed of, Hack will return to his home at Martinsburg, W. Va., to remain until summoned for the start to Catalina, Feb. 25.

Donie Bush, the White Sox pilot, has decided that the rookie pitchers alone will give him all the trouble he can handle during the week of preliminary training, starting next Monday at San Antonio. The new leader of the Comiskey forces originally figured he would take a half dozen or so of the rookie infielders and outfielders along with the battery men, but he has cancelled the plan. All infielders and outfielders, whether newcomers or holdovers, with possibly one exception, will be ordered to arrive not sooner or later than the morning of Feb. 28. This batch will include the Great Art Shires.

Even with nothing more than pitchers and catchers to watch for the first ten days Bush is bound to feel the need of an extra pair of eyes as there will be about 22 individuals in the advance squad. There may be a slight alteration in this number because the deal involving a new catcher, which has been brewing all winter, is still on the fire.

*Leader—Belloni.

The American-Italian team of Reggie McNamara and Gaetano Belloni, winners of the last Chicago event, went into the lead in the six day bike race at the Stadium last night.

At midnight, the American-Italian combination was one lap ahead of the Belgian-American team of Gerard De Baets and Anthony Beckman. The American team of Freddie Spencer and Charley Winter and the German-American combination of Jimmy Walthour and Franz Deulberg were tied in mileage for third position but the place was held by Spencer and Winter who have scored 34 points in the sprints against 30 for Walthour and Deulberg.

Delponte Starts Jam.

Other teams in the race are strung out and the trailing outfits were given laps without apparent opposition.

The jamming of McNamara and Belloni and the sprinting of Freddie Spencer electrified the crowd of 4,000. McNamara and Belloni will be hard to beat judging from the way they are riding.

The jamming started shortly after 8 o'clock. Frank Delponte of Italy, who has Jack Sheehan of New York as a partner, jumped the field. Freddie Spencer passed the Italian and set out for a lap. With the aid of his partner, Charley Winter, he made it.

Then Jimmy Walthour left the pack but was caught before he had gained a quarter of a circuit. At this point, Zucchetti fell and the race was stopped.

When riding was resumed one of the longest jams of the race took place. It was started by Jack Sheehan and when it ended De Baets and Beckman were in the lead.

Shortly afterward another spurt began, during which the teams of McNamara and Belloni and Winter and Spencer gained two laps on the field. This placed McNamara and Belloni in the lead. Other jams followed but the field was content to give trailing combinations laps without chasing.

Hill and Winter Fall.

During the second sprint, Hill and Winter fell on the home stretch and the race was stopped again. Neither was badly hurt and they went back into the race after a short rest. Harris Horder hit the boards during the fourth sprint when it looked as if Brocardo and Zucchetti would gain a lap on the field. There were other spills but none of the riders was seriously hurt.

At the end of the first sprint the German team of Erich Dorn and Erich Macneski was withdrawn from the race. The latter fell three times last Sunday night. In one of the spills his teeth were loosened to such an extent he is unable to eat.

SIX DAY BIKERS.

SIX day bicycle racing has a peculiar attraction for those who allow it to become a peculiar attraction. We never yet have attended one of these events intending to leave after the 10 o'clock or 2 a. m. sprints that we did not stay from one to ever so many hours longer than we intended. Attendance easily may become a habit. That's why The Wake usually does not attend until later in the week.

We have seen six day races since their inception in these parts many years ago, when Paddy Harmon, against our advice, put on the first grind to a handsome financial loss. He lived to see them become a marked success and part of Chicago's sporting calendar.

Often have we tried to analyze the attraction. Except for the sprints and jams it is the same monotonous circling of the track by the various teams of pedalers. We say monotonous and yet that is hardly the word. There's always the chance a "jam" may occur at any time. That is part of the lure. Yet why should one sit for hours on the chance of a "jam"? O, yes, we'll be at the Stadium later in the week.

Tennis Etiquette.

Big Bill Tilden, usually popular on European tennis courts, cannot be endearing himself to spectators by his late frequent disputes with linesmen. Tilden, probably more than any other player, always has seen fit to disagree with official verdicts on "ins," "outs," and placements.

We have seen Tilden deliberately "throw" the next point when he thought he had unfairly received a decision. We have seen his opponents do the same thing when Tilden had objected to a point in their favor and Tilden almost invariably returned the point at the next opportunity.

Etiquette of tennis, unlike most sports, seems to prescribe no advantage be taken of an official decision if either opponent disagrees with it. So common became this custom that the United States Lawn Tennis association once issued an appeal to players to refrain from this kind of "sportsmanship" extremely embarrassing to referee and linesmen, who act through courtesy and receive no compensation.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Those fighting Illini from Illinois justified their fighting name again last night when they battled Northwestern's Wildcats into submission, 30 to 24. Licked by Minnesota a couple of nights ago, apparently beaten by Northwestern at the half, they might have been excused if they'd let up a bit, but not those fighting Illini.

So powerfully did they come back after the rest that the Wildcats didn't score a basket in the second half, which at least ties some kind of a Big Ten record. It wasn't all due to the Illini's defense for Riel and McCarnes rimmed the basket with a dozen shots, but all rolled around and dropped outside the loop.

Score Tied Six Times.

The game was contested more closely than the score indicates for the count was tied six times, the last time at 22 all with nine minutes to play. But Illinois got the next point on a free throw, and discarding the long passing attack they changed to slower offense that pulled Northwestern out of position and let them click a couple of short baskets that meant victory.

Illinois got the early lead, Harper and Mills scoring on dribbles to the foul line, after Northwestern had taken the technical advantage of the first free throw. Then McCarnes stepped in with two long shots in succession and Riel added a free throw. Harper's two free throws and a basket from underneath on a long pass, brought the Illini total to eight, which McCarnes equaled from under the basket after a nice bit of passing from Riel to Wheland to McCarnes.

Wildcats Grab Lead.

The Illini pulled up to 11 and Northwestern passed them and took the lead again on two long shots from the side by Bergherm and they pushed the score to the half time total of 18 to 15 on foul tosses. After another free throw each by Harper and Lockhart at the start of the second half, Harper scored with a quick cut and dribble and Mills tied the score at 20 all on a long side shot. Lockhart having added another free throw.

Kawal put Illinois in front with a pushup after Mills had dribbled in for a hook shot. Riel appeared to charge into May under the basket upsetting the big center with his shoulder, but the foul was called on May and Riel caged both free throws to tie the score at 22. Then Lockhart fouled Kawal and he scored both free throws. Lockhart followed it with one out of two on May's foul, leaving the Purple only a point behind but they never caught up again.

Illinois changed its style to a fast-moving stall, with Kawal and Mills dribbling, drawing out the Purple in an effort to get the ball. Baskets by Mills and Kamp plus free throws by Kawal and Kamp gave the Illini six more points while Northwestern's only additional tally came on Walter's free throw. Lineup:

1930 CONTEST MOVED HERE AT IRISH REQUEST

Field Available

GEORGE T. DONOGHUE, superintendent of south parks, last night said no formal application for rental of Soldiers' field had been made by Notre Dame or the Army. The field will be available for the game on Nov. 29, he said.

Mr. Donoghue expressed the hope that the military academy would send the cadet corps with the team as it did the last time it played on Soldiers' field—against the Navy in 1926.

New York, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The Army-Notre Dame football game, one of the high spots of the gridiron season, is to be played at Soldiers' field, Chicago, this year.

MAJ. PHILIP FLEMING.

At the request of Notre Dame officials, headed by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president, representatives of the United States Military academy today agreed to transfer the battle to Chicago for the 1930 season only. The 1931 and 1932 games, already contracted for, are to be played in New York as usual.

Irish Ask Change.

In a statement announcing the transfer, Father O'Donnell said the change had been made solely because Notre Dame had insisted upon it in an effort to lighten the Indiana team's heavy schedule for 1930. Under the original arrangement Notre Dame would have come to New York to meet the Army Nov. 29, and then would have been forced to entrain immediately for the west coast to meet Southern California at Los Angeles Dec. 6. Players on the team would have had to miss more than two weeks of classes.

With the game transferred to Chicago, Knute Eockne's players will miss no classes for the Army game, Father O'Donnell said. The Saturday the game is played will be declared a school holiday at Notre Dame.

Maj. Philip R. Fleming, director of athletics at West Point, was reluctant to transfer the game to Chicago because it has become a New York fixture and the climax of the Cadets' schedule. They made clear that they agreed to the change only because Father O'Donnell asked for it.

No Other Solution.

President O'Donnell said that all other possible solutions to Notre Dame's difficulties had been investigated. It was suggested, for instance, that the Southern California game be moved back to Dec. 13 if the Trojans agreed, but this was rejected on the score that it would have involved a post-season game in violation of Western conference rules under which Notre Dame operates. The later date also would involve an even longer loss of time from classes because of the incidence of the Christmas holidays beginning about Dec. 18.

When these facts had been laid before army officials they reluctantly agreed to the change.

THE REV. CHARLES O'DONNELL.

Answering possible questions as to why the game was transferred to Chicago and not to the new Notre Dame stadium, Father O'Donnell said that "West Point belongs to the nation" and that, when the cadets play, "the largest number possible should have an opportunity to see the game."

Soldiers' field will accommodate about 75,000 more persons than does the Notre Dame stadium.

Deny Report of Ill Feeling.

A short time after the last Army-Notre Dame game here last November, some unpleasantness developed over the alleged failure of New York police to provide a sufficient escort for the cadet football team on its way to the Yankee stadium the day of the game. Police Commissioner Grover Whalen denied this, but there were some threats that the game would be removed from New York. There were intimations that dissatisfaction over the allotment of tickets had created some ill feeling.

There was no hint today, however, that the transfer of the game was for any other reason than that outlined by President O'Donnell's statement. In fact, representatives of both institutions were emphatic in the statement that the game was transferred only to lighten the Notre Dame team's football burden next season.

PARTISAN RACES TO MILE VICTORY AT HIALEAH PARK

Leads Tasman to Wire by Two Lengths.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Partisan, a consistent money winning three-year old for George D. Widener, came back at one mile today to win the Lemon City purse over a lightning fast track at Hialeah park. It was the fourth victory for the Widener gelding since his turf debut last fall and kept unmarred his record of never being out of the money in ten starts.

Although accustomed to sprinting six furlongs, Partisan today showed that he could go the route, when he stopped the mile in 1:39 1-5 to defeat Mrs. G. Carroll's Tasman by two lengths. Sand Fiddler from the Mullrick stable was third.

KINCSEN WINS SPRINT

New Orleans, La., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Running under the colors of J. Haughton for the second time, Kincsen, a three year old filly, won the Lake Birgne purse at the Fair Grounds today. In her previous two starts the little miss finished second for Harry Morrissey. Haughton, a brother of the trainer of the Greentree stable, purchased her for $6,500. Today she covered the six furlongs in 1:13 flat.

Verlyn Smith was up on Haughton's entry, defeating Fenneth Russell on F. F. Brant's Ell-Weir. E. R. Bradley's Black Cloud was third.

Smith came right back in the sixth race on Jock Horgan, a Brant entry, and again defeatd Russell, who this time was astride Seth's Ballot.

MARQUETTE AND YALE HOCKEY TEAMS CLASH

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Coach Kay W. Iverson and ten of his Marquette university hockey stars of Milwaukee, Wis., arrived here today, prepared to conclude their 1930 eastern campaigning against the strong Yale sextet here tomorrow night.

Marquette has split even with Michigan and has defeated Harvard and the Army on this trip. In Yale, they meet the eastern varsity leaders and the game will be the final test for Iverson's team.

At home, Marquette has beaten Minnesota twice; trounced Wisconsin, and turned back Michigan Tech, in addition to winning several preliminary and practice tilts. Marquette defeated Harvard in Boston, 4 to 3, and Army at Bear Mountain, 5 to 1.

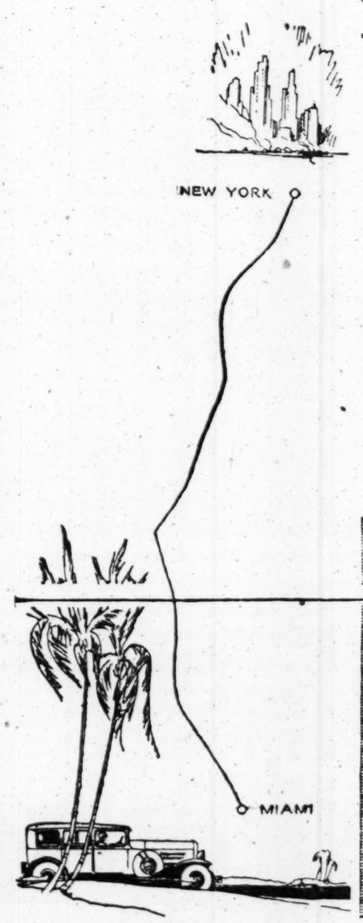
AVERAGES MILE A MINUTE IN 1451-MILE RECORD FROM NEW YORK TO MIAMI WITH AN AIRPLANE-TYPE ENGINE



Shattering the previous record by more than 5 hours and averaging 59.6 miles an hour, the new airplane powered Franklin flashed from New York to Miami in 24 hours, 20 minutes.

This was just one gruelling test. To further prove the remarkable stamina, power, speed, acceleration and all-around performance of the airplane-type engine, the Franklin has been put through every conceivable test.

Before the engine was ever put into a car it was made to run for hours AT TOP SPEED in an oven of 175 degrees temperature. Then it was tested in a refrigerator room with temperature of 40 degrees below zero. It performed perfectly.

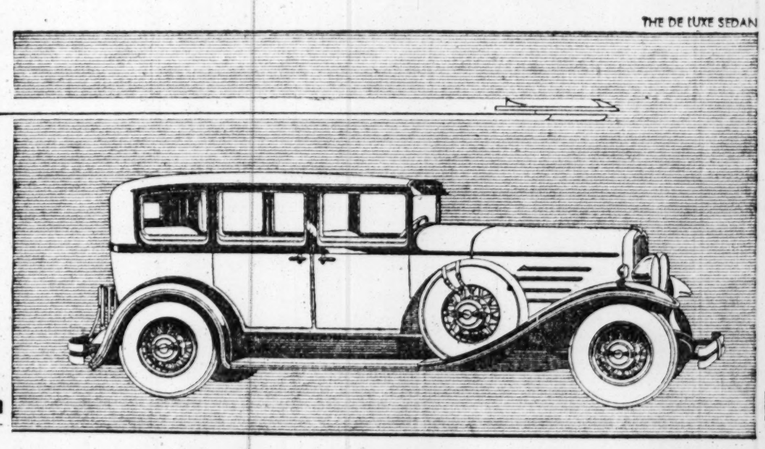
Triumphantly meeting all laboratory tests, this airplane-type engine was placed in the 1930 Franklin chassis for road tests. Cannon Ball Baker drove a stock 1930 Franklin from coast-to-coast for an amazing new record.

A Franklin motor was then taken from a car and placed into a new Waco airplane. A sensational flight was made which marks the first time the engine of an automobile has ever flown an airplane.

Now—from New York to Miami—the FASTEST LONG RUN any car has ever made. The performance of no other motor car is comparable to that of the 1930 Franklin. And in appearance the car is just as far advanced. The new Franklin is definitely a great factor in the vogue for 1930.

See the car. And by all means drive it. Its airplane performance will give you more thrills than you thought possible to get from a present-day motor car.

THE DE LUXE SEDAN



THE 1930 FRANKLIN ALREADY HOLDS THESE AMAZING RECORDS

NEW YORK TO MIAMI—a sensational 1451 mile trip south in 24 hours, 20 minutes averaging 59.6 miles an hour . . . NEW YORK TO LOS ANGELES—more than 8 hours faster than any other car and without a motor stop . . . PIKE'S PEAK ENDURANCE—150 miles—6 consecutive round trips without a stop. Considered impossible before . . . BUTTE-TO-ANACONDA—round trip—with an astonishing average of 74.68 miles an hour . . . SALT LAKE CITY TO OGDEN—with another high speed average of 67.8 miles an hour.

FLORIDA HUNTERS USE FLIVVERS IN CHASE OF QUAIL

Leave Roads and Drive Across Country.

BY BOB BECKER.

Punta Gorda, Fla., Feb. 10.—Inasmuch as they are trained to hunt to an automobile, it is quite a treat to watch the quail dogs take the field against the birds down here. Up north, where you walk behind your dogs, we have shagged around hour after hour trying to keep up with them or locate them when they hunted too far from the guns.

Down here Peter Schutt, well known Florida sportsman, has successfully introduced the automobile and dog combination, so a quail hunt out of this town is quite a novelty.

Drive Across Country.

Fortunately the topography of the country is suited for this system. You can climb into a flivver or other light car, turn off the road, and zigzag through the woods, with the dogs always ahead looking for game. Once in a while you may get stuck in a soft place. But you soon learn how to read the ground whether you're in the piney woods territory or on the broad, deserted prairie barrens east of here.

Once this knowledge of terra firma is acquired it is possible to cover a lot of country in a day and find plenty of coveys. Inasmuch as you usually are up in the middle of the day for two or two and one-half hours, your shooting is confined to a few hours in the morning and "late evenin'" as the Floridans call the period from 3 to 5:30.

Rex Finds Them.

Yesterday Kelly Day, a resident of Punta Gorda, turned out old Rex, the famous 11 year old pointer, about forty-five miles east of this town. We were right in the middle of the unsatisfied silent prairie barrens. Paul H. Davis, Chicago sportsman, was in the party to try his first shot at a Florida quail.

It didn't take old Rex long to stir up some excitement. He was loping ahead of us with young Bozo, his 10 months old son, keeping him company. We were chugging along in second gear on a little used sand road. Suddenly we saw Rex stop to nose around in the tall grass. He had struck the hot scent of a covey. Kelly Day cut off the engine.

"Rex'll have 'em located by the time we get up to him," said Day confidently. He did. Working up wind we saw his head go in the air. Then he eased forward forty feet. Snap! There was the point. Rex had found 'em. We flushed a covey of eighteen birds. Sporty shooting put five of 'em in the game bag.

CHICAGO GOLDEN GLOVES BATTLE OPENS TONIGHT

Notice to Boxers

BOXERS who will compete in the north sectional trials must report at The Fronton, Lawrence avenue and Clark street, at 6 o'clock on Thursday night. The entry list is so large it will take two days to complete the trials.

sectional trials to keep boxers from the same club meeting each other. In the Coliseum finals this will be impossible because of the large entry. Finalists must take the chance of the draw.

Tonight's drawings and weighings will be in charge of Harry Berz, who has served in this capacity in other Tribune tournaments. Dr. Louis K. Eastman and his staff of physicians will conduct the physical examinations. Competent referees will handle the bouts and decisions will be rendered by Illinois athletic commission judges.

MICHIGAN CITY READY

Hoosier lads who aspire to Golden Gloves boxing titles will be coming and going in rapid fire order in two widely separated rings in Indiana tonight.

Sectional tournaments open in Vincennes and Michigan City. Seventy-three boys are ready for the bell in Vincennes and thirty-five await action at Michigan City. Many of the star amateurs in southern Indiana and southern Illinois will qualify in the Vincennes meet, while Michigan City has attracted several of the best battlers in the northern part of the state.

The Vincennes tournament is to be staged in the Coliseum in that city, which has a seating capacity of 6,000. Most of the seats have been sold for the opening program tonight and it is expected a capacity audience will watch the boys struggle for the championships in their final matches tomorrow night.

Sellouts Seen for Both.

The Michigan City meet will be held in the high school gymnasium. A sellout is expected tonight and tomorrow night at Michigan City. The Vincennes Sun is staging the southern Indiana meet and the Michigan City Dispatch is in charge of the boxing carnival in the northern section of the state.

St. Paul Ring Veteran May Fight White

It is beginning to look as if Johnny O'Donnell of St. Paul will be the opponent of Charley White when the veteran Chicago left hook artist attempts a ring comeback in Jack Dempsey's show at the Coliseum on Feb. 21.

Lope Tenorio, Spug Myers, Johnny Jadock, Andy DiVodi, and Tommy Grogan have been mentioned as opponents for White, but last night all signs pointed to O'Donnell getting the match. Like White, O'Donnell has been in retirement for several years. He started a comeback six months ago, and in four fights in St. Paul has won all of them.

In his day, O'Donnell was about as popular as White.

Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, and Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver will renew their feud at the Chicago Stadium Feb. 24. This was announced by Matchmaker Nate Lewis yesterday. Their third clash calls for a ten round struggle at 145 pounds with no title at stake. When they met in New York at the lightweight mark, Mandell gave McLarnin a beating. They then clashed at the Chicago Stadium at catch weights, and McLarnin was the victor.

Harry Dublinsky, west side lightweight, signed yesterday to fight Ted Henry of the stock yards in Dick Curley's show at Ashland Boulevard auditorium Feb. 17. They are scheduled to go six rounds on a card in which Paul Pantaleo and Bid Doran, heavyweights, will meet.

THESE YOUNG MEN WENT WEST

Slattery Wins 'Title'; Escapes K. O. in 13th

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Jimmy Slattery, twice on the verge of a knockout, rallied tonight to win a 15 round decision over Lou Scozza, his Buffalo rival for recognition in New York state as the new light heavyweight champion. Slattery weighed 166¾; Scozza, 169½.

After piling up a wide lead on points through three-quarters of the battle, Slattery ran into a wild overhand swing late in the thirteenth round that all but finished him. A volley of punches draped him over the middle rope, but he managed to last through the round.

Again in the fourteenth round Slattery was badly hurt, but rallied and finished so strong in the fifteenth that Scozza was in danger.

WHEAT PRICES FIRM; CLOSE AT NET GAINS

Traders Await Operations of Stabilization Corp.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Operations of the stabilization corporation in the United States wheat markets was brought one step nearer yesterday with a granting of a charter to the corporation in Delaware. The farm board meeting scheduled yesterday at Washington was postponed to today, and the trade feel certain that the proposal of the wheat advisory committee will be adopted. The corporation has no capital stock and is empowered to do anything it is entitled to do under the agricultural marketing act.

Wheat traders were inclined to keep close to shore, pending developments as to what the stabilization corporation would do when it starts to function, and with tomorrow a holiday in North American markets there was less pressure on the market with shorts fair buyers at times to even up. Commission houses bought on the breaks.

The undertone in wheat was firm throughout the day with the close at the top with net gains of ⅜@1¼c, March being, $1.17½@1.17⅝, and May, $1.21⅞@1.22. Winnipeg gained 1@1¼c while Liverpool was ⅜@1d higher. Buenos Aires was helped by an advance of ½c in the foreign exchange rate and closed ⅛@¼c higher after being ⅝@⅞c higher at midday.

Europe Against Wheat Values.

Efforts on the part of North American producers to secure a fair price for their wheat is meeting with considerable opposition in Europe, and a flood of propaganda directed against the Canadian pool is apparent in the English press. To some extent it is possible that this has affected the foreign demand for both American and Canadian grain. No export sales of consequence were reported at the seaboard, with few bids in the market for gulf wheat.

In commenting on the North American wheat situation Thomson & McKinnon say that the actions of the farm board in its proposed stabilization corporation in connection with the guarantee of Canadian bank advances to the pool by the provincial governments is notice to European buyers that present wheat levels are officially considered rock bottom in the two countries.

A decrease of 3,811,000 bu in the domestic visible supply was somewhat in excess of what the trade had expected, and made the total 159,684,000 bu, against 124,369,000 bu last year. Low temperatures were reported in France, following the recently abnormally mild weather, and apprehension regarding the coming crop in that country was expressed in cables. Paris market was reported as sharply higher. A few complaints were received from Indiana, Illinois and Texas regarding the outlook for the crop.

More Bullish on Corn.

Commission houses generally are taking a more bullish view of the corn situation, and the open interest in futures is steadily increasing. There was some selling during the day by local operators on prospects of a record crop in Argentina, but the offerings were readily absorbed and the close was within a fraction of the top with net gains of ⅝@¾c higher, March being 89@89¼c, and May, 92¾@92⅞c. Country offerings were again small. Visible supply increased 1,959,000 bu for the week, and is 17,174,000 bu, against 27,963,000 bu last year.

Trade in oats was small, and prices held within narrow limits, closing ¼@⅜c higher in sympathy with other grains. March finished at 45c and May at 46½c.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

There was limited interest in North American wheats shown by foreigners, and no sales of consequence were reported. Local handlers sold 10,000 bu wheat, 68,000 bu corn, and 31,000 bu oats to the domestic trade.

Range of cash grain prices in leading markets follow:

IMPROVEMENT IN STEEL TRADE DUE TO DEMAND

Unfilled Orders Up 57,517 Tons.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The decided revival in the steel industry in the last month or so has resulted from improved demand and not from any effort by the steel companies either to anticipate the future or to expanded production at the expense of back-logs.

This is evident from the monthly report on unfilled orders issued by the United States Steel corporation yesterday. In spite of the fact that mill operations have increased to around 76 per cent of capacity, unfilled tonnage increased 51,517 tons during January and at the end of that month totaled 4,468,710 tons.

The fact that the present increase marked the fifth consecutive month to show a gain is additional evidence of how closely the steel industry has geared production to actual demand since last summer and through the dull period that followed the stock market collapse in October and November. Furthermore, unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel corporation now are at the highest point since last June and stand 359,223 tons above Jan. 31, 1929, when plants were operating at capacity.

Confidence in Future.

Additionally, the current reports attest the willingness of steel consumers to place orders for the future, which suggests confidence in the general business situation. While the increase in unfilled orders was not as large as had been hoped and predicted, still it was satisfactory, particularly in view of reports that rail mills in the Chicago district have boosted operations to 90 per cent of capacity as the result of new orders. It is expected that this rate will be continued into the summer months.

"A moderate recovery is taking place in the steel, automobile and other basic industries," the American Bankers' Association Journal says in its current issue. "But it is too early to say that general business will be back to normal or above in a few weeks. If the recovery is forced there is danger of a secondary reaction."

In line with the new policy of the United States government to finance its needs by selling noninterest bearing short term securities at a discount, Secretary Mellon last night announced an offering of approximately $50,000,000 of three months' treasury bills. Bids for the bills will be received up to 2 o'clock next Friday and awards probably will be made the next day.

This is the second time the treasury has offered such securities to the highest bidder. The present bills will be dated Feb. 18 and will mature May 21. In view of the present easy tone in interest rates, it is expected the new bills will sell at less than 1 per cent discount.

St. Louis Cuts Rate.

The St. Louis Federal Reserve bank yesterday reduced its rediscount rate from 5 to 4½ per cent, in line with reductions made by other reserve institutions in the last fortnight. Of the twelve reserve banks, ten now are on the 4½ per cent basis and the other two, New York and Chicago, have adopted a 4 per cent rate.

It would seem that the recent strength in the stock market has been utilized by banks to dispose of securities. The weekly statement of condition of reporting member banks, issued by the reserve board last night, shows that the banks reduced their holdings of securities [other than government obligations] by $30,000,000 in the week ended Feb. 5. Such holdings are now $162,000,000 below a year ago.

On the other hand, these banks increased their loans on securities by $10,000,000 and are lending $133,000,000 more than a year ago. Other loans declined $61,000,000, but are $238,000,000 above a year ago. These member banks reduced their borrowings at the reserve banks by $20,000,000, and now are borrowing $446,000,000 less than a year ago.

Natural Terminals Held Necessary for Waterways

BY SCRUTATOR.

One of the principal objections to the Mississippi waterway shipping system, by opposing partisans, is that it does not actually haul enough freight to justify its existence; in other words that it is not profitable.

That the waterway barges do haul a considerable tonnage on the lower Mississippi is unquestioned. Whether the operation of them by the government is for the benefit of all concerned is a matter of controversy. Advocates of railroads maintain that the government accounting is not proper and that it fails to give consideration to taxes, interest, and other charges that are paid by rail carriers.

The truth is that the waterway has not yet had a fair trial and will never have a fair one until it has been extended into the great industrial region around the lower end of Lake Michigan. Any transportation line must have two ends. As an ideal, this means that the best rail line or the best water line would tap the two busiest sections in the United States. The ideal is fulfilled by the road that leads from Chicago to New York over a water level route.

Products Collect Naturally.

Products of the vast interior of the North American continent collect naturally here. More commodities come here than to any other point in the world. The main railroads of the United States have sought entrance here. It was an entirely natural process. No attempts have been made by American railroads to drive through Chicago. The city itself and its surrounding territory in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana furnish all the traffic that a good transportation system could wish for one end. This condition is met less satisfactorily by any other section in the country, with the exception of the New York metropolitan area.

The greatest trade route in the world, the one from Chicago to New York along the shores of Lake Erie and the Mohawk-Hudson valley, finds rails and waterway in competition. Last summer steel barges loaded with sugar came to Chicago from Philadelphia, at considerable saving to the shippers. Yet the competing roads are in general conspicuously prosperous.

Logically, the second best route in the country should be that from Chicago to New Orleans. The one railroad that connects these points on its own rails is conspicuously profitable. The waterways system leading to New Orleans is confined, for interior traffic, to river towns in great part. Some rail and barge shipments have come into Chicago, but the amount is far smaller than it would be if there were a direct connection.

Estimates Vary.

Estimates of the tonnage available for shipment both ways on the Chicago-New Orleans water route vary by many millions of tons. But the department of commerce reports that American exports are changing constantly in character; while the percentage of crude materials and crude foodstuffs is going down, that of finished manufactures and processed foodstuffs is going up. These latter goods are turned out here in greater quantity than in any other section of the interior.

It remains to be seen whether the completed line will be profitable. Recently, however, when a privately owned barge line asked permission to operate as a common carrier from New Orleans to Cincinnati, a far smaller center than this one, the Southern railway protested against this permission on the ground that the line would get all the traffic it could handle at freight rates lower than would be practicable for rails to grant. Perhaps this is an indication that our water lines will be profitable when they reach real terminals.

Report Eaton-Otis Group Buys Gulf Steel Shares

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 10.—The Cyrus Stephen Eaton-Otis & Co. group has acquired a substantial block of Gulf States Steel company stock, according to reports received in Wall street today. The Eaton-Otis people are said to have purchased at least 40 per cent of the steel company's shares. Gulf States Steel, a $25,000,000 concern, is the second largest steel producer in the south.

Gulf States, it is understood, may be included in Mr. Eaton's merger of independent steel companies into the Republic Steel corporation. Republic's activities in the south, it is reported, will be delegated to Gulf States. Addition of Gulf States will send Republic's total ingot production to well over 5,000,000 tons yearly, but will not change the lineup according to size of steel companies in the United States. Bethlehem ranks second, with an ingot capacity of 9,000,000 tons.

Gradual Accumulation

Gulf States common has been quietly under accumulation on the New York Stock exchange since last summer. Every share that was offered last summer at 65 was taken out of the market. All efforts since that time to trace the buyer proved of no avail.

At the time an investment trust was believed to have been the purchaser, but the buying bore all the earmarks of an Eaton-Otis operation. Practically all of their mergers have been preceded by a quiet market coup. They acquired control of Republic Iron and Steel, the main unit corporation, a year ago unknown even in the newly formed Republic Steel to the officers of the company.

Shares Outstanding.

Gulf States Steel has outstanding 197,500 no par common shares, including 72,500 shares offered at $60 a year ago to preferred and common holders. The stock last February was changed from $100 par to no par and the authorized amount increased from 125,000 to 300,000 shares. The company also has outstanding $2,000,000 in 7 per cent cumulative $100 par first preferred. Funded debt consists of $3,812,500 of 5½ per cent 15 year debentures due in 1942.

The purchasers constitute the same group that last week purchased a controlling interest in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. The acquisition of Goodyear was completed with the same quietness that has featured other operations of this group.

MELLON TO SELL 50 MILLION IN TREASURY BILLS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon announced today the treasury would receive bids for treasury bills to the amount of approximately $50,000,000 up to 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Feb. 14.

It will be the second time the treasury has reported to the newly authorized treasury bills to raise funds to provide money for government operations. The bids, the secretary said, would be examined as soon as possible after the closing hour, probably the following morning.

The bills will be dated Feb. 18 and will mature on May 19.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 10.—The stock market had a lot to contend with today. Tightening money rates, further unsettlement of commodity markets, profit taking on account of Saturday's unexpected advance, and persistent and aggressive bear selling designed to force the long expected decline.

Yet, in spite of it all, constructive forces managed to score at least an even break on the final price figures. They carried some groups as units, the railroads and the airplane issues, both of which were vigorous and strong, and kept a good quota of the

PARAMOUNT DIRECTORS VOTE DIVIDEND BOOST; ALSO CHANGE IN NAME

New York, Feb. 10—(AP)—Directors of the Paramount-Famous-Lasky corporation today increased the annual dividend rate from $3 to $4 by declaring a quarterly distribution of $1 a share, payable March 29 to stock of record March 7.

The directors also voted to ask stockholders at the annual meeting April 15, to increase the total authorized capital stock from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 shares, and to approve a change in the corporate title of the company to Paramount-Publix corporation.

Adolph Zukor, president, stated that from careful forecasts of profits of the corporation for 1930, and from the results during January, the directors felt justified in increasing the annual dividend rate.

The board has no intention at present of issuing any large amount of additional stock, he said. Mr. Zukor explained that there are at present outstanding 2,700,000 shares of common stock and an additional 250,000 shares reserved for employés under a plan previously approved by stockholders. This leaves only 50,000 shares unissued of the total authorized stock. The additional authorized stock is desired to permit the corporation to expand through the purchase of additional properties when and if opportunities are presented.

GOLDE CLOTHES SHOPS REPORT '29 BEST YEAR

S. R. Golde of the Golde Clothes Shops, Inc., large men's clothing chain system, yesterday asserted that 1929 was the largest and most successful year in the chain's history.

More new stores were opened during the year than in any previous period and based on the volume of sales during the last quarter, they are decidedly optimistic for the coming year, Mr. Golde said.

In Chicago alone seven new stores were opened last fall, making eighteen for this city, with several more leases already signed for additional stores to open during the coming year. The Chicago district volume was beyond expectations and they look forward to a still larger volume in 1930.

Ainsworth Earns $6.47 a Share on Common Stock

Net profits of the Ainsworth Manufacturing corporation for the year ended Dec. 31 were $1,040,129, equivalent to $6.47 a share on the 160,655 shares of common stock outstanding. In 1928 the company earned net profit of $663,573 or $4.13 on the same number of shares. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 shows current assets of $2,316,022, against current liabilities of $341,225. Total assets are carried at $3,701,776.

CHICAGO STOCK VOLUME RISES; PRICES FIRM

Byllesby Sponsored Trust Up 2¼ Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Utility stocks, headed by Middle West Utilities, chief Insull holding company, led in an active trading session on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday in which sales reached 455,000 shares. The volume was the largest since Dec. 30, 1929, when a total of 502,000 shares changed hands.

The best gains of the day, however, were not chalked up for the utility issues. Utility and Industrial corporation, Byllesby sponsored investment trust, was active with a turnover of about 12,000 shares, and closed with a gain of 2¼ points. Burnham Trading advanced 2¼. Allied Products, on a lighter trade, closed up 2½ following report on 1929 earnings. Auburn, on sales of about 1,500 shares, spurted nearly 10 points.

Plan New Financing.

The price range of the utilities was narrow, with Middle West, on sales of 123,000 shares, advancing a fraction to 33⅜. Midland United was up a similar amount, while Central and Southwest declined slightly and Commonwealth Edison, which touched 292 during the day, finished unchanged. New financing for three Middle West subsidiaries will be carried out today with the offering of additional bonds totaling $3,615,000 by a banking group headed by E. H. Rollins & Sons. The firms whose bonds are being marketed are the Michigan Public Service company, Kansas Power company, and Missouri Public Service company.

Missouri Kansas was fairly active and moderately higher following announcement that the company has purchased outright the Wood Oil company of Kentucky. The Wood firm was formed in 1905 and operates about 800 wells and 1,000,000 feet of gathering lines. Frank P. Parish, president of Missouri Kansas, emphatically denied yesterday that the du Pont interests had gained control of the firm or that, as the report had it, he was heading a group which was attempting to regain control by increasing the capitalization and creating a dollar par value stock.

Steinite Income Drops.

Though the radio stocks were generally dull, Steinle jumped to 3, a gain of 1⅜ over the previous close. The annual report of the company, issued yesterday, shows the firm suffered a net loss of $148,591 last year, which compares to a net profit of $383,017 in the previous fiscal year. The balance sheet shows current assets of $1,461,126 as against current liabilities of $1,264,715.

Zenith was about a point higher. Paul B. Klugh stated yesterday that January business was the largest in the firm's history. Profits for the month were $57,502, compared to $27,273 for the same month last year. The company has overcome the unsettling conditions which were impairing earnings during recent months, Mr. Klugh said.

List Minor Gains.

Gains of a point or more were made by the following issues: Sangamo Electric, Brown Fence A and B, Kalamazoo Stove, Gleaner Combine Harvester. Marks Brothers preferred jumped 33⅓ points with reports that the protective committee has agreed with the corporation on continuation of dividends. The fate of the dividend on the issue has been in doubt since the acquisition of the company by Publix.

Swift & Co. was unchanged at 33. It is understood that Swift is negotiating for a contract with General Foods, giving the latter the use of its meat freezing process.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Was extremely dull and featureless today closing 5 points higher to 1 lower. Refiners were moderate sellers of September toward the close, but otherwise business was at a standstill. Sales, 1,900 brls. Prime crude, 7.50c; prime summer yellow spot, 8.45c; March closed, 8.83c; May, 9.11c; July, 9.33c; September, 9.48c.

GREYHOUND REVENUE.

Greyhound corporation reports gross passenger revenue for the company lines between Chicago and New York of $107,517, against $325,943 for the same month last year, an increase of more than 25 per cent.

Steel Hardened in Oil

One of the country's most important manufacturers asked the help of Interstate Metallurgists to prevent continual cracking, chipping and breaking in gears subject to severe shocks.

Years of experience in the use of steels for this purpose has taught these metallurgists that a certain alloy steel, with the right heat-treatment, then hardened in oil, would solve this trouble.

These recommendations were followed and as a result the gears now withstand their severe shocks without failure.

The sound advice of these Interstate Metallurgists is available on your problems.

First Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds
Due February 1, 1944

Price 98 and Interest, Yielding 5.20%

Previous issues of these bonds are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and application will be made to list those now offered.

The following information is taken from official sources:

The Company, operating in Utah, southwestern Wyoming and southeastern Idaho, supplies electric power and light to Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, and with its subsidiary, The Western Colorado Power Company, serving an important section in southwestern Colorado, to 279 other communities. The generating plants now operated, including those leased, have a total installed capacity of 237,117 kw., of which 198,327 kw. is hydro-electric.

The First Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds are secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage on all the fixed property and the franchises of the Company, in Utah, Wyoming and Idaho and, through the deposit of securities, by a first lien on the fixed property of its subsidiary located in Colorado.

As officially reported, gross earnings of the Company from operation, including its subsidiary in Colorado, for the twelve months ended November 30, 1929, were $11,721,750 and net earnings from operation were $5,794,058 or over 3.1 times the annual interest of $1,839,850 on mortgage bonds with the public on completion of this financing.

We recommend these bonds for investment and shall be pleased to send circulars describing the issue in detail.

Sears-Roebuck.

Mrs. A. H.: Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported increased earnings in 1929 on substantially larger sales, although expenses, depreciation, etc., increased proportionately more than net sales.

The company during 1929 rounded out its retail expansion program and is now in a position to devote its efforts more fully to developing efficient operation of stores already open. Modification of the freight prepayment plan inaugurated in 1929 may improve earnings during the current year.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s net sales in 1929 were $403,472,007, against $319,773,787 in 1928. Net income was $30,057,652, equal to $6.62 per share on 4,537,654 no par shares outstanding at the end of the year. Surplus for 1929 was $19,132,751.

Net income in 1928 was $26,907,902, or $6.28 per share earned on 4,284,418 shares.

Due partly to the fact that some of the company's financing of expansion in 1929 was done through temporary borrowing instead of capital issues, the ratio of current assets to current liabilities declined from 3.2 to 2.6. Net working capital, however, at the end of 1929 was $90,491,564, or $13,250,000 greater than at the close of 1928.

Cash dividends are at the annual rate of $2.50 per share. In addition special stock dividends of one per cent are being paid quarterly.

The stock is regarded as high grade among common stocks.

Lion Oil Refining.

P. J. Z.: Lion Oil Refining company reported net sales amounting to $7,623,133 in 1929, compared with $5,033,862 in 1928.

Net income in 1929 was $1,184,478, equal to $4.39 per share earned on 270,000 no par shares. Net income in 1928 was $206,411, or 83 cents per share earned on 250,000 shares.

At the close of 1929 current assets were $2,692,595 and current liabilities were $1,220,563, compared with $2,432,379 and $718,135, respectively, a year before.

The common stock is on a $2 annual dividend basis. It is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

J. S.: Youngstown Sheet and Tube company first sinking fund 5 per cent bonds, series A, due Jan. 1, 1978, are secured by a first mortgage on all fixed assets of the company owned on Nov. 1, 1927, and on all additions and improvements thereto and by a pledge of stocks and certain obligations of subsidiaries.

Earnings in the five years ended Dec. 31, 1928, averaged 4.4 times interest charges.

These bonds are listed on the New York Stock exchange. They are a sound investment.

Sherer has been elected vice president and director, and his former position of treasurer is filled by E. C. Badger, formerly assistant treasurer, recently in charge of production operations. John W. Anderson is advanced to the position of general works manager.

Harold E. Wood, vice president of the Foreman-State corporation, and Dr. Nicholas Iorga, president of the National University of Rumania, will speak before the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle Wednesday noon. Mr. Wood will discuss modern tendencies in investment banking, while Dr. Iorga will discuss relations between that country and the United States.

Indices of Value

Once more the eyes of the investing public are focused upon real evidence of value: past earnings, dividends, and book values. Accuracy, in determining these factors, depends in part upon the accuracy with which property has been set up and depreciated on the books. American Appraisal Service is the surest means of obtaining this accuracy.

H. W. ELMORE & CO. TO MARKET LAND FOR K. L. GRENNAN

K. L. Grennan of Cleveland yesterday appointed the Foreman State Bank and Trust company as trustee of the properties of the K. L. Grennan Realty trust, and named H. W. Elmore & Co. as sales agents for the properties in the trust. This deal is the outgrowth of an agreement between Mr. Grennan and Howard W. Elmore by which they have become associated in the development and sale of this property, which will retail, it is claimed, for approximately $10,000,000.

The property lies between Harlem avenue and Cumberland road and between Oakton and Dempster streets, near Park Ridge. About half of the land already has been platted and more than thirty homes have been built. The construction program for 1930 calls for fifty additional homes. Improvements said to have cost more than $1,000,000 already have been installed. The property will be offered in the spring by Elmore & Co. Mr. Elmore states that this is the largest and finest of the seventy subdivisions he has marketed during the last few years.

The Archineer

Making Your Factory Fit

WE offer a complete service for the solution of the problems of industrial plant layout, production, design and construction. Our work as specialists to help lower costs deals with the physical plant, and in pursuing it we have for many years designed "factories that fit."

We accept only such work as can be handled by and under the personal direction of our staff. We charge for, and our clients receive, the services of a group of men of wide experience in their respective fields whose efforts are dovetailed to make a complete job.

This unified service has resulted in large economies for many clients. We are always glad to discuss the possibility of serving others.

TIME BUILDS A WALL

No longer can industry hope to serve the entire United States from any one point . . . however centrally located.

IF you want to sell all of the United States you must get your goods inside the walls Time has built around each major market. Long ago you could sell this whole land from a single point. Merchants were willing to wait. They bought six months, a year—sometimes two years ahead.

But not now. No matter how transportation speeds up, public demand is one step ahead. Things move too fast these days—and the trade refuses to hold the bag.

They want to order today, and start selling tomorrow. And if you cannot make such deliveries, your competitor gets the business. Hand-to-mouth buying has been firmly rooted by the lesson of 1921, and the practical demonstration of its value in the Fall of 1929.

One of the greatest markets walled about by Time is the South. In a decade buying power has trebled. Diversified industry, tremendously stimulated agriculture, have both contributed to this new and permanent prosperity. And 1929 prosperity assures big Southern volume for 1930.

Atlanta is Distribution City to this market. By rail, by road, by air, you can reach the rich territory more efficiently than from any other point. And more economically, in point of cost and volume gained, as has been amply proven by nearly 700 outstanding national concerns that have chosen this city during the past four years alone.

The Atlanta Industrial Area is a manufacturing region of unexcelled advantages. Efficient labor, plentiful raw materials, low-cost power, natural gas, low taxes, building costs 20% to 35% under those in other sections—these and a host of other basic factors combine here to carry profits to their highest point.

It may be that Atlanta location cannot help your business,—but neither you nor we can be sure of that until we both study the situation as it affects your special problems. To this end the Atlanta Industrial Bureau offers the services of its experts, who will analyze conditions here, and report their findings to you in detailed and unbiased form.

This valuable service is rendered without charge or obligation, and in the strictest confidence, upon your request. It may be the means of adding thousands to your net profits in the next few years. Write Receipts at Chicago today, 7,000 cattle; 35,000 hogs, and 17,000 sheep.

Yesterday's supply of 75,000 hogs failed to reverse the trend of the market and new high price levels for the season were established soon after the opening. Both the extreme top and general average prices moved up 5c at $11.05 and $10.70 respectively.

Prices ruled steady to 10c higher, medium and weighty butchers showing the most gain in midsession and later when some buyers were "short" and had to offer premiums to obtain enough to fill carloads of top kinds. Some orders were carried over unfilled, due to the scarcity of suitable stock late in the day. There was a quick clearance of all good grades when small local packers and city butchers entered the market. Only 4,000 hogs were estimated left at the close. The five leading western markets expect 80,000 today, against 88,900 the previous Tuesday.

Cattle Prices Improve.

Following two weeks of "starvation" receipts, yesterday's supply of 14,000 cattle proved below requirements of the trade, which enabled salesmen to force better grades of steers to slightly higher prices. Buyers, however, were conservative and after the few urgent orders had been filled, there was a topheavy "feeling" in the market for plain and medium grades.

Well finished yearlings and steers sold regularly at strong to 25c higher prices, while others were hard to dispose of at the recent decline. Steers averaging 1,432 lbs, and a load of mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 876 lbs, topped the market at $15.00. Cows and heifers sold steady to strong, with light yearling heifers 15@25c higher. A load of 650 lb averages reached $12.85. Calves were mostly steady considering quality. Stockers and feeders were scarce and in better demand.

Heavy Lambs $10.00.

Ten dollars per hundred pounds was a popular price for lambs averaging 95@110 lbs, yesterday, although several hundred head averaging 105@110 lbs sold as low as $9.50@$9.75 and odd lots of extreme weights down to $9.00, all new low marks for the kinds.

The peak of $12.25 for "hand picked" light lambs stands lowest since 1922 and compares with $17.35 a year ago. Only a small proportion of the day's offerings sold above $11.75, owing to the scarcity of the kinds eligible to $12.00 and above.

Principal and semi-annual interest (June 30 and December 31) payable in gold coin of or equivalent to the present standard of weight and fineness of the United States of America gold coin at The Chase National Bank of the City of New York in New York City or Havana, at the holder's option, without deduction for any Cuban taxes present or future. Redeemable as an entirety at any time at 105% of the principal amount thereof and accrued interest on sixty days' notice. Callable for the sinking fund at 100 and accrued interest on 30 days' notice. The following information regarding these Bonds is from information furnished by His Excellency Mario Ruiz Mesa, Secretary of the Treasury of the Republic of Cuba:

Security: The Public Works 5½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds are direct obligations of the Republic of Cuba. These Bonds are specifically secured, as provided in an agreement with the Republic of Cuba, by a first preferential lien and charge to the extent required for payment of principal and interest on 90% of the revenues collected from certain taxes specified in the Cuban Public Works Law of July 15, 1925, as amended, subject to outstanding Public Works 5½% Serial Certificates limited to $20,000,000 maturing serially on and prior to June 30, 1933. The agreement establishes an intermediate credit for a period of one year under which 5½% deferred payment work certificates ranking pari passu in lien with these Bonds and maturing at the expiration of the credit may be issued to an amount not exceeding $20,000,000, subject to the requirement that, as additional Bonds of this issue are sold, the proceeds shall be applied to the payment of advances under the credit and/or the amount of the credit shall be correspondingly reduced.

Pledged Revenues: The revenues pledged as security for these Bonds include the tax imposed on automobiles and other vehicles, importation and consumption of gasoline, one-half per cent tax on sales and gross receipts, the surcharge on customs duties, the tax on the export of money or its equivalent, the tax on the rent and income of real property or property rights and 50% of the excess territorial tax.

The amounts collected from the taxes under the Public Works Law in the first four fiscal years, after settlement for adjustments and refunds, and the official estimates of the revenues to be derived from such taxes for each fiscal year of the twenty-year period ending June 30, 1945, are as follows:

Year Ending June 30	Amounts Collected	Official Estimates
1926	$12,162,628.25	$10,000,000
*1927	15,904,075.20	16,000,000
1928	16,680,448.46	16,000,000
1929	18,034,340.41	18,000,000
1930-45 inclusive	———	18,000,000

* Does not include $2,958,574.34 transferred to the Special Fund for Public Works constituted by the Public Works Law.

Purpose of Issue: The Public Works Law of 1925 contemplates a comprehensive program of improvements, national in character, and of great economic importance to Cuba. The program includes the construction of the great Central Highway of over 700 miles in length, traversing the island and connecting the various Provinces with Havana; the construction of water works, bridges, sewer and drainage systems, public schools and public buildings. Over 62% of the Central Highway is substantially completed, and 341 miles are now in use. It is expected that the Central Highway will be completely finished and in use by March 1931. The Public Works 5½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds and said $20,000,000 credit are for the purpose of refunding or paying indebtedness of the Republic incurred for work completed and accepted in accordance with the provisions of the Public Works Law.

General: The present population of the Republic of Cuba is estimated in excess of 3,500,000. The total funded debt of the Republic as of the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1929, was $87,174,200, exclusive of $20,000,000 Public Works 5½% Serial Certificates outstanding, of which $77,660,000 was external. Floating indebtedness as of the same date amounted to approximately $5,000,000. Between 1904, the year during which the oldest of the external issues now outstanding was made, and January 31, 1930, the Republic of Cuba has retired, through payment of serial maturities or sinking fund operations, a total of $47,800,500 of external bonds.

It is expected that application will be made in due course to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

A substantial portion of this issue has been withdrawn for sale in Europe and Cuba.

All offerings are made when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of all legal proceedings by Messrs. EXECUTIVE OFFICES

February 3, 1930

Mr. William E. Donahue
Chicago Tribune
Tribune Tower,
Chicago, Illinois
Dear Mr. Donahue:

I was very much interested in your statement made recently that during the year 1929 Mandel Brothers had used 914,294 lines in the Chicago Tribune—more lineage than we have used in any previous year and more than any other retail store has ever used in any year.

As you know, our statement of operations for the year 1929 was just published. During this period our net retail sales increased $1,170,133.22. Individual transactions increased more than 650,000 over the previous year. The increase in sales volume was achieved with a satisfactory ratio of gross profit and with reduced operating costs. It is also interesting to note that during December we recorded the largest single day's volume in the history of the store. All of these facts seem to demonstrate convincingly the increasing public good-will enjoyed by Mandel Brothers.

Our organization feels that there is a definite relation between this tangible evidence of public favor and the lineage we have used in the Chicago Tribune—and credit a very considerable portion of our progress to increased business obtained from the Chicago Tribune audience.

Hence this letter to express to you and to your organization our sincere appreciation of your cooperation. I wish to assure you that, since we expect this business to continue under the same control and management for many years to come, we look forward with pleasure to a continuation of the friendly relations we have enjoyed with the Tribune, and an even accelerated growth for Mandel Brothers' business through these years, by the use of the columns of the Chicago Tribune.

With kindest personal regards,

Very sincerely yours
Leon Mandel II
General Manager

MANDEL BROTHERS

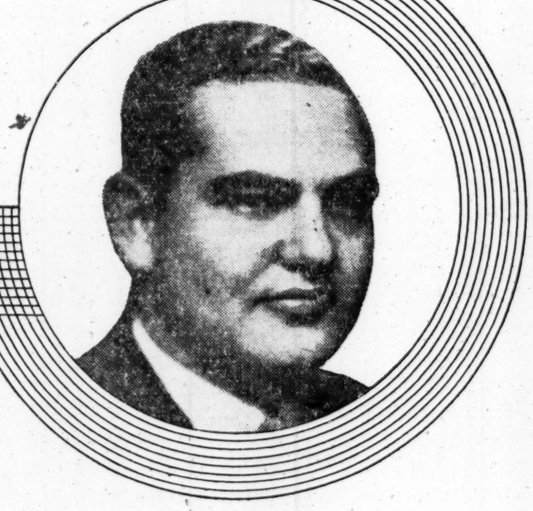
concentrates in the Chicago Tribune and increases retail sales more than a million dollars

". . . there is a definite relation between this evidence of public favor and the lineage we have used in the Chicago Tribune . . . since we expect this business to continue under the same control and management for many years to come, we look forward to a continuation of the friendly relations we have enjoyed with the Tribune, and an even accelerated growth for Mandel Brothers' business through these years, by the use of the columns of the Chicago Tribune."

LEON MANDEL II.
General Manager
MANDEL BROTHERS



IN 1929 Mandel Brothers used 914,294 lines of advertising in the Chicago Tribune—more advertising than anybody has ever bought in this newspaper before. And, looking at it from another angle, this was 608,173 MORE lines of advertising than the next Chicago newspaper received from Mandel Brothers, and 129,985 MORE lines, or 17% more, than all other Chicago newspapers combined received.

Mandel Brothers caters principally to women. The test of the success or failure of Mandel's advertising is whether or not it puts cash in the cash drawer. They don't have to wait weeks or months to find out whether their advertising pulls. They know immediately—on the same day and the day after their advertising appears.

Mandel's concentrates their advertising in the Chicago Tribune because the Tribune has demonstrated its ability to outpull any other Chicago newspaper.

"As you know," wrote Leon Mandel II., general manager of Mandel Brothers, in his letter reproduced here, "our statement of operations for the year 1929 was just published. During this period our net retail sales increased $1,170,133.22. Individual transactions increased more than 650,000 over the previous year. The increase in sales volume was achieved with a satisfactory ratio of gross profit and with reduced operating costs. It is also interesting to note that during December we recorded the largest single day's volume in the history of the store. All of these facts seem to demonstrate convincingly the increasing public good will enjoyed by Mandel Brothers."

And, we may add, they demonstrate convincingly that the way to reach the most responsive woman audience in Chicago is through the Chicago Tribune, daily and Sunday!

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Jim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by nine men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he murdered her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Sam Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for his attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Doc Brown, whom he claimed had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She says she has come to speak to her brother Steve. Jim asks her to dance and guides her to the other end of the room where Steve is sitting in a game of poker with Shear and others. As they reach the table, the lights go out and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead with a knife sticking in him.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

SUSPICION.

Manders turned and looked at the trail driver. His slightly protuberant eyes, hard as agates, fastened on him. On the brown neck of Rutledge were four red streaks.

The sheriff moved closer to him. "Blood," he said. "So it was you."

Instinctively Jim started to lift his hand to his neck. The officer caught his wrist and looked at the young man's fingers. He examined the other hand. Neither of them were stained. Manders frowned. Even if he had wiped his hands, there should be some trace of blood on them.

"No," Jim denied. But his voice carried no conviction. It had no ring of indignant innocence. He was trying to drive back a heavy weight of dread that pressed against his heart. If there was blood on his neck there could be only one means by which it could have got there.

The sheriff's gaze moved to the waist of the Texan. He pointed to the empty scabbard, where a hunting knife usually was sheathed.

"Where's your hog sticker?" he asked.

The Texan had been expecting that question. There was no use lying. He had cut his initials on the handle of the knife. His own men would be forced to testify that it belonged to him.

"That's it," he said, pointing to the one still protruding from the body.

Pete gave an exultant whoop. "Caught redhanded," he cried with an oath.

There was an ominous murmur among those present. A duel after a difficulty was one thing, and a killing that resulted from it would be condoned. But this was cold blooded murder. Shear had not been given a chance.

"String him up," some one urged.

"Get a rope," another cried.

Manders was a fighter. He had been elected to office on his record.

There was a . . . a groan.

"There won't be any of that," he announced with instant decision. "This man is my prisoner."

"But he didn't do it," a horrified protest came in a woman's low contralto.

Jim looked at Ellen. He had not dared turn his eyes upon her before for his glance call attention to the girl. Now everybody was staring at her.

"Why didn't you keep still?" he asked reproachfully.

Pete Moss cried out her name, taking a step toward the girl. "What are you doing here?" he asked.

"It's Ellen Lawson. She——"

Moss stopped. He was dumb with astonishment. On the right hand side of her print dress, about the thigh, was a rumpled spot stained red.

"How did that come there?" the sheriff asked.

Ellen shrank back within herself. All these eyes focused on her, eyes curious, accusing, clamorous as tongues, burned into her like branding irons. Steve pushed Moss aside and stood by the girl. He was very pale. His face reflected fear. He put one arm around her shoulders.

"Where do you come in, young fellow?" Manders asked.

"She's my sister."

"Live here in town?"

"No. We have taken up a claim nine miles out."

"Not employed here, is she?"

"No, sir," Steve answered with resentful emphasis.

"Don't push on the lines, buddie. It's my place to ask questions and hers and hers to answer them. Now let her talk. How do you know this man didn't kill Shear? Speak up, girl."

"Because——"

"Because what? There's blood on his face. His knife did it. He had a grudge at the marshal. What makes you so sure?"

"He couldn't have done it," she burst out. Then, with a little rush of other words, she added: "My fingers left the marks on his neck. See? I wiped them off on my dress later."

"Yes, I see," Manders said harshly. "Are you confessing that you killed Joe Shear, miss?"

Her eyes opened wide with horror. She shuddered. "No—no—no!" she groaned.

"Don't tell me that your nose just happened to bleed."

"No, I . . . I'll tell you all about it. I was dancing . . . with—Mr. Rutledge——"

"An old friend of yours, is he?"

"I never saw him but once before."

"What are you doing here, anyway?" Manders flung at her abruptly.

"I came to . . . speak to my brother on—on important business."

"Came to a public dance hall?" Manders was openly incredulous. "Why didn't you send for him?"

"I—I was afraid he wouldn't come. I—had to see him."

"We'll take that up later. Go on with your story," Manders ordered.

"I was dancing with Mr. Rutledge when the lights went out."

"What were you dancing with him for?" Pete Moss hurled at her fiercely. "When did he get to be a friend of yours?"

The sheriff turned to him, with the elaborate politeness that masked desperation. "Some one elect you a majordomo of this roundup, Moss?" he asked. "If so, I'll drop out; if not, you keep out, please."

Pete gave way sullenly. "Shoot," he said.

"Much obliged." Manders spoke to Ellen. "Go on, miss."

"They shot the lights out . . . and everybody got scared and tried to get to the back of the hall. Somebody pushed against me, so that I got separated from Mr. Rutledge. I was shoved into the side room here close to the table. There was a . . . a groan. Then I was jammed against a chair and . . . I put out my hand to steady myself. It . . . it . . . it . . . my hand——"

Ellen's words died away. She leaned on Steve and for a moment the light in her white face closed. But she recovered herself without fainting.

"Yes?" the sheriff asked, watching her closely.

She shuddered. "My hand fell on . . . it."

"On the knife or the wound?" he insisted inexorably.

"On the—wound."

"What did you do then?"

"I screamed. After that I don't know what I did till——"

"Till what?"

"Till Mr. Rutledge found me."

"Where did he find you?"

"Why, where I was standing."

"And where were you standing?"

"By the table."

"Was that before the candles were lit?"

"I don't know. I'm not sure. About the same time, I think."

"Not before?"

"It couldn't have been before, because in the darkness he wouldn't have found me."

"I'm not asking for explanations, but for facts, miss," the sheriff told her.

Ellen did not see to what his questions were driving her, but Jim Rutledge saw, and so did Buck Roe. Both of them waited, in a still tensity, for her final answer.

"I don't think it was before."

"Anyhow, there he was beside you when the first candles were lit?"

Good Morning!

The Rialto, home of burlesque, and one of the last of the loop theaters to exhibit silent pictures, has gone talkie, and presents as its first sound number an interesting little production featuring two of the most capable and well liked of the younger players, Mary Brian and Richard Arlen. The supporting cast, headed by Francis McDonald, is a dandy.

Miss Brian is seen as a small town girl. Mr. Arlen portrays an amusement park motor cycle racer. Each day Lou Larrigan wins and loses races in the motordrome, according to agreement with his partner, a former racing driver ("Bullet" McShane) with a far from savory record. Dave Gentry (Tully Marshall) is boss of the concession and he has his hands full keeping the two racers on amicable terms, for "Bullet" is always ready to play a mean trick and Lou isn't the boy to let him get away with anything without a fight.

The trio are in a hard place financially when enters Mr. Sam Hardy as what I believe is known as a "promoter." His name in the picture is "Windy" Wallace. "Windy" laughs airily at the idea of such a thing as money embarrassment and points out to the three that the root of evil can always be discovered if dug for in the right place. He thinks the time is at hand for the four of them to promote sure thing automobile races in small towns. That means setting the stage, laying bets, etc., long before the main event. See picture for details.

Larrigan is sent on ahead to attract attention to his prowess by performing at a county fair near the town selected as first pickings.

So far so good, BUT—the gay young fellow meets the daughter of the burg's richest and leading citizen and, for the first time in his trifling life, FALLS IN LOVE!

The Rialto screen will show you what happens after Larrigan decides to play the game—straight.

"Burning Up" is splendidly acted and synchronized, photographed, and directed. It has a number of laughs and packs considerable suspense, despite the fact that you're never much in doubt about what's going to happen from moment to moment.

QUALITY: Just—fair.
DIRECTION: Ditto.
PHOTOGRAPHY: All right.
SYNCHRONIZATION: Satisfactory.
DIALOGUE: The kind you soon forget.
STORY: Beautiful but poor maiden egged on by ambitious mamma, marries a rich young man she doesn't love after having been jilted by a poor rotter whom she does. Entrez complications.
REMARKS: The film has an able cast of popular players. A party staged on a house that is being moved, is an original feature. Otherwise the piece has a sort of moth-eaten aspect and is reminiscent of movies as they were in days when gentlemen preferred Theda Bara to blondes.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

HERE is a Success; no doubt of that. New York adores it, and has sent us a duplicate company so that we may have a contemporary share of Manhattanmania. "Strictly Dishonorable" is its candid title, and its purpose, as revealed at the Adelphi last evening, is to tell a frolicsome bedtime story about a little girl from Miss'ippi who tried to get herself seduced.

Putting aside the dangerous question as to whether or not adolescent virgins with southern accents act that way after half an hour's acquaintance with opera tenors, the play is not notably believable. It hardly tries to be plausible; it is more farce than comedy. It is as arbitrary in its sexual layout as a story from the Decameron.

Nor is it, except in its direct and unblushing approach to biological fact, particularly "modern." Its plot-formula recalls the methods by which Robert W. Chambers, in his fiction, widened magazine circulations some twenty years ago; the maiden is willing, even invitational, but the man, although he burns, is stricken with chivalric qualms. Disrobing, titillations, all the erotic stimuli; and then—noble negation by the man and wedding bells for the eager but not innocent ingenue. All this is to be found in "Strictly Dishonorable," and it is strictly according to the pink boudoir technique of old Mr. Chambers.

Last night's omens were favorable for the box office, but as a play there is nothing remarkable about the hit at the Adelphi except its marketability. This play's material is slight; its atmosphere is not illusory; and its characters are merely silhouettes of reality. Its sexliness carameled with baby talk makes it, however, a sharp incitement to the imagination.

Perhaps the architectural and domestic arrangements of "Strictly Dishonorable" prevent a Chicagoan from finding any conviction in the movements and behavior of its characters. The story asks us to believe that a well known judge and a renowned opera tenor inhabit rooms for which a third-rate Italian speakeasy serves as a foyer. This convenient juxtaposition of quarters suggests the old French farces, but it does not give the story the mood of American environment.

The second, or disrobing, act contains nothing to surprise a public accustomed to the feminine revelations of the revues. But although the exceedingly young leading woman, Margaret Perry, is a pretty child, and although the transition from modest dress to seductive pyjamas is accomplished with charm, the episode is hard to swallow. The play asks us to believe that a well bred, foolish virgin would behave this way. But we know that she wouldn't, unless she were a hard boiled graduate of the morals courts.

Miss Perry, a marvel for her years, is the focus of interest in the performance. She is saccharine; she chirps too sweetly; she has an immature mannerism of using her arms like wings; but she is a promising actress who gives the play a certain amount of glamour. Charles Richman is excellent as the intruding, sound hearted judge; and Edward Raquello plays the Valentino of the opera, who charms the heroine into her frustrated fall with satisfactory Italian sleekness.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question H. L. Cover, 1851 Milwaukee avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

The Answers.

George W. McKay, 329 South Honoré street, musician—There's an instance where wishing won't do any good. For the time being I wouldn't mind having his size and capabilities, due to financial advantages. But I imagine he will be handicapped, because he will be getting heavier and he will have to diet all his life.

Al M. Levy, 1524 South Avers avenue, butcher—I don't believe so, because I think I am plenty large enough myself. Carnera is too far from normal; even now he is almost too big to be in the ring. It is nice to be a strong and healthy man, but to be abnormal would not be desirable.

John H. Kritikson, 4101 Kimball avenue, sales promotion manager—No, because a man of Carnera's size would be too conspicuous. On the street, with a group of friends, such a man would be in the center of the stage whether one wanted to be so spotlighted or not. Another reason is that a man of his size would have a hard time getting a suitable position.

John A. Ahlstrand, 1419 Elmdale avenue, salesman—I don't think so. They would be pointing me out as being somewhat of a freak. Of course, freaks can capitalize on their freakness. But I think I would rather be of an average so far as size is concerned. I would rather be a colossus mentally than physically.

John Loedler, 129 Parks avenue, Joliet, Ill., clerk—I don't know what to say. It would help sometimes, and sometimes it wouldn't. Sometimes any one would like to be a physical giant, so that he could make the other fellow behave. Otherwise, one would be a little out of place; too big;

Lincoln in Religion, Politics, as Revealed by Old Friends

SEEKING OFFICE

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Fresh phases of the character of Abraham Lincoln are revealed in a quartet of letters obtained recently by Emanuel Hertz, New York attorney. He exhibited them yesterday to callers at the Blackstone hotel. Mr. Hertz, an ardent collector of new material concerning the great emancipator, was on his way, with Mrs. Hertz, to make the Lincoln day address tomorrow at the University of Illinois at Urbana.

The letters are of unusual interest to Chicagoans because one concerns the appointment of a Chicago man to a position Lincoln hoped to secure, while the other was written to a Chicagoan, requesting indorsement for the appointment.

They were penned in 1849, after Lincoln had served a term as the lone Whig congressman from Illinois during the administration of President James K. Polk. Contents of the letters reveal the attitude of Lincoln toward party loyalty, and indicate his desire to be consulted regarding political patronage. The longest of the four was addressed to W. B. Preston, secretary of the navy under President Zachary Taylor. The Clay mentioned is the famous Henry Clay.

The date is May 16, 1849, from Springfield, Ill. The letter follows:

"Dear sir:

"It is a delicate matter to oppose the wishes of a friend; and consequently I address you on the subject I now do with no little hesitation. Last night I received letters assuring me it was not improbable that Justin Butterfield, of Chicago, Ill., would be appointed commissioner of the general land office—it was to avert this very thing that I called on you at your rooms one Sunday evening shortly after you were installed, and besought you that, so far as in your power, no man from Illinois should be appointed to any high office without my being at least heard on the question. You were kind enough to say you thought my request a reasonable one. Mr. Butterfield is my friend, is well qualified, and, I suppose, would be faithful in the office—so far, good—but now for the objection—in 1840 we fought a fierce and laborious battle in Illinois, many of us spending almost the entire year in the contest. The general victory came, and with it the appointment of a set of drones, including this same Butterfield, who never spent a dollar or lifted a finger in the fight—the place he got was that of district attorney—the defection of Tyler came, and then B. played off and on and kept the office until after Polk's election.

"Again, winter and spring before the last, when you and I were almost sweating blood to have Gen. Taylor nominated, this same man was ridiculing the idea, and going for Mr. Clay; and when Gen. T. was nominated, if he went out of Chicago to aid in his election, it is more than I ever heard of or believe—yet when the election is secured, by other men's labor, and even against his effort, why, he is the first man on hand for the best office our state lays any claim to. Shall this thing be? Our Whigs will throw down their arms and fight no more, if the fruit of their labor is thus disposed of—if there is one man in this state who desires B's appointment to anything, I declare I have not heard of him—what influence operates [sic] for him I cannot conceive—your position makes it a matter of peculiar interest to you, that the administration shall be successful; and be assured, nothing can more endanger it than making appointments through old hawker foreign influences which offend, rather than gratify, the people immediately interested in the offices.

"Can you not find time to write me, even half so long a letter as this? I shall be much gratified if you will. Your obt. servt. A. Lincoln."

VIEWS OF FAITH

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Historical proof of Abraham Lincoln's full acceptance of the Christian religion has been revealed by authorities of the Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, in their search for historical matter for the observance of the institute's 75th anniversary, which its president, the Rev. Dr. F. C. Eiselen, has announced will be observed this spring.

It is stated by some biographers of the martyr President that Lincoln did not embrace the Christian faith. Lincoln was related to Garrett Biblical institute in two specific ways, according to findings in the seminary's archives. In the first place, Bishop Matthew Simpson, war time president of Garrett, was a personal friend of the President and gave the eulogy at the time of Lincoln's burial at Springfield.

In the second place, the Republican convention hall, known as the "Wigwam," in which Lincoln was first nominated for the presidency, was erected on property then and still owned by the Garrett Biblical institute. The site now contains the Franklin MacVeagh concern on Lake street near the river.

"He believed in Christ, the Savior of Sinners," Bishop Simpson said at Lincoln's funeral, "and I think he was sincere in trying to bring his life into harmony with the principles of revealed religion. As a ruler I doubt if any President ever has shown such trust in God, or in public documents so frequently has referred to divine aid."

While Lincoln never professed Christian conversion in the accepted evangelical sense of his day, yet in his reply to a minister's question of his love for Christ as reported at Garrett seminary, Lincoln said:

"When I became President I did not love Him; when God took my son I was greatly impressed, but still I did not love Him; but when I stood upon the battlefield of Gettysburg I gave my heart to Christ, and I can now say that I do love the Savior."

A few weeks later Lincoln penned a shorter letter to Dr. J. B. Herrick of Chicago, asking his indorsement for the appointment. Through the intercession of Daniel Webster, who "went to the front" for Butterfield, the latter secured the appointment and Lincoln's efforts were thus wasted. To Dr. Herrick he wrote from Springfield on June 3, 1849.

"Dear sir: It is now certain that either Mr. Butterfield or I will be commissioner of the general land office—if you are willing to give me preference, please write me to that effect, at Washington, whither I am going. There is not a moment to be lost. Yours truly. A. Lincoln."

Earlier correspondence shows Lincoln to have been in communication with Dr. Herrick over the matter of appointments. A letter from Washington is dated Jan. 19, 1849, and is worded thus:

"Dearest Doctor: Your letter from Chicago, recommending William Black for register of the land office at Vandalia, is received—two others, both good men, have applied for the same office before—I have made no pledge; but if the matter falls into my hands, I shall, when the time comes, try to do right, in view of all the lights then before me—I do not feel authorized to advise any one of the applicants what course to pursue. Yours truly. A. Lincoln."

Pottery and Pewter Display Reflects the Modernist Colorings

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There are two interesting craft exhibitions going on just now. At the Cordon club may be seen a group of fascinating pottery by Myrtle Merritt French, in which the artist has made use of a variety of colors and of the fresh designs and lines that modernism permits. The second exhibit is of pewter and is the work of Rudy Renzius, who is having a one-man show in studio 883 of the Palmer house.

Rudy Renzius won his laurels as a master craftsman in the competitive fields of Stockholm and Berlin. The Metropolitan museum has loaned for this exhibit the replica of the dressing table he executed for Marie of Rumania, the replica is a part of the permanent collection of the museum. This is but one of several pieces significant for their beauty and originality in the show.

Pewter came into being from utilitarian motives and it has developed into one of our most beautiful contemporary mediums of artistic expression. The Field Museum of Natural history owns some of the earliest examples of pewter work, examples which antedate the Christian era. London had its Pewterers' gülld as early as 1348. The current exhibit illustrates why pewter will remain permanently as one road to an artist's self-expression.

The last lecture offered by the Cambridge School of Architecture will take place tomorrow morning at 21 o'clock at the Fortnightly club. The lecture is open to every one and promises to be of the greatest interest. Prof. Haffner is to speak on "Modern Trend in Decoration" and that title seems to offer something of importance to a number of people.

The most important formal opening of the week is that of paintings by A. G. Warshawsky at the Anderson galleries. The exhibition opened yesterday and will be reviewed tomorrow.

Children Want to Receive the Baby with Open Arms

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

Yesterday we were trying to imagine what our feelings, conscious or otherwise, would be if we were an only child and a baby brother or sister were sprung on us out of a clear sky—if you don't mind the inelegance of the mixed metaphor. And the last sentence was: "Do you think it's fair?"

Perhaps that question should be, "Do you think it's wise?"

It isn't. It isn't wise, or fair, or kind. And this doesn't mean merely because of possible jealousy, or hurt feelings, or missing the center of the stage—though all those would be reactions to avoid causing in the other children.

There are other deeper and more subtle effects that a new baby may have on the only child; and these effects may be wholesome or otherwise, depending largely on the parents. The advent of a new baby does something to the status of the other children in the family, and I think particularly to the youngest or to the only child. Whether that change in status is made smoothly and wisely is an important thing.

An article in this department some time ago suggested sharing the coming of the new baby long before it had come. This should be done, not only in making known the truth of where he comes from, but in preparing the soil of the child's mind and emotions for the change it will mean in his home.

Gradually children can be made to realize that a new baby means many new things—a new interest and love for them to experience, and new care and a large share of their parents' time and attention diverted from them. At the same time they can receive tacit assurance that having more children does not mean less love for any one of them.

Most children want brothers and sisters and are inclined to receive the new baby with very loving open arms. The difficult time is not the anticipation of the baby's coming, but it may be the time after the baby has arrived.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Wheel Chair Would Help.

"I am interested in an elderly woman who is an invalid and must spend all her days indoors. It is so long since she has been out in the fresh air and sunshine that she is fairly hungry for a day in the open. If she had a wheel chair it would not be so difficult to take her out on mild days, but, of course, she cannot buy one. Has one of your readers such a chair to give? MRS. M."

Perhaps, happily and fortunately, you have been able to dispense with the wheel chair which you found such a comfort and joy while you were ill or incapacitated. Wouldn't you like to know that some one else is enjoying this same comfort because of your generosity?

Three darling little boys who live next door to me were told recently that a little baby sister was coming to them soon. They were delighted and made many plans for the little girl.

One morning they were shown a new brother. They were astounded, particularly Tommy, 4, who came over quite out of breath to announce, "You know our baby has come and and he isn't a she, she is a he."

Eye Shadow, When Skillfully Applied, Can Work Wonders

by Gabriele Ziemke

Yesterday we talked of the colors that might be worn by the pale, blue eyed person. Today we would like to continue the subject of what amazing things can be done to eyes by the colors worn.

A French girl demonstrated before an admiring group her trick of adding rare beauty to her violet eyes, which she claims under not-dressed-up circumstances are nothing to rave about. She uses a purplish eye shadow, no mascara, no eyebrow pencil though she feels she could use the latter on her eyebrows with benefit. But if she did, her eyes would be affected. She wants to concentrate all foreign color to deepen that violet color in her eye.

While she was talking she wore a smartly tailored day dress of two tone purple. The upper part of the dress was a lighter shade than the skirt, but still a warm lavender. And mauve is her favorite evening shade.

There are light amber eyes, too, that with the proper coloring of dresses respond with deep and warming beauty. You see them sometimes with a pale red head. Maybe because I know one of the type who does it, I am prejudiced into thinking it is a common mistake of theirs to wear white. It gives the eyes no color at all. Certain shades of green do lovely things to both hair and eyes of the shade we speak of, but greens of the "nonshouting" variety always. When trying to increase the depth or warm the glow of an eye, soft, neutral tones are always best; also, soft, nonshiny materials.

Brown eyes of the pale variety are easy enough to deepen with just the right shade of brown, tan, orange, or henna. But there are browns and tans, too, that are oldish in effect—the dull and so-called practical shades. In fact, brown eye shadow applied lightly may give a slightly oldish or tired look to the eye. So, you just can't go out and say, "I'll have some brown, please."

The Arts Club Houses Group of Activities

BY THALIA

The Arts club is performing extra heavy duty this season as a locale for society affairs.

Its galleries serve to accommodate not only the customary teas and exhibits arranged by the club itself, but also musicales, dances, and dinner parties for other organizations and what are known as "private parties." Yesterday morning there was a large attendance for the lecture given by Thomas Munro.

The dining rooms were barely cleared out in time to lay the tea table for the Friends of Opera, whose annual meeting took place at 3:30 o'clock. Today there are several large and small luncheon parties, and this afternoon the English Speaking union is giving a tea for Miss Constance Collier and other players in the cast of "The Matriarch."

Following Mr. Munro's dissertation on "Expressing the Machine Age in Painting and Sculpture," Miss Alice Stouffer had a small luncheon for him, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, just arrived from the east, was present, and also Norman Jacobsen, the artist whose work is now on exhibit. Miss Nellie Carpenter also had a luncheon party.

The annual business was attended to at the Friends of Opera meeting, although several of the reports had to be by proxy, and the officers and committee chairmen were all announced to have been reelected. Following the reports, Mrs. Samuel A. Ettelson and Miss Gertrude Ehrhart sang, and then the several hundred present adjourned to tea. A great bouquet of yellowed calla lilies and laurel leaves and tall candelabra ornamented the table. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller McCormick, reëlected honorary chairman of the group, and Mrs. Norman Meeker, chairman, were both present, as were Miss Helen Gilbert, recording secretary, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, one of the vice chairmen and chairman of the program committee, and Miss Alice Barkman, executive secretary. Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. Edward Hines, and Mrs. Jacob Baur also are vice chairmen. The officers who succeed themselves include Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, corresponding secretary; Herman Waldeck, treasurer; Mrs. Baur, chairman of the box committee, and Mrs. Holbrooke Clarke, chairman of the music students committee.

Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland is to introduce Miss Collier before she says a few words this afternoon at the English Speaking union tea, and assisting at the tea table will be Mrs. Walter S. Kirk, Mrs. Theodore Tieken, Mrs. Francis F. Callahan, Miss Estelle Ward, and Mrs. John Zane.

Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell, Mrs. Harold White, Mrs. George Bryson, and Mrs. Arthur Slade are giving luncheon parties at the club today.

The Junior Friends of Art are to hold their February meeting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Constance Collier and Baroness Monica von Miltitz are to be special guests. Baroness von Miltitz is to speak on "Music and Art in Germany Today."

The Chicago Drama league announces a tea for Tuesday, Feb. 18, at the Blackstone hotel. Louis Untermeyer, poet, critic, and anthologist, is to lecture on "Critic's Half Holiday."

Of "A Poet's Attendance on the Play." Miss Helen Tieken is in charge of the program, and Mrs. Hugh McKay Bell has arranged for the distinguished guests of the day. Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley, Mrs. Arthur Dole, Mrs. Robert Isham, and Mrs. Joseph Mayer will pour.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins of 40 Lake Shore drive leave next Friday for Phoenix, Ariz., to be there about a month.

The Joseph E. Otises and their daughter, Miss Emily Otis, of 1415 Astor street, are going to Santa Fé, N. M., the latter part of this month. Mr. Otises' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Otises, are moving into their new adobe house in Santa Fé this next week.

Mrs. Alma Louise Dickson and Mrs. Harrow Krum of Lake Forest have returned from New York City where they have been the guests of Mrs. Dickson's aunt, Mrs. Arthur Aldis, for the last several weeks.

The John T. McCutcheons and Charles T. Atkinsons stopped in Miami on their way to Treasure Island in the Bahamas, and during their stopover were given a lunch party by Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Poors in their cabana at the Bath club.

The George Tracy Buckinghams of 30 East Walton place sailed for Honolulu on Saturday on the Malolo, the same boat the John F. L. Curtises and the Moise Dreyfuses embarked on.

The Wolcott Blairs of 2700 Lakeview avenue, Mrs. Watson F. Blair of 1550 Lake Shore drive, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Cudahy Jr. of 2430 Lakeview avenue all set forth for Florida on Saturday.

Urges Schools Help to Curb Crime Trends

Such is the conviction of Rodney H. Brandon, superintendent of public welfare. He bade the state's citizenry yesterday to look to the home, the church, and the school, in particular, for crime prevention. He spoke at the annual meeting of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society in the Palmer house.

"Illinois right now has the highest percentage of its population in prison at any time in its 112 years of history," Mr. Brandon asserted. "The increase to 8,200 men and women has been appalling in the last two decades. It is evident that something must be done to reduce the influx of criminals."

Mr. Brandon described the typical prisoner as an adult, developed from an under-privileged child, who has become lazy, an habitual liar, an idler who thinks he is too smart to work. Mr. Brandon said Illinois could be so organized that no boy would grow to manhood with such characteristics. He laid much blame on the schools.

"I plead with the schools to amplify their service to take care of any customer that comes along," Mr. Brandon continued. "Some one has got to tell the boys of Illinois the difference between right and wrong, that truth is truth. Their interests should be studied separately.

"The state spends a great deal of money on unimportant things while the homeless, churchless, and schoolless children are being converted into criminals. And don't think we are not paying for their keep. We pay $275 a year for each person locked up in Illinois, while for the entire life of a child in public education, based on 1910-'20 figures, we spend only $255 a year. How can we get Illinois to pay more for prevention than for cure?"

Mr. Brandon declared the churches should become social service agencies rather than seeking to supply "tickets to heaven." The average child, he said, receives only ten hours of religious and moral training a year. The problem really can be solved in the homes, he concluded, but "the boys who have homes are not in prison."

C. V. Williams, superintendent of the society, said that problems of this already difficult year were accentuated by the inability of the county to finance the care of children at board in family homes. The society will be obliged to borrow heavily, he said, to meet the bills incurred by 535 wards of the Juvenile court, many physically handicapped. Mr. Williams announced that Chauncey McCormick, a director, is working to interest church groups to aid in underwriting $100,000 to be used only for the children's expenses until the county has funds for their care.

The society for 47 years has aided homeless and neglected children over the state, regardless of race or creed. On Dec. 31 it had 1,830 children under its daily care. The total expenditures for the year were $390,526. The society closed 1929 with a deficit of $22,537. Carroll H. Sudler was reëlected president.

SOCIETY AT PALM BEACH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Orville Thompson will give a luncheon at the Everglades club tomorrow. Mrs. George Rasmussen is aiding in arrangements for the annual benefit to be given for under-privileged children on Feb. 25. Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld, the former Billie Burke, is chairman of the committee arranging the benefit program. Patronesses include Mrs. George A. McClintock of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps of Pittsburgh, and others.

Quick Disposal of Stray Animals Gets Another Society's O.K.

An echo from the stormy session of the Anti-Cruelty society two weeks ago when Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin resigned as a director, was heard yesterday at a meeting of the Chicago Humane Education association in the Palmer House. Mrs. McLaughlin favored efforts to find homes for strays, the Anti-Cruelty society felt it kinder to kill them almost immediately.

The Humane Education association adopted a resolution approving the Anti-Cruelty society's stand. Mrs. McLaughlin had contended that animals be kept alive for 48 hours, as they might be lost, so owners might claim them.

Mrs. Charles S. Peterson, yesterday making a plea for a better understanding on the part of the public in the care of pets, declared that animals often are abused through ignorance.

"Nor do people know the best methods of disposing of unwanted pets," Mrs. Peterson said. "Kittens are taken from their homes and deserted, left to the mercy of dogs and storms. Or housewives tie up doomed kittens in neat paper bags and deposit them in handy garbage pails. There the little creatures may starve at leisure. Such practices can be abolished only by educational means."

The association was founded in 1927 to see that children are taught in the schools to be kind to animals as required by law.

A FACE so Newly Fresh and LOVELY

Miss Arden's famous Treatment assures you of a face as newly fresh and fragrant as a garden after a dawn rain.

First of all, a glorious cleansing (nobody cleanses enough—literally tons of grime sift down on this modern world). Then your muscles are given a firm, helping hand which lifts the sagging muscles and tissues back to firmness and elasticity.

Now with a clean, clear skin and your muscles well up, you should investigate the Vienna Youth Mask which pours into the inner tissues that electric energy which keeps one young! While you lie and rest, dreamy and relaxed, this precious energy sings into your tired eyes, and tissues, and hair, lifts your drooping mouth, firms and revivifies your throat. You emerge renewed and rejoiced that in this crowded world there can be rebirth so tranquilly.

One Was Sufficient.

During the few weeks before Christmas I worked in a book store which sold greeting cards. The day before Christmas a man came in asking me to show him some cards with a verse and the words, "To My Wife." I stepped away to wait on another customer and then came back to him. He held the card he liked the best.

I said: "And how many would you like?" The amazed look on his face told me what an embarrassing thing I had said. A. S.

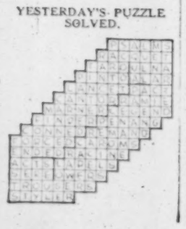
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: No Justice

Elmer Praises Baritone, Then Greets Quartet

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

In John Charles Thomas, baritone, we enjoyed a radio soloist of note last evening. He appeared on the Family Party orchestral program from New York through W-G-N, 8:30 to 9.

Newcomers to radio, at least locally, were the Clef Barons, a Negro quartet of the Bronze Actors of America, on the W-G-N 9:30 to 10 program. Those of us who are clamoring for the different found the different here. The singers offered a standard concert performance. The selections that I heard were popular selections and among these, "Serenading the Moon" and "Singing in the Rain," the arrangements were almost of a contrapuntal complexity. In fact, these numbers were a pretty illustration of what may some day be expected from a fuller development of the popular "hesitation effect" type of song.

The Chicago Madrigal club gave an all-Shakespearean concert from WLS, 9:30 to 10. Announcer Don Malin stated that D. A. Clippinger, the director, is "a lover of Shakespeare, a Shakespeare scholar extraordinary."

The concert by the Rochester Civic orchestra through KYW, 9 to 9:30, was another of radio's important events.

BANK CASHIER HELD FOR PROBE OF HIS ACCOUNTS

Merle Shewman, 30 years old, 1950 Lincoln avenue, cashier of the Old Colony State bank, 1215 North Clark street, was held at the Hudson avenue police station last night while officials of the bank were investigating an alleged shortage of approximately $10,000 in his accounts. The bank, in any event, will suffer no loss since it is fully protected by insurance.

Shewman was arrested on the complaint of Arvid L. Peterson, president of the bank, and is to be arraigned in the Felony court today on a charge of forgery, the bank officials claiming that he had forged a note to cover the alleged shortage. No formal charge had been placed against him last night.

Peterson said the examination of the books had not been completed but he said that the alleged cashier's shortage would not exceed $10,000 and probably would be less than that amount.

Selfishness Heads List of Qualities Most Heartily Hated

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If you were asked what characteristic you dislike most in a person, what would your answer be?

The question was recently asked of a number of persons. Selfishness won first place, with conceit not far behind. Untruthfulness was a close runner up. Persons without sense of obligation [social or business] were voted undesirables. The male who is the life of the party until the dinner check is due to arrive got particularly dishonorable mention. And noisy eating was noted among undesirable habits, also.

While not completing a list of undesirable qualifications, still the aforementioned "offensives" cover a fairly broad area of generally unpopular human territory, do they not?

Perhaps we might get more constructive value from a compilation of graces and charms that have widest appeal. In which event, would you, with me, let a generous nature head the list?

The nicest people in the world are those who are generous of heart, mind, yes, and even hand. On "this and that, there may be divergence of opinion since there is a growing tendency to overrate people who have money and know how to hang on to it. Such persons may be laudable and admirable, according to the point of view, but the lovable people are open minded, as well as open hearted and open minded. Of course, we do not mean idiotic dispensers nor reckless wasters, but just people who do not make money possession any higher place in the scheme of happiness than is its rightful due.

Without the generous heart we would have, indeed, the cold and selfish world that it is so often accused of being. From such pour all the blessings of cheer, sympathy and praise. Without the generous of mind, our world would be made unbearable with taboos and intolerable laws, bigotries and personal liberty restrictions. The generous of mind practice the principles of live and let live.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Chrysanthemums require as much work and care as any crop grown, and to make them show a profit the grower should choose varieties that will cut a large percentage of flowers, is the opinion of Edward J. Larsen, an officer of a leading floral house at Indianapolis. If this flower is given careful culture it should have it will continue to hold its place in the public's favor and continue to return growers a good profit for the time and space devoted to it.

Middle west florists can meet the increasing competition of far west growers of chrysanthemums by supplying their local markets with well grown flowers of the better varieties throughout the season, Mr. Larsen believes. Our earliest varieties, such as Mrs. Frost, Golden Frost, and Golden Glow, do not show as good an average cutting as later ones, partly because if one wishes to cut blooms in September an early crown bud must be taken. This bud must be taken the first part of July and if hot weather comes right at that time some of the buds may not develop. We now have a list of second earlies that will develop a splendid average of perfect blooms from the terminal bud, so we can now cut good flowers from the first of October on.

"Probably no cut flower is so generally planted as the chrysanthemum," says Mr. Larsen. "Hence in selecting a list of varieties, both in the large incurved and pompon types, care should be used not to get several varieties of the same color that will bloom at the same time." With a little forethought in planning one will be able to have a continuous cut of good flowers from the first of September well into December.

The stock plants are the keystone of the following year's crop and should have the best of care. However, it often is cheaper for the average grower to buy his cuttings than to give valuable bench room and time for the stock plants. It also gives him a larger variety from which to choose and he can keep his planting list up to date."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Two Old American Recipes.

Owendaw bread got revived in conversation days and then, later, I found the recipe for it in the most ancient southern cook book I own, "House and Home; or, the Carolina Housewife, by a Lady of Charleston," which lady was Miss Rutledge, spoken of as brilliarly as possible in the year 1924, when I was in Charleston. I also visited with several grandmothers concerning the old time cooking and this book. My edition is the third, printed in 1855.

The following recipe for Owendaw bread is not the one in that, but one tested in 1918: One cup fine hominy, one tablespoon shortening, two cups, two tablespoons white cornmeal, salt and one-half cups of boiling water, one cup of milk, one-half teaspoon soda. Put the cup of hominy into a double boiler with the cup and a half of boiling water and cook for thirty minutes. While hot add the shortening—butter—and stir in the cup of milk, then the two eggs beaten and lastly the two tablespoons of white cornmeal are added.

Mix well, then turn into a buttered pan bread pan and bake for one-half hour. Have the dish hot when the batter is poured in unless the oven heats strongly at the bottom which causes the batter to rise amply with the egg leaven and the steam generated. Serve from dish in which it is baked. Perhaps you can slice it—one seem extra fine with a good sharp gravy—or dip it out like any hominy. It is a most palatable dish and worthy of a frequent place in the menu. When cold it slices perfectly and may be fried like mush than which it is really more attractive.

The following is a recipe more than two hundred years old for a baked Indian pudding, often called merely "Baked Indian": Scald a quart of milk, which may be skimmed milk instead of whole, and stir into it seven tablespoons of sifted Indian meal [yellow corn meal], a teaspoon of salt, a cup of molasses [half a standard cup but more can be used], a great handful of ginger or sifted cinnamon. It is best to try a small measure first, lest not more than a teaspoon]. Bake in a slow oven, frequently stirring in the top, as you do an old-fashioned rice pudding.

Dainty Frilled Vests Mark the Spring Suits

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The vest is purning against the blouse in Fashion's spring primaries. Feminine imitations of that once consecratedly masculine garment crop up persistently in the salons of the smartest Paris couturiers. These new vests are not affairs of buttons and pockets. They are befrilled and betucked in the best lingerie manner. They take their name from their cut-away outline, from their abbreviated length and their slender fit. A light or contrasting gilet lends a touch of gayety to the semi-severe spring costumes and admirably solves that old waistlines problem, veiling possible family squabbles between waist and skirt.

Say whatever you like about the conveniences of the insille blouse, there is no denying that it always does look rather informal. New vests may be either sleeved or sleeveless, and they have a great advantage over the masculine article, because a girl can take off her coat and appear charmingly dressed, while her brother is shockingly negligee in his shirt sleeves. The feminine vest is cut of whole cloth and its back is as Queen Anne as its front, while the back of Brother Bill's vest is positively disreputable.

Jean Patou uses black and white to make this ensemble for the first spring days, starring the white crêpe vest and giving it able support with a white crêpe rose in the boutonniere. He relieves it of any suspicion of masculinity by edging it with a plaited frill of the white crêpe. And he softens its plain décolleté with a little cowboy scarf translated into terms of Paris girlishness. He fits his waist-coat to the feminine waist with those little tucked side tricks that he uses so cleverly. The semi-tailored costume is of heavy black crêpe.

Fullness is given to the skirt by means of two slightly flaring box plaits in the front. The three-quarter coat carries an echo of the pleat motif down its back. The simple, narrow, rolled collar is very characteristic of Jean Patou. Large petal shaped pockets, placed rather low on the sides of the coat, add smartness and practicality. Patou sponsors for wear with this costume white suede slip-on gloves recalling the surface of the white crêpe blouse. A back antelope bag completes this supremely chic ensemble.

BIGGEST SHI

Stimson Plan Fir
Congress Critics

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—cial.]—A demand that battleship ity between the American and Br fleets should be attained by scra the Rodney and Nelson, Britain's erful superdreadnoughts, rather by the construction of a new Un States capital ship, was sounded congress today.

Elimination of both the British a tal ships, recognized as the most erful fighting vessels afloat, wa manded by Chairman Fred A. Brit [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval aff committee.

Simultaneously, Chairman Wi E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], of the se foreign relations committee, issue statement attacking the Stimson p for building one big battleship parable to the Rodney and asse that the best way to settle the p controversy would be for the Br to scrap the Rodney.

Show General Reaction.

The attack by the two congressm one a house "big navy" man and t other a senate "little navy" man— the Stimson proposal to build up British battleship strength was ind tive of the general dissatisfacti which had met publication of the va ous phases of the American propos by Secretary of State Henry L. Sti son, chief of the United States dele tion. With few exceptions, neith pacifist nor big navy man has had good word for the Hoover navy pr posals.

Naval officers, especially officer the navy general board, welcome idea of having the United States bu a big battleship in order to comp sate for the British advantage ga by possession of the Rodney and N son, but thus far no member of co gress has come out in favor of t proposal.

Britten Tells How.

"I can see no reason for the Un States building just one big battle to gain parity," Chairman Britten today. "I am in favor of retai battleships in the fleet and I wa more battleships built, but I think w should build ships that will oper effectively with the other vessels the fleet. If the size of battleship reduced and we build one big vesse will be a misfit. It would be far ter for Great Britain to scrap th Rodney and Nelson, then both cou ries would have parity.

"Thus far it seems to me that delegation at London has been l ing to the whims of the British ingrality. The British wanted us build small cruisers, which are n fitted for our needs, and we consente to do it. The British asked us to limi our big gun cruisers to eighteen an we acquiesced. I suppose the Britis asked us to accept one big battles so they would not have to scrap th big vessels.

Why Let Britain Decide?

"I shall oppose constructing the bi battleship or the eleven small cruiser which we would have the right t build if a treaty is based on the Am ican proposals. Why should we bu small cruisers just because the B ish government wants us to? W not build the big 8 inch gun ships the type which the highest naval of ficials have told congress this country must have for naval security?

"The United States destroyed its most modern and its finest battleships in 1922 to make the Washington con ference a success," Chairman Brit ten asserted. "If Ramsay MacDonald would follow the example set by former President Harding at the 1922 parley he would bring about battle ship equality with the United States by scrapping both the Rodney and Nelson.

"Judging from its actions, the Brit ish government at this conference" is looking upon the United States as a prospective enemy rather than as a partner in bringing about world peace."

For "Parity" by Scrapping.

Mr. Borah said he was for parity with Great Britain if it could be obtained by scrapping vessels.

"If it can only be had by spending millions on the kind of ship which will never in all human probability be used, then I feel no interest in parity," he said.

"Great Britain can well afford to scrap battleships. At any rate, we ought not to think of spending money for battleships, simply for the purpose of parity."
